ALDERMEN MEET

Charter Objection Made To Asking Legislature To Control Liquor Conditions

An unusual number of spectators were present Monday evening at the meeting of the aldermen, undoubtedly attracted by the announcement that the License committee would make a report on the conditions in this city resulting from the abolition of the "pony express" last summer. Reports were received from a majority of the committee and individual reports from President Blakemore and Alderman Malcolm, minority members of the committee, all of which are printed in full in this issue of the GRAPHIC.

An attempt to have the board take action on lines suggested by the majority was prevented by Alderman Pratt, who raised a charter objection to taking action that evening and the matter will be threshed out at the next meeting on Dec. 14th.

President Blakemore was in the chair and Alderman Malcolm was the only member absent.

No one appeared at hearings held on Telephone petitions for poles on Central street, Floral street, on Edison petitions for poles on Brooks avenue, on the Telephone and Edison Companies joint petition for poles on Hancock avenue, and on petition of F. H. Loveland for a gasoline license on Ruthven road.

Mayor Childs re-appointment of Oswald J. McCourt as Overseer of the Poor was laid over under the rules.

The mayor also sent in communications from the Water Dept. asking for $5000 to purchase iron pipe, $1750 for improving hydrant service, for additional appropriations for Fuel, Services, and Meters, from the Street Commissioner for $2800 for completing sewer in Chestnut street, Waban, from the Health Department for $2700 additional for tuberculosis, and submitting claims of Herbert E. Currier and John A. Lowell.

Communications were also received from the Commission on Taxation of Signs on a hearing on December 4, from the Boston Elevated Co. relative to Railway Police Officers, and the Thanksgiving Day proclamation of Governor Walsh was also placed on file.

The invitation to attend a reception to be given December 7 to Miss Charlotte E. Sewall who has just retired as a teacher in the Underwood school was accepted.

Petitions were received from W. O. Harrington, J. P. Roberts, Johnson & Keyes, F. Gasbarri and C. G. Newcomb for liquor transportation permits, from the Edison Co. for attachments on Beacon street, Walker street and Hillside road, from F. H. Reed for sewer in Delesdennier for Common victualer license, C. L. Hartshorn and G. C. Weed for taxi cab licenses, Mrs. A. Louis for intelligence office license, from the Telephone Co. for relocation on Groveland street and attachments on Cotton street, and from J. Harris Aubin for damages caused by water.

M. C. Laffie was granted renewal of his license as an auctioneer.

On report of committees, $5000 was authorized for purchase of water pipe, $1750 to improve hydrant service, $2800 to complete sewer in Chestnut street, Beech street was laid out under the betterment act, hearings assigned on Dec. 14 on laying out of Nobscot road, betterment assessments were levied on account of construction of Monadnock road, Hobart road and Marshall street, $345 for water main in Oakwood terrace, various small transfers authorized in the appropriations for several departments, additional appropriations made for Fuel, $400, Meters, $500 Office Expenses, $50 and Services, $1000 in the Water Dept., $100 for State Aid, $100 for Maintenance of Rifle Range, and $1500 for Poor out of City Home, $1544 for Worthy Mothers and $400 for City Home Expenses in the Charity Dept. A transfer of $500 was authorized for a new automobile for the Forest Commissioner, the Edison Co. was granted relocations on Elm street and poles on Brooks avenue and the Telephone Co. was granted attachments on Beaumont avenue, poles on Central street and permit to remove poles on Centre street.

On recommendation of the Finance committee, a resolution was adopted that one hour should be allowed to registered voters employed as laborers and mechanics in which to vote on election day and $125 was appropriated to pay for the same on Dec. 8. Alderman Murphy dissented from the report and voted against the resolution and the order.

Petition of Peter Rolfe for license to run an auto truck was granted and that of S. Morrell for a liquor transportation permit was refused. Leave to withdraw was granted on petition of Ward et al for abatement of interest on deferred sewer assessments on Ward street, and on petition of M. H. Smith for abatement of street sprinkling assessment on North street.

The appointment of Mr. Vernon B. Swett as a member of the Planning Board for three years was unanimously confirmed.

After the reports of the License committee on liquor conditions had been read, Alderman Pratt suggested that the minority reports be printed for the benefit of the members of the board and Alderman Rice called attention to what he termed inaccuracies in some statements made by the minority.

A short recess was then taken and on reassembling an order instructing Mayor and City Solicitor to petition for legislation to give the city of Newton thru its board of aldermen absolute control of the liquor traffic in this city was laid over under a charter objection from Alderman Pratt. Alderman Richardson, however, stated that the principal points made in the reports referred to whether or not the board was doing an injustice to the

FATAL ACCIDENT

One Man Killed in Auto Collision, Due To Fog

Patrick J. Cummings of Waltham died Wednesday noon at the Newton Hospital as the result of an automobile accident the late afternoon previous on Crafts street, near Churchill street, Newtonville.

Mr. Cummings with another man as passenger collided with the machine of Joseph Conture, also of Waltham, the accident being due to the dense fog. He was thrown to the ground and received a fractured skull.

In the other car were Joseph Conture of Waltham, the owner and driver, and two children. None of the occupants of the Conture car were thrown out or injured.

Conture was slowing down as Cummings approached, but the latter came on, and crashed into the Conture machine. The Cummings car turned completely over and was badly smashed.

expressmen by taking away their licenses and allowing outsiders to bring liquor into Newton. He believed that it was of greater importance to know whether the city should be allowed to solve its liquor problem as it desires to. He contended that there was no question but what we wished to reduce the liquor business to the smallest possible volume, and as we cannot stop outside dealers from bringing liquor into the city, we should appeal to the Legislature for authority to control it. The board adjourned at 9:05 o'clock.

SUFFRAGE RALLY

Joint Meeting of Wellesley and Newton Organizations

The Newton and Wellesley Equal Suffrage Leagues combined in a rally held in Early Hall, Newton Lower Falls, last Saturday evening. A large audience filling the hall warmly applauded the three speakers who were introduced by Mrs. William Lloyd Garrison, Jr., in her pleasing way.

Mrs. Margaret Hatfield Chase spoke first. Mrs. Chase laid emphasis on the general fair-mindedness of Suffragists, who examine carefully both sides of the question. She then related some of her experiences in seeking work, as a woman is obliged to do who has no influential friends. She worked as a salesgirl in 5 and 10 cent stores at four and a half dollars a week, then as a piano player of ragtime music; a waitress in a cheap restaurant; then working in a chemical factory and so on. She found the hours very long and wages low, and in consequence she became more than ever convinced that women need the ballot, in order to secure better industrial conditions. She argued that owing to the differing mentality of men and women, the world needs the co-operation of both in government in order to reach the best results, and then cited instances in States having equal suffrage where undesirable laws of many years standing were changed in a single year after women were given the ballot.

The next speaker, Mr. Chase, opened his remarks by saying that the best argument he knew from a personal standpoint why his wife should have the vote was the fact that she could make a speech without notes, while he was obliged to consult a scrap of paper. He pointed out the absurdity of telling a woman to stay at home and look after the household when the important things relating to house-keeping such as pure food, sanitation and the like were governing and political functions over which she had no control, not being allowed to vote. From this he argued that in the home

THE LIQUOR SITUATION

Interesting Reports of License Committee On the Results of Refusing To Grant Pony Licenses Last Summer

The following reports on the liquor situation in this city were presented at the last meeting of the board of aldermen.

Majority Report

The following report was presented by a majority of the committee on Licenses and was signed by Aldermen Abbott B. Rice, chairman, Henry W. Jarvis, Frederick W. Cobb and William S. Wagner.

Your license committee finds it impossible to give a complete and satisfactory report on the present method of transporting liquor into Newton.

On November 5th the committee invited the Chief of Police and the Liquor Officer to give all the information they could on this subject. They presented the following facts covering a period of six months—from May 1st to November 1st, 1914:

The total amount of liquor brought into the city by the Railroads and the American Express Co. (the only carriers legally authorized to transport liquor) was 16,119 gallons. Last year during this same period the Railroads and Express Companies combined brought in 104,745 gallons which is six times as much, or 88,626 gallons more than has been brought in this year.

If these figures represented all the liquor that had come into the city during this period the showing would be very satisfactory. The chief states that about a dozen dealers are now delivering liquor into Newton. Whether more liquor is coming into the city now than under the old system, he says he does not know, nor does anyone else. He sees no evidence, however, that more is coming in but believes that everybody is obtaining what they want. The chief states that it is impossible to obtain from the liquor dealers the quantities they are shipping into the city as most of the sales are for cash and no records are kept. Only from S. S. Pierce Co. and Wood, Pollard Co. was he able to obtain figures. S. S. Pierce Co. during this period delivered 3,934 gallons. Wood, Pollard Co. delivered 317½ gallons.

The above figures show that the Railroads, American Express Co., S. S. Pierce Co. and Wood, Pollard Co. combined have delivered into the city during this period of six months 20,370 gallons. Provided as much liquor has been brought into Newton during these six months as came in last year, then 84,375 gallons have been delivered by the teams of the other liquor dealers or practically 81%. This seems impossible and yet this is the claim of the advocates of the Pony Express.

The question may now be properly asked whether the present method is better than the old. The old plan was condemned last spring by the Board of Aldermen by unanimous vote and by practically every church and social organization in the city. On the working of the present system not a single complaint has come to the License Committee. Evidently that part of the Public which is being served by the Railroads and the American Express Co. is satisfied, while those who are served by the dealers are likewise contented, as they no longer pay Express charges. The only ones who are seemingly dissatisfied are the former holders of liquor transportation permits.

It may be interesting to the Board to know the following facts which

EDITORIAL

Residents of Newton will read with interest the three reports made by the license committee on the liquor situation in this city as a result of the change in policy of granting liquor transportation permits last summer.
The majority report advocates new legislation, one minority report opposes new laws and both advocate a renewal of the former system of granting permits to all legitimate expression.

With possibly one exception, the report made by President Blakemore covers the whole question more logically and thoroughly than the others. Mr.
Blakemore believes that education is the true policy to follow in increasing temperance and does not believe the appearance on our streets of liquor teams piled high with unmistakable evidence of the liquor business is an aid to our young people in that direction. He also calls attention to the important fact that by following certain methods out of town liquor dealers have the legal right to bring their wares into the city. This point should be clearly understood for the majority report by inuendo, says that the business might have been stopped had our local judge acted as other judges had done in other places. Mr. Blakemore further resents being called a friend of temperance because he differs from prohibitionists in the handling of this question and it is one of the most regrettable incidents of this whole movement that the radical advocates of temperance are alienating
many persons who are just as strong temperance men as themselves, but know that better results can be obtained by more commonsense methods. Mr. Blakemore does not favor a referendum on this matter, altho his reasons are not particularly sound.
While the average voter is more or less helpless in voting on a referendum, he can usually be depended upon to vote on the liquor question, with considerable intelligence and if he has the opportunity to determine whether or not liquor should be sold in this city, he surely ought to have the same privilege to say whether or not liquor
can be transported into the city.

The majority report represents the views of those aldermen who created the present liquor situation in Newton and naturally seeks to explain conditions in a way which will defend that policy.

In two respects this report is unfair. It gives the official figures of actual liquor receipts during the past six months and states that it "seems impossible" that some $4,000 gallons more have been delivered into the city during the same period by outside dealers and "yet this is the claim of the advocates of the pony express." It is unfair to make such a statement,
when everyone knows that it is impossible to obtain actual figures, and yet everyone also knows that if liquor
can be delivered into the city, at a less cost than ever before, (the former express charge being eliminated) that it stands to reason that fully as much liquor will be delivered as when records were kept. The second point where the majority report is unfair, is its evident criticism of our local judge in his interpretation of existing law and the statement, "How far the decision of our local court is responsible for existing evils in Newton, you can yourselves determine as well as your committee" taken in connection with that about conditions in Winchester attempts to give the impression that Judge Kennedy's decision was a deliberate contravention of the law.
No single person in this community has done more for the advancement of temperance than Judge Kennedy has done during his twenty-five years.

occupancy of the bench, and it is most unfair, because he gave an honest decision on the facts as presented to him,
to blame him for conditions which are primarily due to the acts of the very men who now try to throw the responsibility upon him.

The editor of the GRAPHIC agrees with President Blakemore that education is the true policy to follow in advancing the interests of temperance;
with Alderman Malcolm that partial relief and improvement in present conditions can be obtained by granting our legitimate expressmen with the usual permits to transport liquors and with the majority of the committee in the recommendation that the city ask for authority to control the liquor business within its own limits, and which might possibly be best expressed by a referendum at the next city election on the question of granting permits to transport liquor in this city.

The only matter of considerable moment in the city election next Tuesday
is the vote on the license question.
The action of the aldermen last spring
in refusing to grant permits to transport intoxicating liquors into this city, aroused a large amount of opposition
and rumors are plentiful that the Yes vote is to be greatly augmented by many men who have usually voted No.

To a large extent this feeling is due to the argument of the radical temperance element that the NO vote against granting the first five classes of liquor licenses in this city, was also a vote against the sixth class (or druggist) licenses, as well as a vote against granting the liquor transportation permits. Hundreds of men who have normally voted NO do not relish this misinterpretation of their vote and will show it next Tuesday by voting YES, many of them for the first time in their lives.

While this feeling is entirely natural, there is another side of the matter which ought not to be overlooked.
Newton has always held an enviable reputation in the state in the matter
of license, and as a matter of pride,
it should continue to vote NO. To do otherwise would hurt the city's growth
by its deterrent effect on possible desirable residents and by the encouragement such a vote would give to the liquor interests.

Newton cannot afford from both a moral and material standpoint to allow the city to pass into the YES column,
and every friend of temperance, radical and otherwise, (more particularly the otherwise) should vote NO.

Only three contests are on the lists for the city election next Tuesday, all of them being over ward aldermen and relate only to wards two,
four and five. The GRAPHIC, following its usual custom favors the re-election of the members of the present board who are candidates for re-election on the general ground that men who have served for at least one year,
are qualified to give the city better
and more valuable service than men who are inexperienced in municipal affairs. In ward two, Alderman Cabot has served faithfully and well
for three years and is far better fitted for the office than his Democratic opponent. In ward four, Alderman Wagner is being opposed by friends of Mayor Childs who desire the election of Mr. Arthur W. Hollis on the Democratic ticket, in the effort to obtain another advocate of the mayor in the board of aldermen. Mr. Hollis is a Republican and was fully aware of the efforts to induce Alderman Wagner to accept another nomination, and,
under these circumstances, he should,
in all fairness, defer his own candidacy until Mr. Wagner retires.
In ward five, Alderman Bartlett should have a walkover, for he has been one of the most independent and valuable members of the present board.

While it may not be a fair conclusion to draw from the result next Tuesday of the contest for ward aldermen in Ward 4 between Alderman Wagner and Mr. Arthur W. Hollis, in one sense, at least, the claim that Mr.
Hollis should be elected because he is a friend of Mayor Childs, brings up about the only matter which has been an issue between Mayor Childs and the present board of aldermen, the notorious Neagle case. Some persons might be unkind enough to say that if
Mr. Hollis is elected, that the citizens of Ward 4 thereby endorse the action of the mayor in reinstating this officer on the police force.

One of the curious things in connection with the coming city election and one which shows how lightly party responsibility is felt in municipal matters, is the fact that Mr. Arthur W. Hollis, a Republican is running on a Democratic ticket, while Alderman Bartlett, a life-long Democrat, is running on the Republican ticket, against a Democratic opponent.

EIGHTEENTH ANNIVERSARY

The eighteenth anniversary of the Sarah Hull Chapter, D. R., was celebrated at the Newton Club House, Newtonville, Wednesday at 3 P. M., December 2nd.

Dr. Thomas Van Ness delivered a most interesting lecture upon "A Personal Visit to the Capital of Bulgaria
by the way of Salonica and Constantinople." It dealt with European diplomacy for the past twenty years, and unveiled some of the undercurrents
which have set in motion the present European disturbances.

Previous to the lecture Miss Holmes
of Newton played Paderewski's
"Theme Varie" in a most finished manner, and closed the program by a selection from Debussy.

The hostesses of the occasion were
the members of the executive board,
who received their guests in the reception room just before the refreshments were served in the dining-room,
where the table was beautifully decorated; the principal feature of which was a birthday cake with eighteen candles, presented by Mrs. Alexander Ferris, the first Regent of the Chapter, and who cut and served the cake to the guests and members of Sarah Hull.

FORESTRY ASSOCIATION

The organization meeting of the Newton Branch of the Massachusetts Forestry Association was held last Tuesday evening at the Newton Club. The meeting was held in the Newton Club and a member of the Forestry Association, presided.

Mr. Harris A. Reynolds of Boston, the State Secretary of the Association addressed the meeting, and spoke of the work of the branch associations in other cities and towns. Concerning the possibilities in Newton Mr. Reynolds said:

"Up to two years ago the work of the Forestry Association had been concerned largely in securing state legislation, and trying to improve the forestry conditions in this state. We had been largely instrumental in having the Tree Warden Law and much of the local tree and forestry conditions, the State Forestry Department started, and the present forest fire prevention system established.

"Having members in nearly every city and large town in that state, we felt that these people might come together occasionally in a sort of local improvement society to discuss the local tree and forestry conditions and use their influence in bettering them.

"The work of these branch associations has been most gratifying. Here at Newton there are already over 100 people enrolled as members of the association, many of whom have been members for many years. We feel that there is need of a branch association here.

"Newton has been very much alive to the possibilities of the esthetic development of the city, and the beautiful trees on many streets testify as to this. Many more trees should be planted, however, and many which are dying should be replaced.

"The Forestry Association was responsible this year in having the state appropriate $50,000 for the reforestation of waste and wild lands, and we believe that towns too, should take up this work. Through the efforts of the Forestry Association a bill was passed by the legislature last year allowing towns and cities to appropriate money for this work, and to sell wood and timber. To encourage the work of reforestation by towns the Forestry Association will reforest free for the city or town which before next June starts the best town forest, 50 acres of land belonging to that city or town. Newton is admirably situated to start a town forest, and it is hoped that the local branch will take up this thing."

Alfred Macdonald, the Field Secretary of the Association, who has spent two years travelling over the state organizing similar branches which have been successful in having thousands of shade trees planted, waste land reforested, forest fire look-outs erected, and insect pests suppressed, will spend two weeks more in Newton to complete the organization of the Newton branch.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Next Monday evening, December 7, Rev. J. W. Campbell of Newtonville will be the speaker at the Fellowship Club. His subject will be "Religion and War." The older members of the club who heard Mr. Campbell's address last year on Daniel Webster are looking forward to hearing him again on Monday night. This is a most interesting subject and a large audience is expected.

The first Fireside Talk of the season will be addressed by Mayor Childs. It will be held at the Newton Y. M. C. A. next Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. Any young man is cordially invited to attend.

The next Open House, to which ladies are invited, will be held on Thursday, Dec. 10th. There will be an entertainment by Pitt F. Parker, the cartoonist, and an exhibition in the swimming pool. All games will be free and members and their friends are cordially invited to make use of them.

So many men are out of employment at this time we would appreciate it very much if those who have any sort of work to be done, either temporary or permanent, would notify the Newton Y. M. C. A.

When considering Christmas gifts for young men or boys do not fail to remember that a membership in the Newton Young Men's Christian Association would be very much appreciated. The pleasure and benefits derived will last the whole year around. Teams 2 and 9 are still tied for first place in the Bowling Tournament. William Cady of Team 9 holds all three records, having made 115 for his High Single String, 97 for High Average and 313 for High Three Strings.

were deduced from the remarks of Officer Goode and Chief Mitchell.

Liquor is now shipped into Newton during the day. Under the old plan it came in under cover of the night. From May 1st to November 1st, 1914, 219 arrests were made for drunkenness or more than was made during the same months in 1913. Of all the arrests made for drunkenness, about 10% are old timers and 5% are women. One man has been arrested about 80 times.

About 75% of the liquor coming into the city is consumed by the Italians. A great many arrests for drunkenness are made in Nonantum Square when those under the influence of liquor are returning home from their Brighton and Boston spree.

The Chief states that so long as three quarters of the liquor coming into Newton is consumed by the Italians, this same amount will continue to come in through the Boston liquor dealers, unless transportation permits are granted to Italian Expressmen. Under the old method these same Italian Expressmen were considered the chief offenders.

When the granting of liquor transportation permits came before this Committee last Spring, officials and public spirited citizens of Melrose and Winchester told us that the doing away with the Pony Express had worked well in their cities. They tell us the same today.

The chief of police in Melrose says that they grant no express permits whatever and the dealers deliver nothing at all into the city.

The Chief of Police in Winchester says they grant but one express license and that a decision of their local Judge prevents liquor coming in through the dealers.

It is unfortunate that our local Judge rules differently. How far the decision of our local Court is responsible for existing evils in Newton, you can yourselves determine as well as your committee.

The results that we might be now enjoying, were the interpretation of the law on this subject different, was foretold by what actually did take place in May and June before we were so hampered, when drunkenness in Newton for those two months was reduced to more than one third—there having been only 58 arrests compared with 90 the year before.

From the foregoing statements there can be but one conclusion. The churches, the clubs, public spirited citizens and the Board of Aldermen have tried faithfully to solve the liquor problem in Newton but now find themselves handicapped in the handling of the situation by inadequate laws or the interpretation of the laws.

On the one hand the Supreme Court says we must grant one or more licenses and on the other a decision by our local Court makes it possible for an unlimited amount of liquor to come in through the dealers. We have not given the abolishment of the express permits a fair trial and before returning to the old and admittedly faulty system your committee recommends that our representatives in the Great and General Court seek to obtain such legislation for the City of Newton as will give its citizens absolute control as to the sale, transportation and delivery into Newton of all kinds of spirituous liquors.

President Blakemore's Report

To understand the present situation in Newton in regard to liquor transportation it is necessary to review the history of the present year. On May 1st, nineteen licenses which had been issued the previous year expired and were not renewed. The failure to renew was made at the earnest request of many good people who felt and induced us to believe that a refusal to issue any licenses of this character had worked well in other places and that it would be a good thing here. It soon became apparent, however, that the system was not working as its advocates had hoped. Later, in May the Supreme Court handed down a decision declaring that we should investigate fairly and decide what expressmen were legitimate carriers dealing mainly in general express business and must give at least one of such men a license. Your Committee started out in good faith to comply with the law and had the books of the expressmen examined by which it appeared that at least thirteen were unquestionably law abiding decent citizens to whom the transportation of liquor was purely incidental to their general express business. The Committee was ready to give a license to these men and actually voted in favor of six of them as our records show, but certain members of the Committee seem to have yielded to ill advised pressure from outside and as a result the Board late in June carried out the letter and not the spirit of the law by granting only one license and that to a foreign corporation, the American Express company.

Let us see whether this action has resulted to the benefit of the City. We have had before us the Chief of Police and the Liquor Officer who are most conversant with the situation and your Committee has also had the benefit of its own observation and the observation of others. It seems to be agreed now in the first place, that the change has had no effect whatever towards decreasing the use of liquor in Newton. In fact, whereas in the four months before the change the number of arrests for drunkenness was each month less than in the corresponding months in 1913, in the four months since the change the arrests for drunkenness have been more than in 1913. It should be remembered, however, that the evidence before us is that most of the drunkenness results from habitual drinkers who go to Brighton and other places to buy hard liquors and come home intoxicated. The testimony is that practically no drunkenness results from the liquor brought into the City formerly by the expressmen and now by the liquor dealers as at least seventy-five percent of this goes to our foreign population and it is light wine or beer or other light liquor which they use as an American uses water and it does not result in drunkenness. Our Police Court officials report that they are law abiding decent citizens and the police have very little or no trouble with them. It might be suggested that if we are to change the customs which they have brought with them from European Countries it would be wiser to attempt to do it through education than through force.

It must also be remembered that under the former system expressmen were obliged to keep records of all their sales and make reports monthly to the police and it was very easy in this way not only to discover and reduce the number of kitchen bars but also to keep a check on the activity of the expressmen. We have by our action of last June thrown away these safeguards and turned over the transportation of liquor to men who bring it in without supervision or record of any kind.

The system since 1906 has worked well. The testimony of the police is that during the past few years they have had less trouble from drunkenness than ever before and these results have all been brought about without the aid of any such move as has been suggested to us during the past year. It might be suggested that we have brought about I believe through education and I believe that a continuance of that policy is most wise.

The effect of the refusal of liquor transportation permits has simply been that the liquor has come into the City through other channels. The American Express Company during the month of July immediately following the issuance of the license to it, brought in over 4000 gallons. But as cheaper and more convenient methods of transportation were found its business dwindled to an inconsiderable amount. A large amount of liquor has come in by freight and been trundled by the citizens through the streets in baby carriages, wheelbarrows, carts and other means of conveyance. By far the largest amount, however, has been brought in by non-resident dealers who under the law have a right to bring liquor into the City provided the actual sale is made outside of the City, and provided the transportation is gratuitous. I believe it is idle to discuss whether these men are doing a legal or an illegal business in particular cases as there is no question that by carefully observing certain methods they can transport liquor legally into the City under the terms of the decision of our Supreme Court in 1910 in Commonwealth vs. Radocchia, 205 Mass. 555. The only difference between the old state of affairs and the present is that the removal of the competition of the expressmen has put the liquor transportation business into the hands of the liquor dealers whose sole business is the pushing of liquor sales and who have every incentive to increase the number of sales.

The Statute of 1906 under which we formerly acted was one proposed and put through the Legislature through the influence of the temperance people. I believe it to have been sound in principle and that we made a great mistake in ever attempting to depart from it. The theory of that Statute seems to be that there would be less evil if the liquor transportation business is placed in the hands of persons to whom the sale of liquor is only an incidental and not a main part of their business, and who have no great incentive to increase the number of sales.

While we can have very little effect on the older people and their habits, nevertheless I think we should as far as possible prevent the young people of our City from growing up in the atmosphere of liquor selling and drinking and I believe the constant presence on our streets of teams piled high with kegs of liquor and of signs advertising its sale has a bad effect on the morals of our City and is a direct result of the action which the Board took in June to put the liquor business into the hands of non-resident liquor-dealers. I believe we should at once so far as we can undo what has been done and grant licenses to reputable expressmen in the City the majority of whose business has been a general express business. Any other course is furthermore an insult and an outrage upon our own business men. I can see no reason why a Newton business man who has the confidence of his neighbors and customers and is a man of standing and reputation should be treated any worse by this Board than a non-resident liquor seller.

As to the question of new Legislation it seems to me that we have all the laws that are needed now. I believe that the temperance statute of 1906 properly carried out will work good results and will work far better than attempting to cut off entirely from the City the transportation of liquor into the City limits. No such limitation could possibly be enforced and if it were attempted it would result simply in the introduction in a more condensed form of what are known as hard liquors instead of the soft liquors which have been brought in previously and this would increase drunkenness. I believe education in the evils of alcohol and not legislation is what is needed.

It has been suggested that we should vote for a referendum on this question. I am opposed to this for much the same reasons that these same people who now urge a referendum were opposed to a referendum on the question of the issuance of sixth class license to druggists.

It seems to me that a referendum on (Continued on Page 8)

Thanksgiving festivities came to an exciting climax on Thursday evening of last week at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Richards on Kirkstall road, Newtonville. Mr. and Mrs. Richards were having a Thanksgiving reunion and dinner party, and their guests represented 4 generations: Mr. R. P. Richards of Springfield, the great-grandfather; Mrs. Austin R. Mitchell and Mrs. E. E. Towne, the great-grandmothers; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Mitchell Richards, their son and daughter-in-law, and Elizabeth Wallace Richards, their grand-daughter. Early in the evening the family repaired to the music room, and while there a sneak thief gained an entrance to the house, presumably thru a sleeping-porch in the rear of Mr. Richards' apartments. A housemaid who was passing thru the hall, discovered the intruder who threw a flashlight in her face and before she could call for help, rushed past her and escaped thru a window. Policemen and detectives were notified and arrived quickly on the scene, but the thief had made good his escape. Mr. Richards' apartments had been ransacked and jewelry and valuables amounting to about $75 were stolen.

NEWTON CLUB NOTES

Over 350 strings were rolled by members of both sexes in the contest for the Thanksgiving turkey. The winner of the men's contest was William T. Halliday with Kenneth Vee a good second. In the ladies' contest Mrs. Young was the winner with her daughter, Miss Irene Tolman, second. The bottle pin contest was won by Dr. Harold O. Hunt, with Mr. Nash, second. Beautiful prizes were awarded by the committee.

The announcements for the month of December have just been mailed by the entertainment committee and comprise many interesting events which will undoubtedly bring out large numbers to the various assemblies. The regular monthly stag round-up will be given on Saturday, December 5, with a special entertainment and luncheon in the billiard room. On Wednesday the 9th a musicale with a programme of rare compositions will be given by Messrs. William F. and Carl W. Dodge, violin and violoncello, Mr. Ernest Harrison at the piano and Miss Ruth Jean Maca Tammany, soprano.

Thursday, December 10 will be neighborhood night, and on Saturday the 12th there will be a stag luncheon at 9.50 P. M. followed by a smoke talk on "Hobbies and How to Ride Them," by William C. Bamburgh. This talk has been given several times in Boston and promises to be an interesting attraction. Mr. Bamburgh will reveal some of the intricate art devices that followed by collectors, and incidentally talk about his own hobby.

On Thursday, the 17 the autumn roll-off between winning ladies' and gentlemen's teams will be followed by the prize distribution and a Dutch luncheon and entertainment (not Dutch) in the hall room. On December 23rd there will be a Christmas assembly dance; open house on Christmas day; a children's party on Wednesday the 30th, and a New Year's Eve party and dance.

A large crowd gathered last evening for the regular informal dance, the bowling alleys, billiard room and card room being kept busy until late hours. Echoes of the minstrel performance continue to be heard. The second was a livelier performance than the first, a large number of new jokes were sprung, the individual songs were rendered with greater ease and humor. Although the tout ensemble was the same, the chorus worked together with more melodious fluency. That spirited dwarf, Fred Mann was encored until he begged the audience to "have a heart"; Miss Mildred Macomber's interpretive dancing was both beautiful and wonderful in grace and charm, and Raymond Tucker's melodious negro dialect was fit for the professional stage. All of the soloists, in fact, possessed wit and charm far beyond the amateur's average.

LEND A HAND DRAMATIC CLUB

Instead of the usual schedule of one large performance for the winter, the Lend A Hand Dramatic Club expects to produce this year a series of three short plays. The first of the series, Dickens' "Christmas Carol," will be given in Playhouse Hall, West Newton, at three o'clock on Saturday afternoon, December twelfth.

School children will enjoy seeing this Christmas comedy, and a special ticket has been provided for their use. "Tiny Tim" and the "Cratchit" family will come down into the audience and sell candy to the children.

The club is planning to take this play later to several of the Settlement Houses of Boston where it will form a part of the Christmas program offered for the entertainment of the little ones.

The second of the series will be a short operetta to take place in February, and for the April program two of the famous Irish plays have been arranged.

In past years, the Club has produced several Shakespeare plays successfully, and is also well known for its performances of the Gilbert and Sullivan operas. There are nearly one hundred names on the membership list of the Club and the young ladies play not only all parts in the various productions but manage the ticket selling, scenery, properties, make-up, and costuming as well.

Every year a sum of money is devoted to a Vacation Camp for working girls presided over by a former president of the Club and several volunteer workers from the active membership list, while a portion of the proceeds of the dramatic work of the year is set aside regularly for the Club's Emergency Fund. This fund may, after proper investigation, be drawn upon by any club member to relieve cases of immediate need that come under her individual notice.

Many well-known charities are also assisted from time to time by the efforts of this very energetic club of girls. At present each active member is busily engaged in knitting or sewing for the Belgian Refugees. The proceeds of this year's series of plays will also be devoted in part to helping the same cause, but the girls are anxious that their home charities may not be neglected, and it is hoped that a large audience may make it possible to carry out their plans of doing for all. Tickets may be procured from Club members or at the door.

as well as in industry women need the vote in a way he asked, "Is it right that men should have the whole burden of government laid on their shoulders while women escape scot free and simply find fault with what the men do and the way they manage things?" Chivalry he classed as a physical force, something done to women, on account of their physical weakness as compared to men, and should not be applied to government. Of woman's mental qualifications, he felt assured from his own experience in school, where doing his best, and ranking well, there was always a girl ahead of him in the class.

In closing he said that if women had been given the vote in Europe twenty years ago, the present war could never have happened.

The last speaker, Miss Minnie Ryan, was a wage worker and as such gave her experience in factory life. She stated that if men believed women should stay at home they should furnish homes for 8,000,000 women who are in industry. Many laws, good in themselves, are not enforced in factories, and therefore bear heavily upon women, who having no vote, can not alter bad conditions.

The long hours and low wages are detrimental to the health of women, and as mothers of the race the world must suffer in consequence. To the working woman the ballot is a necessity in order to have good laws and the power to enforce them. She said that men who never look beyond their own homes to see if all is well, never do much good in a community.

MARRIED 61 YEARS

Mr. and Mrs. Ira Copeland of 22 Erie avenue, Newton Highlands, celebrated the sixty-first anniversary of their wedding last Tuesday. Mr. Copeland's marriage to Miss Caroline F. Reed took place at Abington on December 1, 1853.

The couple lived in Brockton nearly forty years, where Mr. Copeland was prominent in town and city affairs. He served as member of the school committee several years and was on the first board of assessors when Brockton became a city. He was the leader and had supervision of the construction of the first electric railway in New England, which was in Brockton. He was greatly interested in the abolition of grade-crossings of the New Haven Railroad in Brockton and appeared at the first two meetings of the legislative committee alone to arranged in favor of the project. It was he who suggested the name when North Bridgewater adopted Brockton for its distinctive title. Mr. Copeland's home was in that part of West Bridgewater which was annexed to Brockton later. Since coming to Newton Highlands he has lived a quiet life, interested in inventions, on several of which patents have been granted.

Mr. Copeland is eighty-two years old, while Mrs. Copeland is two years younger. Of the three children, all daughters, two are living, the Misses Mary C. and Marion K. Copeland, the birthday of the younger coming on the wedding anniversary of the parents. Mr. Copeland has one brother, Davis Copeland of Brockton, whose golden wedding was celebrated Dec. 8, 1913. Mrs. Copeland also has one brother, James A. Reed, of Abington. While Mr. Copeland's health is good, Mrs. Copeland has been an invalid for a few years.

YOUR DUTY TO VOTE

Last year in Newton there were 7387 registered voters, of whom 1971 did not vote. 549 of those who cast a ballot failed to vote on the license question. Out of a total registration in the state of 61,017 there were $3,418 stay at homes, and 18,539 of those who cast a ballot failed to vote on the license question. Massachusetts is now rated as a license state as the Yes vote exceeded the No vote by 2471 votes last year. The voters of Newton should not be content with simply carrying our own city for No license but should realize the importance of the total state vote. There is no doubt that the state would go No by a handsome majority if all those who left a blank on this question had done their duty, and it is a duty. The vote of the stay-at-homes would undoubtedly increase the No vote very materially. Should the state show a handsome majority for No license, it would be much easier to secure the co-operation of the representatives in the Great and General Court when temperance measures are submitted to them, as they are naturally governed more or less by the public sentiment back of the petitions.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

Miss Grace M. Burt, Editor.

Every registered woman will have an opportunity to express her belief in votes for women by casting her ballot for school committee at the election next Tuesday. If there is no contest women are often heard to say, "What is the use of voting when it will make no difference in the result?" and for that reason stay away from the polls. This fact is made much of by the opponents of equal suffrage, who claim that the women do not want to vote and will not exercise their obligation should the full ballot be given them. One very simple way by which the believers may help on the cause is by going to the polls next Tuesday and exercising so much of the privilege as they already have, and to quote from Dr. Crothers in a recent Atlantic Monthly, "expressing their opinion in the same modest and unobtrusive way allowed to quiet stay-at-home men."

"English History during the Reign of Henry VIII" will be the subject of the afternoon meeting of the Newton Highlands Shakespeare Club on Dec. 12, to be held at the home of Mrs. W. E. Moore, 55 Hillside road.

Local Happenings

The regular meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club was held on Friday, Nov. 27. The program was in charge of the Music committee and consisted of a lecture-recital on "The Jewels of the Madonna" by Mr. Hayrah W. L. Hubbard. Mr. Hubbard has for two years past been official lecturer for the Boston Opera House, a position created for him in that institution by Henry Russell.

In this opera talk Mr. Hubbard told the story in such a way that any non-essential features it may contain are eliminated, and yet every detail that is musically and dramatically important is preserved. Much of the text is recited to the accompanying music played by his able assistant, Mr. Floyd M. Baxter.

Mrs. E. J. Smith was hostess for the last meeting of the Newton Highlands

Shakespeare Club. Mrs. W. M. Mick conducted a most instructive and comprehensive review of "The Winter's Tale." She brought out, contrary to the opinion of some critics, that Shakespeare was not in the decadence of his powers. Although he combined tragedy and comedy in this play he did not make the art give way to the plot. His art controlled his plot and there were no geographical inconsistencies. Mrs. Mick said music is primarily the exciting art, as well as the medium for the expression of the most profound emotion. It appeals to the intellect, but is an attribute of the soul. Hence in a play that portrayed the master passion of love Shakespeare introduced soft music, which was illustrated by piano selections by Miss Mary Newhall.

Hermione was characterized as having dignity without pride, love without passion and tenderness without weakness; Paulina as the normal type of woman, noble, resolute, courageous; Perdita as the combination of the pastoral with the elegant; Autolycus as the musical clown; Camillo as the loyal servant and honest friend, who dared to do right. Leontes, whose wife was a madwoman, entirely from within himself, stands alone in the play. The Statue Scene was dealt with very impressively.

The Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. had one of its delightful special days at the home of Mrs. E. G. Swift on Monday afternoon, the program consisting of music and Browning readings. Mrs. C. W. Dillaway rendered three violin selections and Mrs. Everett E. Varney of Newton spoke of the life and work of Fra Lippo Lippi and read Browning's poem on the artist and also his "Andrea del Sarto."

On November 30 the Newton Highlands Monday Club observed Gentlemen's Night at the home of Mrs. J. W. Moore. Miss Edith Bartlett accompanied by Mrs. W. C. B. Robbins sang several songs. Prof. E. Charlton Black, the speaker of the evening, gave a most interesting lecture upon "Some Characteristics of the Short Story of Today." Refreshments were served during the social hour. Mrs. E. P. Bosson and Mrs. Seward W. Jones presided over the tables.

The Review Club of Auburndale met on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Robert Sisk on Islington road. Mrs. Davidson gave the latest news about the war and Mrs. Wells read other items of Current Events. Miss Peloubet spoke on "Early American Music," and showed prints of some of the covers of the books, of Eliot's Bible for the Indians of the first book printed in America, which was a sermon by Cotton Mather, and others. Then followed songs by Mrs. Ruggles and her assistants one song being accompanied by Miss Ruggles with the cello. Yankee Doodle was sung, all the Club joining in the chorus, and later the audience sang "Scotland's Burning." Mrs. Haskell's paper on "Cape Ann," Miss Blood's on "Old Gloucester," and one by Mrs. Lamond on "Old Salem," were most entertaining.

On Tuesday afternoon a large number of members and guests of the Newtonville Woman's Guild were present at the meeting to hear Prof. Bliss Perry's lecture on "The Youth of Napoleon." Any attempt to summarize one of Mr. Perry's lectures is absolutely futile. Suffice it to say that he brought the young Corsican very close to his hearers. A group of soprano songs by Miss Marjorie Shaw of Middleboro, with her mother at the piano, was much enjoyed.

In connection with this meeting there was an exhibition and sale of artistic and useful articles made by the adult blind of the State, the proceeds going for their own benefit. The Red Cross and Belgian relief work is going on. A large quantity of garments and knitted articles have been sent off this week.

The Social Science Club held its monthly meeting at the Hunnewell Club on Wednesday morning. There were the usual reports of officers and committees showing many plans for the winter. The account of the summer gardens given by Mrs. Irving U. Townsend was most interesting. Brief reports of the recent Newton Federation and State Federation meetings were given, followed by a delightful account of the Chicago Biennial of the General Federation given by Mrs. J. W. McIntyre in her own inimitable way. Miss Dyer, a former teacher in Los Angeles, made a plea for the appointment of a dean of girls for high schools. The work of such a dean is to investigate conditions, to supervise the social life, to co-operate with pupils and teachers and to teach ethics.

Mrs. W. S. Everett was hostess for the meeting of the Pierian Club at the home of Mrs. C. F. Rogers, Jr., on Wednesday afternoon. The club continued its study of Canada with a paper by Mrs. C. R. Brown on Montreal in the Present, making her talk particularly interesting from being able to tell of the city from her own personal observation. Her latest visit was during the past summer.

The Travel Class of the West Newton Women's Educational Club met on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Bernard Early in Lower Falls, with a large attendance despite the inclement weather.

Mrs. Conant gave a clear and interesting story of the general conditions of Egypt during the first five dynasties. Mrs. Holbrook told all that is known historically of the Federal Age, of which there are no complete records. A delightful description by Mrs. Gibbs of the art, sculpture and literature from the twelfth to the seventeenth dynasties, concluding with a tale from the earliest Egyptian literature, held the closest attention of all and proved a real treat.

The subject of the Hyksos, or Shepherd Kings, with its natural references to the Bible story was well told by Mrs. Byfield. Mrs. Seaver completed the program by bringing the story down through the twentieth dynasty in a very interesting paper. All agreed that it had been a very pleasant and profitable afternoon.

The Newton Parliamentary Law Club held its regular meeting in the hall at the Public Library on Tuesday morning, the time being given up to the usual parliamentary drill under the leadership of Mrs. Electa M. Sherman.

The third meeting of the Waban Woman's Club was held on Monday afternoon in the vestry of the Union Church. In the absence of the president, Mrs. George M. Angier, the vice-president, Mrs. Frederick G. Marsh, presided. A short business meeting was followed by a most interesting lecture on "Wise Men from the East and Wise Men from the West," by the Rev. A. M. Ribbany, minister of the Church of the Disciples, Boston. Mr. Ribbany, a Syrian by birth but an American citizen by choice, prepared this lecture to answer two questions: "What are the traits of the Oriental mind?" and "What is the appeal to the Western Mind from one who has come from the East?"

The Oriental mind is submissive and contemplative while the Occidental mind is aggressive and experimental. The joy of the Oriental lies in human association while the attitude of the Anglo-Saxon is the natural outcome of his individualism. With the Oriental, the most real and sacred kinship is that of birth; he is taught from childhood that the worth of the individual is merged in his clan. Travelling from the shores of the Baltic to the Mediterranean, this idea weakens.

The Oriental has never been able to discover the fundamental principles of nation building; beneficent tyranny has been the only good government he has known. He has developed no such splendid code of laws and has no such respect for the majesty of the Law, as the Occidental. The Oriental mind has not been able to produce a great and varied literature which always follows nationality. The Hebrews when a great nation produced a great literature but not a varied one. Complete and perfect literature must have nationality, freedom, public education, and high regard for woman and child.

America then has the finest opportunity to produce the greatest literature the world has ever known. Notwithstanding the fact that the daily language of the Oriental is poetry while that of the Occidental is science, the Oriental's gift to the world has been religious life and the chief message to humanity has been that God and man are one.

The Occidental citizen is suffering from excessive aggressiveness as the Oriental has suffered from excessive submissiveness. The supreme need in the vocabulary of the Anglo-Saxon is "business" and one sees in the face of the typical American today, courage and business optimism, but in association one feels the defects coming from too great absorption in business. The Oriental feels that the Anglo-Saxon lives to work instead of working to live. In closing Mr. Ribbany made a plea to reduce somewhat the energy put into commerce and material life and strive more for the joys of the spiritual life. Mrs. Pietro Isola and Mrs. W. H. Parker presided at the tea.

CLAFIN VETERAN CORPS

A committee is working on plans to help stimulate recruiting in the active Company. The Company is in excellent condition, but as usual, at this time of the year, recruiting is slow.

It is hoped, that the Corps can do something to call to the attention of the citizens of Newton, the fact that they have a Militia Company, second to none in the State, and worthy of the respect of everyone.

The next regular meeting of the Clafin Guard Veteran Corps, will be held in Room 36, of the Nonantum Building, Newton, Mass., on Sunday, December 6, 1914, at 2.30 P. M.

Any former member, wishing to join the organization, who has not been notified of the above meeting, will please consider this a notification.

MILES-BENTON

The wedding of Miss Caroline Raymond Benton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Raymond Benton of Newton Centre, and Mr. Herbert James Miles, son of Mr. Jonas M. Miles of Brookline, was solemnized Wednesday evening, November 25th at the bride's residence on Homer street.

Dr. George E. Horr, president of the Newton Theological Institution, performed the ceremony at 7 o'clock the bride party standing beneath an arch of bamboo trees arranged with pink and white chrysanthemums in the living-room.

Wagner's Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin was played by a trio of string instruments as the wedding party entered. The bride was escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage. She was beautifully gowned in ivory white satin draped with old family lace, and wore a diamond pendant that had been made for her great-grandmother and worn at her diamond wedding. Her tulle veil was fastened with a spray of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The groomsmen were Mr. Austin C. Benton of Newton Centre, brother of the bride.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony and Mr. and Mrs. Miles were assisted in receiving by the bride's parents.

Mrs. Benton wore a handsome gown of black velvet chiton.

Guests were present from Brookline, Cambridge, Boston, Salem and the Newtons. On their return from a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Miles will reside at Westerly, Rhode Island.

MR. LOUD'S RECITAL

The Buffalo Courier of November 23rd had this to say of Mr. John Hermann Loud's recital at Elmwood Music Hall, in that city, November 22nd.

"The free organ recital at Elmwood Music Hall yesterday was given by John Hermann Loud, organist at First Baptist Church, Newton Centre, Mass.

Mr. Loud is a scholarly musician, and his interpretation of the composer's idea rather than to indulge in cheap or spectacular effects. His command of the various phases of organ-playing was brilliantly disclosed in Concert Overture in D, Faulkner; Allegro ma non troppo, Borowski; Second Nuptial march, Gullmunt; and "Scherzo Symphonique in D minor" by Miller, in which the organist attained a striking and impressive climax."

Ellis on interesting matters connected with the state government and reminiscences of Mr. Louis A. Coolidge of men and events at Washington twenty years ago, were much enjoyed. Mr. Quinlan aroused considerable enthusiasm by his beautiful tenor voice.

A new corporation with a capital of $50,000 has been formed under the laws of the State of New York, to be known as the Cutter-Tower Company, Incorporated. William H. Bliss, who was for many years connected with the Cutter-Tower Company of Massachusetts, has been elected to the presidency. From now on will make his headquarters in New York City. Mr. Bliss is one of the best posted men in the bookish and kindred lines in this country, and all of his time and efforts will now be devoted to the New York concern. The New York company has no connection whatever with the Boston house.

TREMONT THEATRE—The highly successful engagement of "The Yellow Ticket" at the Tremont Theatre is drawing to a close. Since the opening performance three weeks ago the appeal of this great play has drawn audiences which have taxed the capacity of the playhouse. "The Yellow Ticket," based as it is on actual conditions that exist, strikes a responsive note on account of its truthfulness of the deplorable conditions in Russia which has compelled the United States to tear up its treaty with the nation of the Czar.

Ashe from the powerful appeal of the play itself the excellent acting of the superb cast acting it at the Tremont Theatre is proving a double magnet to attract theatregoers. "The Yellow Ticket" ran for an entire year in New York. Judging by the impression it has made in Boston it could remain at the Tremont indefinitely, but this is impossible as the engagement has been limited to one week more.

Helps in Life's Path.

The winding footpath among the hills often helps you on your way as much as the high road; the day off among the islands of repose gives you a steadier hand and a braver heart to make your voyage along the stream of duty.—Henry van Dyke.

Scheme Didn't Work.

HUNNEWELL CLUB

The first Neighborhood Night of the month on Tuesday attracted a large number and guests. The principal interest centered in the dancing and the former favorites, bowling and cards were almost deserted.

Miss Harrington gave another lesson of the new dance and had a large and enthusiastic class, of all ages, gray haired grandmothers and grandfathers being as much interested as their children and grandchildren. Light refreshments were served and Mrs. Charles Nicholas Young, Mrs. Mylert Bruner, Mrs. Henry I. Harriman and Mrs. John L. McKee poured.

The Lauriat Company's book store is in complete readiness early this morning as every indication points to the use of books as gifts even more extensively than ever before.

The store is certainly very attractive and it would seem as though the selection of gift books from such an array would be a pleasure rather than a task. Their holiday catalogue, just issued, will be found extremely helpful, and incidentally full of attractive offerings of books and sets much under usual values.

CORT THEATRE—Now in its fourth month, with no indication of an end to its popular run at the Cort Theatre "Peg O' My Heart" is proving that Boston will keep a good play longer than any city other than New York.

The story of the play is one that appeals to all classes of theatregoers and its brilliant wit is so genuinely appealing that the bright sallies are appreciated from the top of the house to the boxes.

J. Hartley Manners, the author, has made of Peg a character that is lovable, amusing and delightfully frank in her exposure of the snobbery of her aristocratic English relatives. One of Peg's lines, after she has observed some of the priggishness of these relatives indicates her opinion of their manners. She says: "They'll not make a lady of me—not if I can help it."

She prefers to be the simple, honest young girl her father brought her up to be and though their life had been one of poverty Peg preferred that to living in the atmosphere of sham with which she found herself surrounded.

this subject is a cowardly attempt to evade responsibility. I have heard no demand for a referendum. The citizens are not interested in the question and do not understand the effect of the various methods and have left it to us to investigate and do what we think is best for the City. I believe we should do that courageously without regard to outside pressure, political or otherwise, and not evade our duty by leaving such a complicated question to a referendum vote.
I believe further that public agitation which would necessarily follow a referendum vote on this subject would work a distinct harm to the reputation of the City as a whole, as one side would inevitably attempt to show that the conditions as to temperance in Newton today are bad and that our citizens are intemperate. The reverse is true to a remarkable degree. The number of arrests for drunkenness is only a little over one a day for a City of over forty thousand inhabitants is remarkable. The further fact that most of these arrests are made of habitual drunkards who are arrested again and again shows to what an infinitesimal extent the vice of intemperance has been reduced in our fair City. Our citizens are law abiding and temperate and I will be a party in no scheme to present them to our neighbors as anything different.
I am well satisfied that a concerted and underhand attempt is being made to brand all aldermen who differ with the prohibitionists in the handling of this question as being friends of intemperance but I believe that any man in this Board who allows his opinion on this or any other question to be influenced by considerations of personal or political advantage is false to his oath of office. We are here to act for the best interests of the City and not to make ourselves popular and I believe that the honest unbiased judgment of the majority of this Board is of more value than that judgment when warped by personal or political motives.

ARTHUR W. BLAKEMORE.

Alderman Malcolm's Report
On the 30th of April eighteen express liquor transportation licenses expired and just prior to that time, the expressmen who wished a renewal of their licenses had made application for same which had been referred to the Franchise & License Committee.
At several committee meetings this matter was thoroughly gone into and all the information which could be obtained from the police department, from private citizens, and from our own observation, was thoroughly considered. Finally, a committee meeting was held at which it was unanimously voted to grant six liquor transportation licenses, one in each ward. These were to be granted to men of excellent reputation.
It was also voted to hire an accountant to go through the books of the balance of the applicants to ascertain what proportion of their business was express business and what proportion liquor business; it being the intention of the committee to vote to grant further licenses to all those expressmen who could show that they were conducting a legitimate business, the major part of which was express.
The accountant reported at the next meeting that there were at least thirteen express companies which, under this ruling, would be entitled to receive licenses. One member of the committee, evidently having been influenced by outside parties since the meeting, withdrew his vote on the six licenses, and other members of the committee, evidently having had the same influence brought to bear on them, refused to vote in favor of granting any further licenses, even though it had been distinctly understood at the previous meeting that this should be done.
The report of the committee therefore went to the Board six in favor of granting six licenses and one dissenting vote. A minority report was presented to the Board, and the Board finally decided to grant but one liquor transportation license, thereby carrying out the letter, but not the spirit of the law.
The thirteen local express companies whose accounts had been examined have all residents of Newton, tax payers, and reputable citizens, and worthy of every consideration from the Board. They had conducted their business to the satisfaction of the police department, and there was no provable charge against them.
The Board having decided to grant but one liquor license, this was given to the American Express Company, a foreign corporation. As I understand the situation, the object of those advancing the idea of not granting but one liquor license was to decrease the consumption of liquor in Newton. Let us see whether this has been accomplished.
In the month of July, the first month after the one license was granted, the American Express Company transported 4203½ gallons of liquor. Their charges, however, were very high, being 35 cents for a case of beer and 15 cents for returning the empty, as against a charge of the local express companies of 25 cents for the case of beer and the empty returned free.
This led to much dissatisfaction with the express company, and people desiring liquor soon found other means of having it delivered to them. It was not long before the liquor dealers of Boston and other cities began to deliver by their own teams. These teams make most of their deliveries during the day and are decorated with signs advertising the sale of liquor. There are at least twelve liquor dealers delivering liquor in this way in Newton at the present time.
It was found by some that freight rates on liquor were very low, and many resorted to this means of transportation. This meant that the liquor must be carried in some way from the freight sheds to the home, and to accomplish this, baby carriages, wheel barrows, small express wagons and hand carts were used.
Often the liquor is consigned to women who can go to the freight sheds during the day to take delivery of same, often taking the children with them to help carry the load. It has been reported that men sometimes go to the freight sheds, and carry a case of beer or small keg of beer or ale home on their shoulders.

To sum up the whole situation, under the old express liquor transportation licenses, the business was conducted in a very quiet, inconspicuous way. The expressmen were always under the direct supervision of the police, and had to report regularly to the police department all liquor transported inside the City, and they knew that their licenses would be revoked if there was any charge found against them.
Now for the conditions existing today.—We have one express company delivering to all parts of Newton. In addition to this, we have at least twelve liquor dealers sending their teams and auto trucks regularly into the city. It is much more to the interest of these dealers to increase the consumption of liquor in Newton than it would be to the interest of the expressmen, for the reason that the dealer's business is the sale of liquor, whereas the expressmen are only interested in the charges for transporting it.
The facilities of freight are being used much more than they were under the old express licenses. There is far more display in bringing the liquor into the city, and as near as anyone can judge, there is as much, if not more, liquor being consumed by the citizens of Newton today than there was a year ago. As one party very aptly put it, "There is no reason why there should not be as much consumed today, as there was a year ago, for any one can get all he wants."
The liquor dealers are in no way under the supervision of the police department, and it is impossible for the latter to ascertain how much or what kinds of liquors are being delivered, unless the dealer is willing, as a matter of courtesy, to furnish the information upon request of the police department.

Your committee tried to devise some new plan by which to prevent the consumption of liquor in Newton, but every plan suggested seemed to lead to the same fact,—that if people want liquor they are going to have it as long as it is obtainable; that to appeal to the legislature for special legislation as to the transportation of liquor into Newton would only make matters worse for the reason that we are surrounded by licensed towns, and it is only a small matter for those who wish liquor to go to those towns and bring home all they want. This would lead to a greater evil than that now existing, because from 75 to 80% of the liquor now brought into Newton is light wines, beer and ale, whereas if the people are obliged to bring the liquor in personally, they will naturally bring in strong liquors on account of their lesser bulk.
In the opinion of the police department, this would lead to far more drunkenness and harm to our citizens than the larger quantities of light liquors which are drunk largely by our foreign population instead of water; in fact, the report comes to us from the police department that the majority of arrests made on account of intoxication are among the class of people who go outside Newton for their liquor and then come home with a package of it in their possession.
Further, if legislation should be secured as to the transportation of liquor into Newton, this would not cut off the supply by freight from other states, and there are plenty of liquor dealers in other states who would be only too glad to furnish the necessary facilities for liquor to be legally delivered here.

I believe that an injustice has been done; our reputable expressmen, who have been unfairly and illegally deprived of revenue to which they are entitled. The action which brought about this injustice has not produced any good results, but has made conditions worse than they were before. I, myself, being an advocate of temperance, feel that the cause of temperance has been hurt by this action, as people realize the injustice and impracticability of such a method of trying to lessen the consumption of alcoholic liquor in Newton. I sincerely hope that some legal, fair, and adequate plan may be devised to accomplish this object, and such a plan would meet with my hearty co-operation. Until this can be done, however, I would suggest—That, if any of our local expressmen apply for a liquor transportation license, if they are legitimate expressman, of good reputation and standing in the community, they be granted, in the hope that the liquor dealers will see an opportunity of relieving themselves of the responsibility and expense of delivering in Newton, and therefore withdraw their teams from our streets.

Respectfully submitted,
GEORGE F. MALCOLM.

THE DANTSANT

Notable Society Event At Brae Burn In Aid of West Newton Day Nursery

The social event of the week in Newton was a The Dantsant, given on Saturday afternoon at the Brae-Burn Country Club. It was a benefit for the West Newton Day Nursery, and was planned and carried out by Mrs. Harry L. Ayer, a member of the Finance Committee, and it furnished delightful entertainment for more than three hundred guests.

The general superiority of the Club in all its appointments, its thorough service, and especial regard for the comfort of guests, makes it an ideal place for social entertaining, and the excellent manner in which the affair was conducted was highly commendable.

The spacious living-room, sun-parlors, dining-hall, and billiard room were placed at the disposal of the guests. Tables, attractively decorated with flowers were arranged along the sides and lighted with rose-colored shaded candelabra, so that the dancers moved in a light and setting which was charming in the extreme.

The exhibition of Modern Society dancing by Mr. Wendell, so well known in society dancing circles in Boston, and his partner, Miss Alma Greenwood, were wonderfully well done, and their demonstration of the Society Foxtrot, was received with the utmost enthusiasm.

Mr. Harold O. Whitney gave a delightful exhibition of the Maxixe-polka, Hesitation, Eccentric Foxtrot, Society Foxtrot, and an original dance of his own, with his partner, Miss Pauline Chamberlain of Brookline, who was awarded the cup for the best amateur dancing by Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Castle.

Miss Lillian Harrington, a fairy-like vision in a blue and white hoopskirt costume, and wearing a little bonnet, was most bewitching in a pantomime dance, a minuet with an imaginary partner. The dancers were repeatedly encored, and received much merited applause. Dancing enthusiasts were present in large numbers at the Dantsant, and the up-to-date music by Russell's Orchestra of six pieces was most inspiring, not only for the dancers, but also the audience. Among the interesting features, was the Xylophone solos for the special dances.

It is generally conceded that dancing may be done gracefully, and it is not the fault of Terpsichore, if she be given a bad reputation by her disciples. Her intentions are good, and it is only when she is abused and perverted by the dancer, that Terpsichore, or the art which she represents, becomes objectionable, and open to adverse criticism.

Any one who was present at the Dantsant at Brae-Burn, must have been impressed by what is a strong argument in favor of dances now in vogue, and that is the intense interest displayed by the spectators. It is a real and potent argument, without question, after seeing such a gathering of on-lookers as were in evidence on Saturday afternoon, and the endless variety of movements and rhythms, not only increases the value of the dance to the participant, but gives an endlessly varied and delightful entertainment to the spectator.

A general misunderstanding of modern dancing has caused it to be very much criticised; it has been compared with the savage war dances of the Indians, and the dithyrambic frenzies of the Ancient Greeks. It has been said that the tango originated in the ecstatic worship of Bacchus, but such comparisons are not to be taken seriously, as critics refuse to look with unbiased eye on the very newest developments of the social art.

In spite of the conservative critic, it is apparent to an observer, that the modern dances allow a freer response to physical expression, and the dancer, unfettered by modes of convention, can throw more of his own individuality into the art.

The gay and colorful scene at Brae-Burn was enhanced by the many beautiful costumes worn by the ladies, who represented society in Boston and Brookline, as well as the Newtons.

The success of the Dantsant was most gratifying as the sum of $360. was realized. Mrs. Ayer was assisted by Mrs. Harry L. Burrage of West Newton.

The finance committee of the Day Nursery includes, Mrs. George A. Frost, Mrs. John W. Carter, Mrs. James Richard Carter, Mrs. Henry B. Day, Mrs. William B. H. Dowse, Mrs. Swan Hartwell, Mrs. A. M. Langley, Mrs. Lawrence Mayo, Mrs. H. A. Robbins, Mrs. T. S. Sawyer, Mrs. R. W. Williamson and Mrs. Daniel G. Wing.

showing the northern whalers in full chase of a whale which, in view of the audience is captured and towed ashore. On Saturday afternoon Mr. Elmdorf will present, for the first time, his new lecture, "Flowers from many lands." This is in no sense a lecture on botany. The lecturer simply invites his hearers to travel with him from the arctic regions to the equator, while he illustrates by means of his artistically colored lantern slides and special motion pictures, the human side of plants and flowers.

RECEPTION

Mrs. William H. Capen Entertains Newton Society On Saturday

Mrs. William H. Capen entertained a large company of friends at a charming reception and tea on Saturday afternoon at her residence on Park street, Newton. The occasion was complimentary to her son's fiancée, Miss Julia Raymond Schmalz of Wellesley. The hall, reception rooms, and drawing-room were artistically decorated with yellow chrysanthemums, palms and ferns and Mrs. Capen received from 3 until 6. She wore a handsome gown of black marquisette over white silk trimmed with duchesse lace; she was assisted in receiving by Miss Schmalz, who was beautifully gowned in pink chiffon edged with fur, and carried a large bouquet of pink roses, and Mrs. Schmalz, wearing an exquisite gown of blue figured chiffon over white silk. The dining-room was effectively decorated in a scheme of pink and on the table the centerpiece was a large basket of pink Killarney roses in combination with magnolia.

The ladies who poured were Mrs. William R. Dewey, Mrs. John T. Lodge, Mrs. Harrie R. Chamberlin, Mrs. Henry H. Leonard, Mrs. Clinton H. Scovell of Newton and Mrs. Lewis of Walpole.

The young lady servers included the Misses Evelyn Converse, Mildred Clark, Ruth MacLure, Dorothy Emmons, Helen Gustin, Eunice Leonard, and Marjorie Cape of Newton; Miss Helen Howard of Northfield; and Miss Mary F. Stotsenburg of Wellesley.

Mrs. Capen was also assisted in entertaining by Mrs. George H. Wiswall of Watertown and Mrs. Frederick J. Fawcett of Newton.

During the reception a delightful program of choice musical selections was rendered by the Chadeny Trio.

More than one hundred and fifty guests of social prominence were present from Boston, Brookline, Walpole, Northfield, Wellesley and the Newtons.

Many of the younger guests remained for the evening, and were entertained informally by Miss Schmalz and Mr. Capen.

CHRISTMAS CAROLS

The choir of the Perkins Institution for the Blind, of 100 singers, assisted by the children's choir, also of 100 singers, from the kindergarten department, will sing Christmas carols in the hall of the institution on Friday evening, December 18, at 8 o'clock, and on Monday afternoon, December 21, at 3 o'clock. On both these occasions all interested to attend are cordially invited to do so. The program includes carols by Nevin, Dykes and Stainer, anthems by Buck and Tours, and a group of old traditional Welsh, English, Breton and German carols. On Monday afternoon before the singing of the carols there will be shown, in the school museum, an exhibition of the girls' handwork which they have completed for Belgian relief or for their own use.

GOLF DINNER

Many Prizes Awarded At Annual Event At Brae Burn

About 100 members of the Brae-Burn Country Club Wednesday night attended the annual dinner given for the prize winners in the various competitions held during the year. The golf committee in charge of the evening's affair was composed of Harry L. Ayer, chairman; Arthur H. Gilbert, A. D. Locke and T. W. Sprague.

After the dinner, which was served at 7 o'clock, the prizes for the 40 events, which started April 20 last and ended Thanksgiving Day, were presented to the winners by A. A. Highlands. Speeches and songs were then in order, and a book of songs especially prepared for the banquet, consisting of 22 parodies of the popular ditties of the day, and others of a sentimental nature helped to enliven the evening's entertainment. W. H. Rand, Jr., was the pianist.

Ray Gorton was one of the largest winners of the season, capturing five prizes. R. D. Pierce received the same number. John G. Anderson, besides winning the club championship, landed three other prizes. Percy Gilbert, G. R. Angus, Walter Cady, W. E. Stiles and B. W. Estabrook also made a fine showing in the tournaments. CHILDREN'S PARTY

At Channing Church A Great Success Last Saturday Afternoon

On Saturday afternoon the children and young people of Channing church and their friends were a merry company. The program opened with a piano solo by Janet Curtiss. A Japanese song and dance was next announced by the Herald, Merrill Garcelon in gay costume. These participated in it were, Barbara Angier, Phoebe Alden, Anna Bartlett, Edith Curtiss, Margaret Henry, Helen Moore, Harriet Murray, Nancy Mandell, Adelaide Simpson, Mary Scofield, Elizabeth Scofield, and Anne Scofield.

These little maids in Japanese costume brought down the house with their naive; Nancy Mandell and Anne Scofield, each aged three years, were the star performers of the afternoon and none will begrudge them the honors, for two dearer or more unconscious players have seldom appeared upon any stage. The other numbers on the program were: Song, "The Elf and the Dornhouse," Helen Moore; Spanish song and dance, Edward and Eleanor Wheeler; a Mother Goose Sketch, Miss Clyde Carpenter, Faith Haddock, Grace Garcelon, Elizabeth Henry, Eleanor Clark, Emily Warren and Roger Haddock; a piano solo, Ruth Furlong; Reading from Kipling, "How the Camel got his Hump," Miss Ruth Beedle; a children's play, "The Doll's Frolic," in which the following were the cast, Fairy, Janet Curtiss; Topsy, Barbara Esterbrook; Bobby Shafte, Eleanor Wheeler; Jack in the Box, Dorothy Griffin; French Doll, Ruth Furlong. The entrante music was furnished by Miss Katharine L. Stone, violin, and Miss Marjorie Holmes, piano. By special request the Japanese song and dance was repeated at the close of the entertainment for the benefit of "those who were late, but could not help it."

All the parts were so well taken and everything went off so smoothly that it is impossible to single out any particular number, for all deserve much credit for the success of the affair. Suffice it to say that the future of Channing church so far as dramatic talent is concerned is most promising. At the close there was a candy sale in charge of Mrs. I. N. Palmer and Miss Kate Howard. Mrs. John T. Alden, Mrs. A. W. Blakemore and Miss Alice Emery were the committee in charge of the arrangements. The proceeds, which were about $75, will be used for the cheerful letter work of Channing Alliance.

THE CITY ELECTION

Light Vote Cast and Cabot, Hollis and Bartlett Elected Ward Aldermen

The city election held Tuesday with only three ward contests brought out the smallest vote since 1910, only 3238 voters casting their ballots. The only matter of general interest was the vote on the License question and Newton, as was expected, giving a large majority for NO, the vote being Yes 1090, No 1992, as compared with Yes 1179, No 3685 last year. The net result however is about the same, the No vote this year being 61 per cent of the total vote cast as compared with 68 per cent last year, 69 per cent in 1912, 72 per cent in 1911 and 59 per cent in 1910.

In the ward contests for aldermen, the Republican candidates in wards 2 and 5 were successful and the Democratic candidate in ward 4 won out by a small margin after a hard fight. In ward 2 Alderman Harry D. Cabot was re-elected by a vote of 455 to 383 for Daniel O'Connell, in ward 5, Alderman Joseph W. Bartlett had a walkover in a fight with James J. Martin, winning 300 to 51, while in ward 4 Alderman William S. Wagner was defeated by Mr. Arthur W. Hollis a Republican running on a Democratic nomination by a vote of 309 for Hollis to 292 for Wagner.

Thirty-eight votes were cast by women for school committee. The other candidates elected and their vote, follow.

EDITORIAL

Newton people have considerable interest in the proposal to make another station in the Boylston street subway at Arlington street. This subway was built to provide our citizens with rapid transit to Boston and every additional station adds about two minutes to the running time to the heart of the city. The Boston Transit Commission gave this matter the most careful consideration before the subway was opened to the public and decided that it was not necessary. The proposed new station would be less than a thousand feet from the Copley station, and with free transfers at that station to any car on the surface of Boylston street it would seem as if even the lame, the halt and the blind might be accommodated, as well as those able to walk that short distance.

The Newtonville Trust Co. shows commendable business enterprise in establishing a branch office at Auburndale, and that village is to be congratulated on this valuable addition to its business interests and convenience. A good financial institution adds immeasurably to the dignity of any community, and a successful financial institution it serves has resources, capabilities and possibilities of growth in both wealth and influence. Auburndale will have the opportunity to prove itself to be worthy of the confidence which the Trust Company has in its present and future prosperity.

It is a striking commentary on the indifference of the average citizen to his civic duties when more than half of our registered voters refuse to take part in the choice of our city government or to pass judgment on the question of issuing liquor licenses in this city. The good majority given for NO license under these circumstances is most gratifying, particularly as it was felt that there was considerable unrest on this matter on account of the extreme methods forced on our city fathers by certain elements in the community.

The attention of our radical temperance friends is invited to the action taken this week by a Middlesex superior court jury, in reversing the decision of the Waltham police court in the case of M. H. Glynn, convicted last summer for the illegal transportation of liquor. It will be recalled that Judge Kennedy of our own court was somewhat criticized for refusing to hold Mr. Glynn on a similar case in this city.

The defeat of Alderman Wagner for reelection is a matter of considerable regret, not because his successful opponent will not serve the city with probably equal ability and sincerity, but because of the methods by which his defeat was accomplished. Sometime or other, Republicans who obtain success by Democratic nominations and support, will learn that old friends are best in the end.

Governor Walsh has done the proper thing in designating Hon. A. R. Weed of this city as chairman of the important board of Gas and Electric Light Commissioners.

The Neagle case is important enough to be referred to the full bench of the supreme court of the state. Further comment is unnecessary.

STATUS OF EQUAL SUFFRAGE

Few people, unless they have made a serious study of the matter, realize what wonderful progress the principle of equal suffrage has made within the last decade. Away back in 1893 Wyoming gave the ballot to her women while a territory, and refused to enter the Union unless her women came also as enfranchised citizens. After a long interval, in 1893 Colorado, bounding Wyoming on the south, enfranchised her women.

Three years later, in 1896, Utah, bounding both Wyoming and Colorado, adopted equal suffrage; and in the same year Idaho, bounding Wyoming and Utah, adopted equal suffrage.

No more states came into the suffrage column for fourteen years, when in 1910 Washington, bounding Idaho in the west, gave the suffrage to women.

The next year, 1911, California followed suit.

In 1912, three states, Oregon, Arizona and Kansas adopted equal suffrage.

In 1913, Alaska gave the ballot to her citizens, and Illinois gave her women citizenship and suffrage.

As a result of the last November elections, Nevada, the one non-suffrage state in the west bounded by equal suffrage states, gave a good majority to equal suffrage, and Montana is also conceded.

There is thus a solid block of states up to the centre of the continent given over to the principle of equal suffrage. The area amounts to half the continent, and the total number of women enfranchised (exact number not yet obtainable) is so great that were a considerable majority to combine in a presidential election, it might easily dictate the choice of a president.

Moreover the obstructionist element in women's clubs, which so long has presented the unusual spectacle of a sex fighting against itself and its own progress, is rapidly being out-generated and out-voted, as is shown by the following facts: All the state federations of women's clubs in the enfranchised states have endorsed equal suffrage, as well as those in Pennsylvania, Ohio, North Dakota, South Dakota, Missouri, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Michigan, Nevada, New Jersey, Indiana, Kentucky.

Of the New England states the Maine Federation has recommended its clubs to study the question. The news now comes that the New York Federation of Women's Clubs has endorsed equal suffrage by a vote of 227-72. Can we not read in these facts "the handwriting on the wall?"

The defeat of the suffrage amendment in five states this year is not a "Waterloo" at all, as is claimed, for past events show that the states in which suffrage is defeated, always "come back" some time, while a state once won for equal suffrage never repeats the act.

In view of these and other important happenings, students of sociological problems and of the times are predicting that in a decade the United States will be practically solid for equal suffrage.

AN OLD RESIDENT DEAD

Mrs. Mary A. P. Dresser, the widow of the late Robert W. Dresser, a resident of this city for forty years, died last Saturday at her home on Chestnut street, Waban at the age of 85 years. Mrs. Dresser is survived by three sons and three daughters, Alexander H. Dresser of Upper Falls, Philip S. Dresser of Wollaston, Benjamin T. Dresser of Syracuse, N. Y., Mrs. Caroline Young of Chicago, Mrs. Anne S. Davis of Waban and Mrs. John L. Holah of Philadelphia. Funeral services were held from her late residence on Tuesday, Rev. James C. Sharp, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, Waban, officiating and the interment was at the Newton Cemetery.

FOOTBALL CAPTAIN

Frank Dorney was unanimously elected captain of the Newton High School football team of 1915 at a meeting of the "N" players, yesterday afternoon. He has been on the squad three years, but owing to injuries did not make his letter until this Fall. This year he played centre until the Boston Latin game, when he sustained an injury to his shoulder which kept him out until the opening Triangular League game with Brookline.

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—Next week sees William Gillette's famous war play "Secret Service" revived for a week by the Craig Players. The plot of "Secret Service" is familiar to most experienced playgoers, though it is some time since it was given in Boston. A young Northerner named Lewis Dumont gets into Richmond during the siege, wins all hearts and especially the love of a beautiful Southern girl. He is appointed officer in charge of the telegraph station, and at a critical moment during an attack by the Federal forces, has to choose between his love and his duty. The scene in the telegraph office is one of the most dramatic in any play and Mr. Craig who will act Dumont, made the part his own some years ago.

BRAE-BURN CLUB

On Tuesday evening of this week, Mr. and Mrs. Zenas Sears entertained a large company of guests at a dinner-dance. The dining-room was beautifully decorated with a profusion of American Beauty roses.

Mrs. George P. Malcolm of Newtonville will give an auction bridge on Wednesday afternoon December 16th.

On Thursday evening, Mrs. John Burns, Jr., of Brookline entertained about 40 guests at a dinner-dance at the Club.

HUMAN HEALTH AND THE FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE

The anxiety that has been expressed in several quarters in regard to the effect upon human health of the present outbreak of the foot-and-mouth disease is regarded by Government authorities as somewhat exaggerated. The most common fear is that the milk supply might become contaminated, but in view of the precautions that the local authorities in the infected areas are very generally taking, there is comparatively little danger of this. Milk from infected farms is not permitted to be shipped at all. The only danger is, therefore, that before the disease has manifested itself some infected milk might reach the market. For this reason experts in the department recommend pasteurization. As a matter of fact, however, pasteurization is recommended by the department anyway for all milk that is not very high grade and from tuberculin-tested cows.

It has been demonstrated by experiments which have been made in Denmark and Germany that pasteurization will serve as a safeguard against contagion from the foot-and-mouth disease just as readily as it does against typhoid fever, but in any event it must be thoroughly done—the milk must be heated to 145 degrees F. and held at this temperature for 30 minutes.

In this country the foot-and-mouth disease has been so rare that there are few recorded cases of its transmission to human beings. In 1902 a few cases were reported in New England and in 1908 in a few instances eruptions were found in the mouths of children, which were believed to have been caused by contaminated milk. In both of these outbreaks the sale of milk was stopped as soon as the disease was found among the cattle. As long therefore as the disease can be confined by rigid quarantine to certain specified areas the danger from this source is very small. Should the pestilence spread all over this country and become as general as it has been at various times in large areas in Europe, the problem would become more serious. Under any circumstances, however, pasteurization would be an efficient remedy. Where pasteurization is not possible and where there is any reason to suspect that the disease may exist the precaution of boiling milk might be advisable.

Cows affected with the malignant form of the disease lose practically all of their milk. In mild cases, however, the decrease may be from one-third to one-half the usual yield. The appearance of the milk also changes. It becomes thinner, bluish, and poor in fat. When the udder is affected, the milk frequently contains coagulated fibrin and blood, so that a considerable sediment forms, while the cream is thin and of a dirty color. These changes, however, occur only when the disease is in an advanced stage, and, as a matter of fact, the disease is not permitted to pass into an advanced stage, as any stricken animal is at once slaughtered.

Men who come in contact with diseased animals may also become infected. In adult human beings the contagion causes such symptoms as mouth sores, painful swallowing, fever, and occasional eruptions on the hands, finger tips, etc. While causing considerable discomfort, however, the disease is rarely serious. Where it is very prevalent among animals, some authorities believe that it is fairly general among human beings, but that the disturbances it causes are usually so slight that they are not brought to the attention of the family physician. There is, however, a very good reason for everyone giving the diseased animals as wide a berth as possible, namely, that otherwise they may easily carry the disease to their own and their neighbors' property.

The disease, in short, is dangerous because of the loss that it occasions to property, and not because of its effects upon the health of mankind. At present all infected herds are being slaughtered as soon as they are discovered, the infected buildings and premises thoroughly disinfected. Until all danger of infection has been removed in this way, the local authorities quarantine the milk.

Those who wish additional precautions are recommended to use pasteurized milk, but as has already been said, this recommendation holds true whether or not there is any fear of the foot-and-mouth disease.

MISS SEWALL HONORED

A pleasant social affair of the week was the tea given Monday evening in Bigelow School hall, Newton. The occasion was complimentary to Miss Charlotte E. Sewall, who has been for many years a valued and faithful teacher in the Underwood School, and was given under the direction of Mrs. J. T. Lodge, Mrs. E. T. Fearing and Mrs. C. H. Breck.

There was a large number of guests present including many of Miss Sewall's former pupils. Mrs. Case and Miss Dyer presided at the tea-table, which was attractively decorated with yellow chrysanthemums and asparagus fern. Piano selections were rendered during the evening.

Development of Sympathy. It may, indeed, be said that sympathy exists in all minds, as Faraday has discovered that magnetism exists in all metals; but a certain temper is required to develop the hidden property, whether in the metal or the mind.

ANOTHER CLEVER CHRISTMAS SKETCH BY J. EDGAR PARK
THE REJUVENATION OF FATHER CHRISTMAS

Santa Claus one Christmas time was rudely aroused to the understanding that he had fallen into certain unfortunate ruts in the matter of giving, and was not infrequently piling burdens on people's shoulders instead of increasing the joy of living; that he was in danger of attempting to concentrate on Christmas Day a spirit which must extend over all the year. How he reformed, how he spent a year as Brother Christmas, and came with new joy to be Father Christmas again, is the plot of the story. A dozen clever drawings by H. Boylston Dummer. Printed in two colors with unique border scheme.

He shows both the good and the evil as it appears to him. Some chapter titles are: Character and Climate, The Turk a Medieval, The Turk in Business, The Eternal Feminine, American Influence on Turkish Education. Illustrated with many original photographs taken by the author. Price, $1.50 net.

THE GOLDEN GOBLET

Dr. Stocking tells about things in which children are interested and his faculty of appropriating words and expressions from the juvenile vocabulary is remarkable. Colored illustrations. $1.00 net.

CORT THEATRE—The appealing power of a good, clean comedy is being demonstrated in the continued stay and popularity of "Peg O' My Heart," which has passed the one hundredth performance at the Cort Theatre. This play has become firmly established as a favorite in Boston and in the fourteen weeks of its run Peg has appeared before approximately 100,000 theatregoers. That is a record seldom achieved in this city yet public interest in this charming little Irish girl has not decreased in the least. She seems not to be a stage character but, rather, a living, personal part of the big audience and her quaint wit and native honesty keep the ripples of laughter going steadily. Miss Florence Martin is a delightful Peg, well supported by Miss Alma Tell, Miss Lisle Leigh, Miss Amy Clark, H. Reeves, Smith, Hassard Short, Peter Bassett, Frank Burbeck and Lewis Broughton.

ALLIANCE MEETING

Mrs. Lucia Ames Mead spoke before Channing Alliance on Tuesday afternoon on "Common Fallacies about War and Peace." Mrs. Mead began by saying that we are at a turning point in history. The war in Europe came because the forces of sanity could not mobilize, because we have not learned God's law, that we get what we prepare for. She cited the peace which has prevailed for one hundred years along the northern boundary of the United States, because there have been no preparations for war. The speaker thinks the Powers might have saved the second Balkan War and she foresees a second European War unless these nations put a stop now and forever of this senseless increase of armaments. France, she said, did not want to fight, and she feels that the whole thing might have been avoided had there been a treaty to wait a year before entering upon hostilities. Europe is looking to the United States for help in bringing about peace and we must needs be very careful about making undue preparations for war ourselves at this time or we shall be in danger of losing the great opportunity that is ours. She answered the foolish fear that the Germans are likely to come over and invade our territory in an attempt to attack Canada. Mrs. Mead is a convincing speaker and was listened to with keen interest.

Other features of the meeting that should be mentioned are the singing of music, a piano solo by Miss Ethel M. Hutchinson and a song by Miss Helen Cram with Miss Hutchinson at the piano, items of religious intelligence given by Mrs. W. C. Wendt and an account of the Interdenominational Home Mission luncheon presented by Mrs. Isabella W. Haddon. A social hour followed over the program. Ladies from the other Newton churches were guests on this occasion.

BERRY-SANDERSON

Miss Gladys Aileen Sanderson, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Judson Burton Sanderson, and Mr. Russell Parker Berry were married Wednesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, 66 Davis avenue, West Newton, Rev. Edgar J. Park, pastor of the Second Congregational Church, officiating.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Alfred C. Furush, was matron of honor and the bridesmaids were Miss Jeanette E. Lee of Salem and Miss Abigail Furush of Brighton. The ushers were Harlan D. Crowell of Salem, Douglas D. Furush of West Newton, Albert N. Towne of Waltham and Herbert Ingalls of Lynn.

A reception was attended by 200 guests, the receiving party comprising besides the bride and groom Mr. and Mrs. Sanderson, Mrs. Mary L. Berry, mother of the groom, and John B. Berry, the latter the brother of the groom.

The musical program, comprising piano, vocal and violin numbers, was provided by Miss Eva Sanderson and Margaret E. Elliott. The decorations were in tasteful effect, a bower in green with canopy being arranged for the bridal couple. Yellow tones predominated in the treatment of the dining room, where refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Berry will make their home at Greenland, N. H.

DIES SUDDENLY

Thomas Ferrick, 63 years old, of 79 Stanford street, Auburndale, caretaker of the grounds of the Burr School on Ash street, died Wednesday afternoon while being conveyed, after a fall on the icy concrete walk, from the school grounds to the Newton Hospital in a police ambulance.

John Foley, Ferrick's helper, was with him at the time of the accident. He says Mr. Ferrick struck the back of his head in his fall and became unconscious, blood gushing from his nose and ears.

Ferrick had appeared to be in good health up to the time of the accident. Foley says he thinks death was caused by a fractured skull. The police say death resulted from heart trouble. Medical Examiner George L. West of Newton Centre, after an external examination of the body, said that either opinion might be correct and he would make an autopsy to determine the matter.

Mr. Ferrick leaves a wife, three sons and three daughters.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—If one seeks a delightful evening's entertainment "Grumpy" with Cyril Maude in the leading part is sure to provide it. This ingenious play with its distinguished and polished star is on the eve of its sixth week at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston. There are many reasons why the average playgoer will find real enjoyment in witnessing this clever detective play. First of all it is possessed of every element that appeals to the human being. It contains thrills, surprises and plenty of good wholesome laughs. The acting of Mr. Maude as the aged and retired criminal lawyer is a treat worth going miles to see. Do your Christmas shopping early and while in town don't fail to see this extraordinary attraction. Thursday and Saturday are the regular matinees. There will be an extra matinee on Christmas Day.

HENRY W. SAVAGE Inc.
129 Tremont Street - Boston
William H. Rand, Newton Representative

Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Middlesex, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To Honorable Frederick W. Mansfield, Treasurer and Receiver General of said Commonwealth; Maria Barker and Abbie Gage Chamberlain, both of Newton, Carrie Georgianna Barney of Marlborough all in said County; the Deacons of the Mount Vernon Church of Boston and the Mount Vernon Congregational Society, a Massachusetts corporation having its usual place of business in Boston, both in our County of Suffolk; Ada Florence Martin, Louise Martin Hutchinson both of Rumford, Clarence Eugene Martin, Alice Maria Barker, Paul Barker Head, the Deacons of the First Congregational Church of Bethel all of Bethel in the State of Maine; Franklin Martin of Woodford in said State of Maine; Arthur Elbert Barker and Edith Barker both of Washington in the District of Columbia WHEREAS, Maria Barker executrix of the will of Felicia H. Barker, late of said Newton, has presented to said Court her petition in equity representing that it appears by the inventory of the estate of said deceased that she died seized of an undivided half interest in 26128 sq. ft. of land in said Newton with the building numbered 370 Wolcott St. thereon and that she died possessed of certain deposits in Savings Banks; that the Tax Commissioner of said Commonwealth in accordance with the provisions of Section 19 of Part IV of Chapter 49B of the Acts of 1909 has determined the value of said real estate to be $1450, and the value of said personal property to be $4711.71, which valuation, both as to real estate and personal property has been accepted by the petitioner; that said Commissioner has allowed a deduction for debts and expenses of $687.70, and has certified the balance to be payable to the Treasurer and Receiver General under the provisions of Chapter 563 of the Acts of 1907 and Acts amendatory thereof at $105.48.

And further representing that the aforesaid tax is commuted at 2% on $5274.01 on the theory, as to the construction of said will and the codicil thereto that the respondent, Maria Barker (who is a sister of the testatrix) took said real estate in fee and also took outright the residue of the personal property, viz: that said codicil amounted to an ineffective attempt to cut down an absolute gift made to said Maria Barker by said will; that if the aforesaid construction of said will and codicil is correct, no one of the respondents except Maria Barker is entitled to any share in the estate; that if the aforesaid construction of said will and codicil is not correct (viz: if said Maria Barker took outright said real estate only and took no more than a life interest in the residue of the personal property and in the real estate as well) then there will be payable either a legacy and succession tax of $29., or no tax at all.

And the petitioner further represents that she is in doubt as to the legal effect of said will and codicil and says that she cannot safely pay said tax without the instructions of this Court and accordingly prays for instructions upon the following questions:

(1) What estate does said Maria Barker take in said real estate?
(2) What interest does said Maria Barker take (subject to debts of the testatrix and expenses) in (a) the wearing apparel, furniture, bric-a-brac, books and other personal effects of the testatrix? (b) the bonds above mentioned? (c) the deposits in Savings Banks above mentioned?

(3) If said Maria Barker takes the residue of the property outright, is the same subject to the pecuniary legacies mentioned in the codicil, or does she take the entire residue, subject only to the pecuniary legacies mentioned in the will?

What tax, if any, shall the petitioner pay to the Treasurer and Receiver General of said Commonwealth? You are hereby cited to appear at the Probate Court to be held at Cambridge in said County of Middlesex, on the first day of January A. D. 1915, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, against the said petition.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to each of you who may be found in said Commonwealth, fourteen days, at least, before said Court, or if any of you shall not be so found, either by delivering a copy thereof to you wherever found or by leaving a copy thereof at your usual place of abode, or by mailing a copy thereof to you at your last known post office address, fourteen days, at least, before said Court; and also, unless it shall be made to appear to the Court by affidavit that you have had actual notice of the proceeding, by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Newton Graphic a newspaper published in Newton the last publication to be seven days, at least, before said Court.

Witness, Charles J. McIntire, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this second day of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

New Books For ChristmasTHE BOY ELECTRICIAN

By ALFRED P. MORGAN

This is the age of electricity. The most fascinating of all books for a boy must therefore be one dealing with the mystery of this ancient force and modern wonder, even a mere list of whose services is impossible. The best qualified of experts to instruct boys, Alfred P. Morgan, has in a book far superior to any other of its kind, told not only how to make all kinds of motors, telegraphs, telephones, batteries, etc., and to do so economically, but has explained the principles upon which these depend for operation, and the every-day world. So well presented and so attractive is this really great book that it will be an education for any bright boy to have it, as well as the best kind of a moral safeguard, leaving no time or thought for evil, and a means of future benefit beyond the power of any one to reckon.

WHEN I WAS A BOY IN PALESTINE

By MOUSA J. KALEEL

Each of the "Children of Other Lands Books" is the truthful story of some one in America who has lived the native child life described. Perhaps the most interesting one of all is that of Mousa (or Mosé) Kaleel who was born ten miles from Jerusalem, grew up in the same way that children of the Holy Land have known since the days of Solomon, and came to this country after acquiring some outside knowledge at a school conducted by Americans. Incidentally, his splendid physique made him one of the leading athletes at Haverford College, and his bright mind and great industry combine to promise much for the future. This narrative is as full of life and vigor as the young author himself. A great element of value is the constant mention of features that throw intensely interesting side-lights upon the study of the Bible.

JEAN CABOT IN CAP AND GOWN

By GERTRUDE FISHER SCOTT

Jean Cabot, the heroine of two previous books of college life, is a superb young woman, physically and mentally, but thoroughly human and thus favored with many warm friendships. Her final year at Ashton College is the culmination of a course in which study, sport and exercise, and social matters have been well balanced, and through it all has been a constantly broadening spirit to service. Jean unselfishly devotes herself to her chums, her class, her sorority, and the whole college, benefiting all and gaining at every step in her own capacity for true enjoyment of life. One need not be a college girl, or even a "girl" at all, to be delighted with this bright, well illustrated book, which is complete in itself, though continuing the characters found in the earlier volumes.

MAKING MARY LIZZIE HAPPY

By NINA RHOADES

The latest of the "Brick House Books," so called from their unique cover designs, contains four good stories, the leading one being of a brave little girl forced to live for a time with a woman once employed in the little girl's own home. In this family is the girl "Mary Lizzie," whose misfortune it is to need such instruction as was given the famous Helen Keller, and little Rosie, the heroine, does this successfully. To make Mary Lizzie happy, nothing is told her of her mother's diminishing income, and this puts her conscientious little teacher to a most severe test. It will do any one's heart good to read how she meets the test, and what a reward of pleasure comes. The other stories are each true to Miss Rhoades's high standard of good taste, and her power to charm young readers.

THE REAL TURK

Mr. Stanwood Cobb, a son of Mr. Darius Cobb of Newton Upper Falls, has just published a book on "The Real Turk" thru the Pilgrim Press of Boston which gives a new and interesting light on that most interesting and misunderstood individual. Mr. Cobb spent three years in Turkey during the period which saw the rise of the Young Turk party and the downfall of Abdul Hamid and had excellent opportunities for studying the life and possibilities of the Turk. The book has interesting chapters on the influence of the climate on the Oriental, the Turk as a citizen, a business man, his attitude towards women, his ideas on education and several chapters on Islam and its rites. Mr. Cobb has written the book in a pleasing style and his comments and contrasts with American life and actions are timely and pertinent. The book is illustrated and is published at $1.50.

THE BOY WITH THE U. S. EXPLORERS

By FRANCIS ROLT-WHEELER

The value of the books of the "U. S. Service Series," by Dr. Rolt-Wheeler, is too well-known to need mention, and the latest volume, "The Boy with the U. S. Explorers," is in some ways the most practical and the most interesting of all. The hero, a bright lad, saves the farm in Kansas, which his father, a former professor, has not the strength or money to keep up, through a visit to Washington, which results in the sending of a Government agent to make the place a kind of temporary experiment station. Wonderful facts of plant and animal life are brought out, and, greatest of all, the boy wins a special prize in a cornfield contest a trip around the world with his friend, the agent. This involves many adventures, especially while exploring the great Chinese country for desirable specimens for the U. S. Bureau of Agriculture. The return through Siberia is also fraught with danger, but the plucky American boy comes through successfully.

Profusely illustrated from photographs taken in work for U. S. Government. Large 12mo. Decorated cover. Price, $1.50.

THE BOOK OF ATHLETICS

Edited by PAUL WITHINGTON, M. D.

This is the book to rouse any boy, or man, either, who is made up in any normal way. Nearly thirty college stars and champions, together with noted trainers like Keene Fitzpatrick and the late "Mike" Murphy, tell everything that can well be told regarding training for and performance in every form of competitive athletics that is of consequence. The book is made up under the direction of the best-qualified editor to be found. Paul Withington, who, as is shown by the title-page, is one of America's greatest amateur athletes, and who has the intellectual ability and high character requisite for presenting such a work properly. The emphasis placed upon clean living, fair play, and moderation in all things makes this book as desirable educationally as it is in every other way. Furthermore, while going fully into technical details of all subjects treated, every article is entertaining for those of any age from that of the story teller upward.

DOROTHY DAINTY'S VISIT

By AMY BROOKS

Each new "Dorothy Dainty book," while a complete story in itself, holds fresh delights for those who from previous books know the pleasing young characters and love them as no other "book children" are loved by little readers. In this one, Dorothy goes to New York City with her parents to visit the family of a little friend, Vera Vane. Nancy Ferris, Dorothy's dearest companion, has been stolen away on account of her skill in dancing, and a very interesting part of the story tells how Nancy, compelled to charm audiences at a theatre, is discovered through the wit and devotion of a young boy and restored to her home. Books are never continuously popular without reason, and the reasons for the great success of those of this series are easy to see.

Y. M. C. A. WINS

Newton Y. M. C. A. defeated the U. S. S. Brooklyn basketball five, 46 to 23, in a fast game at the local Y. M. C. A. Gym Wednesday night. The sailor boys kept the home players busy warding off their "cover" game. Milley, Bills and Smith did excellent work for Newton and Craig and Stone for the Brooklyn quintet.

Between the halves, Y. M. C. A. second defeated the East Boston Cubs, 72 to 3.

MOTORING IN WINTER

In this country, we have not advanced quite so far as has Europe in the matter of outdoor winter sports. We are still inclined to hug the fireplace, when we are able, and there is still a very large class of motor-car users which puts its cars for the winter, or uses them only as utility vehicles on the cleared streets of our larger cities. But even at that, the tide is turning, for the motorist of a few years ago was own brother to the bear in his hibernating habits. The bear, we are told, on the coming of cold weather, retires to his den and sleeps until a more propitious season. The early motorists, on the approach of winter, retired to their garages, and ceased to exist, as motorists, until revived by the warm sunlight of late spring. Today there is a large and constantly increasing group of motor-car enthusiasts, who have learned that winter is by no means a closed season for the enjoyment of their favorite sport.

The motorist who declines to motor simply because the calendar tells him that it is winter loses a supremely delightful experience. There is exhilaration in the onward rush through the biting wind. There is health and healing in the pure, clean cold. There is tonic in the sweep of the crystal clear air, keen as a whetted scimitar, and whipped home by the added impetus of light in a fast-moving motor-car. WOMEN'S CLUBS

EDITED BY GRACE M. BURT

"Finish your Christmas shopping by December 10" is the injunction of a popular almanac in its running comments upon days and things. Notwithstanding the numerous similar ones for "shopping early," a clerk in one of the leading department stores said within a few days that the Christmas business does not fully begin until that date and from then on there is one mad rush. Varying factors enter into one's ability to finish the shopping early—pressure of duties, ready cash, etc., etc. Many, however, find it more comfortable and satisfactory to pick up from time to time articles as they are changed upon, thus avoiding the "mad rush" at the end. There are advantages and disadvantages in this method and this column is not the place to discuss them. The Club Editor merely wishes to throw out the hint that the women who are the chief shoppers, should be as thoughtful as they may be in the matter and that all, who can do so as well as not, should not leave to the last minute what might better have been done in comfort and ease a few weeks earlier.

Local Happenings

The members of the Newton Mothers' Club found unusual profit in the lecture by Mr. Edwin D. Mead at the meeting on Monday afternoon, his topic being "The United States and a United World." Mr. Mead was in England during the past summer and at the outbreak of the war went to Germany where he had interviews with able and thinking men and is thereby enabled to present authoritative facts upon both sides of the situation. At the close of the lecture the members enjoyed the usual social hour.

On Monday afternoon the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. continued the study of Ireland. Mrs. S. D. Whitmore who was in charge, read about Queenstown, Cork, Dublin and Belfast from a recent book, "One Irish Summer," which the members found most entertaining.

The meeting of the Newton Highlands Monday Club held with Mrs. E. P. Bosson on Dec. 7, when the study of South America was concluded. Mrs. George M. Stone read from "Chili and her People of Today," by Nevil O. Winter. Mrs. S. A. Thompson read the paper prepared by Mrs. H. E. Williams entitled, "Reflections and Forecasts," which dealt with the possibilities of South America. Plans for the coming year were discussed and solos were rendered by Miss Frost and Miss Marion Frost.

Notwithstanding the severe storm a large number of representatives from neighboring clubs accepted the invitation of the Brightelmstone Club to be present at its meeting on Monday afternoon. Mrs. George W. Perkins, president of the State Federation, was prevented by illness from being present, but Mrs. Frank L. Young, president of the Boston Federation, Mrs. J. W. McIntyre, president of the Newton Federation, were there to speak for their organizations.

The Social Science Club was at home Thursday afternoon, December 10th with Mrs. Frederick J. Fawcett, 30 Hyde avenue, Newton, from four until six o'clock.

Mrs. L. S. Drake, the president, received, with Mrs. Fawcett, Mrs. F. B. Horrocks and Mrs. H. H. Powers. Those who poured were Mrs. William P. Ellison, Mrs. F. E. Stanley, Mrs. C. H. Patton, and Mrs. Henry Tolman.

41 SUMMER ST. BOSTON

Mrs. Young made an earnest plea for the women of her constituency to be actively interested in the great problem of the unemployed in our midst this coming winter. Mrs. McIntyre told of some of the things, which have been done by the Newton Federation, mentioning in particular the dental clinic. Mrs. Henry Coolidge Mulligan, a former president of the State Federation, was a most welcome guest.

In her brief talk she referred to the incite she has been gaining from a recent reading of the history of the century just past and she urged her hearers to take home with them and reverently answer the question, What is your world?

After a brief intermission the guests were most pleasantly entertained by a musical given by the Misses Whitaker, violin and piano, and Miss Henry, soprano. At the close the audience adjourned to the social room where they all were lavishly served and where many had the opportunity of renewing pleasant acquaintances made on the Biennial trip.

On Tuesday afternoon the Auburndale Woman's Club held its regular meeting in Burr School Hall, when Miss Mary Augusta Mullikin of Lasell Seminary spoke upon "House Furnishings." Two Italian girls, pupils of the West Newton Music School, provided the music, one giving a piano solo and the other a violin selection, being accompanied by Miss Ruth Crandall. Both girls played remarkably well and show promise for the future.

Today the Relief committee of the club has been holding an all-day sewing meeting in the Congregational chapel under the direction of Mrs. Spicer and Miss Peloubet.

At the meeting of the Home Economics department of the Newtonville Woman's Guild on Dec. 8, Mrs. Irving O. Palmer served a "Salad made from Biennial Bits," which in reality contained the best that was given at the Home Economics sessions at the Chicago Biennial. Mrs. C. A. Cotton, who has been for many years connected with Miss Farmer in her demonstration work, gave a demonstration of planked steak and fish and the serving of hot vegetables, which go with them. Instruction was also given in the use of the pastry tube for icings. Mrs. Cotton was assisted in her preparations by Mrs. E. T. Crave.

A very large number of members and friends of the Social Science Club were present at the meeting on Wednesday morning to welcome Mrs. H. H. Powers after her long absence abroad. After brief items of business Mrs. Powers was presented and spoke most delightfully upon "Above the Clouds, a Day in India." In this visit to Darjiling Mrs. Powers said she felt she had reached the high water mark in the way of scenery. The trip is made from Calcutta as a side trip, it being necessary to return to Calcutta, the whole a distance of 700 miles. She urged the necessity of taking warm clothing as the nights are very cold for it is as essential as cool things when travelling in the tropics. The country along the way, the rivers and the various stages of the journey were described. The last fifty miles is made by a 2-foot gauge railroad, each car carrying but twelve people. In this train a climb of 7000 feet is made, mostly by switchbacks, there being no tunnels. Mrs. Powers considers it by far the most comfortable mountain railway ride she has ever taken, for the car travels up slowly and steadily with none of jolting attendant upon a cog road. Way up on the mountains tea plantations were found and today Boston firms advertise Darjiling tea. After visiting the bazaar in the market place and observing many curious sights about the village they retired disheartened by the falling rain and fearing that they were to lose the wonderful sight of the Himalayas for which they had made the trip. But at 3.30 A.M. when they were called there was not a vestige of cloud and the full moon was shining brilliantly, so the party set out for Tiger Hill being conveyed thither in the curious conveyance known as a dandy-walla carried by Tibetans. It took two hours to reach the top where they had a perfect view of Kunchinjunga 28,000 feet high and the peak of Mt. Everest, 29,000 ft. high and 125 miles away. The wonder and glory of the sunrise was portrayed in a way that made her companions feel, they too, were witnessing it. On the return journey another sunrise of most equal beauty, though widely different, was seen upon the Ganges River. In closing Mrs. Powers touched upon some of the British problems in India and alluded to the loyalty of India to England at the present time, saying that a new chapter is being opened for England and India by this war, horrible though it is.

Many photographs and postcards were shown and Miss Emery, who accompanied Mrs. Powers upon this trip exhibited some curious pieces of jewelry which she has brought home from there.

The Pierian Club will entertain the gentlemen at its meeting on the evening of Dec. 17 at the home of Mrs. O. E. Tuller, when Rev. Mr. Benjamin will talk on "Alaska."

Mrs. Burrisson continued the history down through the thirteenth dynasty. The story of the Persian and Ptolemaic Periods was told by Mrs. Sargent and Roman Rule under Cleopatra and the Caesars was dealt with by Mrs. Beedle. Mrs. McDonald concluded with the history of Constantine and the Byzantine Period. So absorbingly interesting did these papers prove that the meeting was prolonged far beyond the usual hour.

CHICAGO RETURNS SHOW BIG VOTE

Official returns from the November election in Chicago were available Nov. 28 for the first time. They showed that 123,991 women voted at that time, despite the fact that women, because of Illinois' peculiar election law, had no voice in the most important offices to be filled. The number voting is about 75 per cent of the registration, which was 166,277. Then men's vote in Chicago (with several warm contests) was 351,741, or about 90 per cent of the registration, which was 390,615.

If the figures given in Tuesday's election in Newton are correct, less than 50 per cent of the men registered, voted. Is not a greater interest in public affairs needed by both men and women, a broader civic consciousness, which realizes that election day is Citizens' Day?

More than one hundred guests attended the reception on Thursday evening at the Rev. C. Charles Gray, pastor of the Newton Methodist Church.

The vestry was decorated attractively with various colored chrysanthemums, and Mr. Gray was assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. Elliston H. Bell and Mrs. Kiser.

An excellent musical program was rendered for the entertainment, which included 'cello selections by a boy 'cellist, Master George Brown of Melrose which were finely rendered and received with great enthusiasm. Vocal selections by Miss Florence Hale, soprano soloist at St. Mark's Church, Brookline, consisting of two groups of songs which were beautifully rendered with piano accompaniments by Miss Elsie Leonard, who also contributed two piano solos.

The KITCHEN
CUPBOARD

A HINT FROM ITALY.

DINNER MENU.
Cream of Celery Soup.
Potato Puff.
String Bean Salad.
Mutton with Macaroni.
Compote of Apples.

THE Italians cook macaroni with meat, an innovation to the average American housewife. One way of thus using it is suggested here. Potato Puff.—Take boiled potatoes and press through a masher. To each cupful of the potatoes take a tablespoonful of butter, one-fourth of a cupful of milk and the beaten yolk of one egg. Season with salt and pepper, mix well and fold in the beaten white of the egg. Bake in individual dishes.

Served With French Dressing.

String Bean Salad.—Take a quarter of a peck of string beans, wash and string them, split the long way and put in boiling water and boil until tender. Drain and blanch with cold water and put in cold place. Marinate a cupful of finely cut onion with two tablespoonfuls of olive oil. If the family likes raw onion mix with the beans, but if not spread over one-half or three-fourths of the beans. Line the salad bowl with lettuce, place on the beans and sprinkle with a teaspoonful of salt and a little pepper; then spread on the onion over one-half or three-fourths; cover with French dressing.

With Cold Mutton.

Mutton With Macaroni.—Cut some slices of cold mutton about half an inch thick, wrap them each in a piece of white paper well buttered and grill them over a clear fire. Then remove the papers as quickly as possible and place the meat in the center of a hot dish, arranging all round it some macaroni prepared as follows:

Chop up finely half an onion and fry it a golden color in an ounce of butter; then add half a teaspoonful of stock and double that quantity of tomato pulp or conserve, with pepper and salt to taste. Bring to boiling point and add half a pound of small pipe macaroni which has just been cooked in fast boiling salted water and well drained on a sieve. Stir all gently together over the fire.

A Simple Sweet.

Compote of Apples.—Cut in halves as many apples as will be required, remove the cores and in the holes put a little mince meat or preserve. Sprinkle a clean baking pan with sugar, lay the halves of apples in, sprinkle over a very little powdered cinnamon and grated lemon peel and some more sugar. Then let them stew until they are sufficiently done and serve very hot. The sugar should be brown and turned to caramel.

HOW TO MAKE KETCHUP.

KETCHUPS are probably the most popular of all table sauces.

They may be made with tomatoes, walnuts, mushrooms and some fruits. Good ways of making ketchups are suggested here:

Fruit Ketchup.
Grape Ketchup.—Wash and stew five pounds of grapes over a slow fire until soft. Strain through a sieve and add two and a half pounds of sugar, one tablespoonful of cinnamon, one tablespoonful of allspice, one-half tablespoonful of cloves, one tablespoonful of pepper, one-half tablespoonful of salt and one pint of vinegar. Boil until a little thick and bottle.

Cucumber Ketchup.—To one quart of peeled, seeded and grated cucumbers allow two green peppers, seeded and chopped; one grated onion, one gill grated horseradish, two tablespoonfuls of salt. Put over the fire and simmer an hour. Add one pint of vinegar, bottle and seal.

A Combination Sauce.

Mixed Ketchup.—Take one-half peck of finely cut ripe tomatoes, one teaspoonful of minced onions, one teaspoonful of chopped nasturtium seeds, one teaspoonful of grated horseradish, two finely chopped red peppers, three large stalks of chopped celery, one teaspoonful of mustard seed, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one large tablespoonful each of black pepper, cloves, mace and cinnamon, one-half cupful of sugar, one quart of vinegar. This requires no cooking.

Made With Tomatoes.

Red Ketchup.—Take one peck ripe tomatoes, cooked and strained; one pint vinegar, one and one-half cupfuls sugar. Put in a cloth two tablespoonfuls of cloves, one-half tablespoonful of allspice, two tablespoonfuls salt, four tablespoonfuls cinnamon, one-quarter teaspoonful cayenne pepper. Cook to desired consistency.

Sweet Ketchup.—Take four pounds tomatoes. After they are peeled put in and cook out some of the water. Add one pound of sugar, one pint of vinegar, one tablespoonful salt, one tablespoonful each of cinnamon and cloves. Put spices in a bag and boil with the ketchup and a little red pepper. Put in the vinegar just before it is done.

ALLSTON THEATRE.—The Masonic Lodge of Brighton attended the Allston Theatre in a body last Monday evening and enjoyed an excellent performance. Because of the beauty of this theatre it ought to be a splendid idea for other organizations to follow the example of the Masonic Lodge. On Monday and Tuesday the fourth episode of the great picture, "The Master Key," will be shown, accompanied by a fine program of vaudeville. Some very excellent pictures and vaudeville have been scheduled for the whole week.

BURNS-ODELL

An interesting social event of the past week was the wedding on Saturday evening, November 28th, of Miss Ethel Marie Odell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Eustace Odell of Newtonville, and Mr. John Thomas Burns, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Burns of Jefferson street, Newton, and the junior partner in the well known real estate firm.

The ceremony was performed at 7.30 by Rev. A. S. Malone, assistant rector of the Church of Our Lady. The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful wedding-gown of ivory white satin divies velvet, court train, and trimmed with exquisite white lace which was made in Ireland especially for the occasion. She also wore an imported tulle veil arranged with cap effect and fastened with a spray of orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The bridesmaid, Miss Marie Pugh, a classmate of the bride at Notre Dame Academy, was becomingly gowned in yellow crepe de chine and tulle. She wore a black velvet hat trimmed with tulle and carried yellow chrysanthemums. The two little flower girls were Miss Madeline Burns, sister of the bridegroom, who was daintily gowned in pink accordion plaited crepe de chine trimmed with pink roses, and Miss Katherine Gleason, attractively attired in a gown of white lace and yellow tulle.

The bridegroom was attended by his brother, Mr. Thomas H. Burns as groomsmen, and the ushers included Mr. James E. Odell, Jr., brother of the bride, Mr. G. Wallace Odell, Jr., cousin of the bride, Mr. Arthur Santry of Dorchester, Dr. Stephen P. Mallett of Newtonville, Mr. Joseph Holden of Newton Centre, and Mr. Robert Burns of Newton, brother of the bridegroom.

Following the ceremony a large and brilliant reception was held at the residence of the bride on Walnut street, which was elaborately decorated for the occasion with palms, mountain laurel, pink roses, and yellow chrysanthemums.

The young couple were assisted in receiving by their parents; Mrs. Odell was gowned in lavender crepe de chine with black lace and jet trimmings and Mrs. Burns wore a handsome gown of Venetian gray crepe de chine with trimmings of coral lace and brilliants, and corsage bouquet of violets and white roses.

During the reception a ladies' orchestra of six pieces furnished a delightful program of music.

Guests numbering 500 were present from New York, New Hampshire, Boston, Worcester, Dorchester and the Newtons.

Mr. and Mrs. Burns left on a wedding trip to the south and on their return will reside in their new home recently completed on Lowell avenue, Newtonville.

N. T. H. S.

The class of 1917 has 162 members, 81 boys and 75 girls. Bucknam addressed the Senior Assembly on "The Work of a Forester."

The Salesmanship class is soliciting advertisements for the school paper, the "Dynamo."

At the meeting of the Athletic Association, held Tuesday, the following fellows were awarded sweaters and "Ns" for their playing on the football team: Charles Bryson, Lewis Harris, Charles Brady, T. Comick, F. Caverly, P. Turner, Hugh Mellor, C. Vachon, Joseph Hughes, A. Fay and manager Stickney. Nineteen in all received sweaters; the others go to the other school.

The "Hockey Hop and Basket Ball" was well attended. Dancing always proves popular with the pupils.

A Girls' Glee Club has been started under the supervision of Mr. Wingate. There are thirteen members. The Club has not elected its officers so far this year, and therefore, Miss Mary Clifford is still president.

Anne Barrett, class of 1914, has accepted a position as stenographer in the Newton Trust Company.

On Wednesday Mayor Childs spoke to the boys on "Life." He appealed to the fellows to grasp their opportunities, and accept the high ideals their teachers are holding out to them. He condemned wasting evenings in the street, and at cheap shows. He said pleasure was all right in its place, but he must be an honest day's work. The talk was very instructive, and Mr. Childs was enthusiastically applauded.

The Fencing Club meets Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons. The members' competitive meet has started. Clark Hayden is giving able instruction.

REAL ESTATE

Alvord Brothers have sold to R. F. Whitehead for Leila S. Mason the lot of land on the corner of Sumner and Ward street, Newton Centre, containing 11,690 square feet and assessed for $1500. The new owner intends to build a fine single house for occupancy.

Alvord Brothers have sold for George H. Sleeper to F. E. Houghton the estate on West street, Waltham, partly in Weston, near Kendall Green Station, consisting of a single 10-room house thoroughly modernized, stable and 24 acres of land. The new owner has bought for a residence.

In connection with the above sale, F. E. Houghton has sold to George H. Sleeper a lot of land on the corner of Parker street and Browning road, Newton Centre, containing 9,350 square feet and assessed for about $2000.

A well chosen book or set of books always makes a satisfactory gift—one that long remains a reminder of the donor. It is not very often that such special values are offered in December as those now being shown on the "special bargain counter" at the Lauriat Company's store. A few of them are briefly mentioned in our advertising columns today, but the books need to be seen to be fully appreciated. They are of a kind that any one would gladly welcome as a prized addition to the home library and the prices in many instances are less than half of the original cost. If you desire to make a gift that you need not be ashamed to send to a connoisseur, and yet not spend much money you want to look into these special offers.

NEWTON Y. M. C. A. NOTES

The second of the Fireside talks on Sunday afternoon will be addressed by Vernon B. Swett, Secretary of the Planning Board of the City of Newton. He will talk on some social, economical and educational results likely to follow the present war in Europe. Any man will be welcome at this fireside gathering as will also the older High School boys.

Next Monday Dr. Ferguson will address the Fellowship Club at 7 P. M. Supper will be served at 6.30 as usual. Dr. Ferguson's subject will be "From my Study Window at Nanking." We feel sure that many who do not attend the club meetings regularly will wish to hear this address. All are welcome, only let the General Secretary know if you expect to attend the supper.

If you are in doubt about a Christmas present for a young man or boy consider a membership in the Newton Young Men's Christian Association. It will last the whole year through.

Boys' Division

Newton was represented at the Conference of the Y. M. C. A. Boys of Greater Boston held at Everett last Tuesday by Ernest Woodworth, Earl Clark, Robert Rhodes, Lawrence Hollingsworth and Leander Harding. Mr. Canning, the Boys' Work Secretary, accompanied the delegation and took an important part in the program of the conference.

The meetings of the K. S. G. Club so far have been great successes. Mr. Gott's talk on "The Lineup" was exceedingly interesting and that of the Rev. Mr. Person this week on Handicaps made every boy feel that he was going to have better habits hereafter. Next week the talk will be on "The Secret of the Aeroplane." Remember that these meetings are held every Tuesday at 4.15 P. M. at the Y. M. C. A., and that all boys in the city who are eleven, twelve or thirteen years old are invited.

The K. S. K. Bible Club, led by "Ted" Morton, won the shield for November with a score of 83%. The L. D. H. Club, led by Mr. Ellison, came next with 91%.

The schedule of the hours at which the Boys' Division is open has been prepared and each boy will receive a copy with the November edition of the "Bulletin."

The Wireless Club will meet Friday, the 11th, at 7.30 P. M. The leader, Russell Black, has an interesting program prepared.

WEST NEWTON MUSIC SCHOOL

The West Newton Music School will give its Christmas entertainment for the benefit of the school on Friday evening, December 18th, at 8 o'clock and on Saturday afternoon, December 19th, at 2.30 o'clock at Player's Hall. The price of admission is very low and it is hoped that each performance will bring a full house, since the school makes this annual entertainment its only effort of this sort to obtain the funds that enable it to continue. The work is constantly increasing in influence and there is a very large waiting list of children anxious for its advantages.

In response to many requests the opera given last year, "The Tables Turned on Santa Claus' Christmas," will be repeated with forty members of the school in the cast. A delightfully realistic Santa Claus appears in a lovely and most convincing Christmas Tree Land attended by his sparkling Frost Sprites and Snow Flakes and others of his retinue of helpers; but in a most discouraged mood and on the point of giving up forever his business of bringing Christmas happiness to millions of children who never think of doing anything for him in return. Two little mortals hear his complaint and plan a Christmas for him that brings to him the Christmas joy which he has so generously given to others.

It is hoped that the children will be happy to take up his task again. The music, stage settings and costumes are especially pretty and effective and the entertainment is very attractive for children as well as grown-ups. A short musical program will be given between the acts by pupils of the school.

The musical manager is Miss Jennie Papworth; acting manager, Miss Ethel Howland; stage manager, Mr. Arthur G. Hosmer; costuming, Mrs. L. A. Kimberly.

THE PLAYERS

Many many years ago, so our histories tell us, the Pilgrims, or Puritans, whichever you may wish to call them, landed at a spot near what we now call the town of Plymouth. After thoroughly establishing themselves they wandered one day, strange countries for to see and discovered the Players and their wonderful performances of amateur theatricals; at least it seems to many of us that it must have been that long ago since the Players first became noted for their most excellent productions.

In regard to the present series of performances given this week at Player's Hall, it is only fair to say that the title, "When a Man Marries," is adapted from the book of the same title by the author, Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood. It is distinctly a farce and in three acts. There are no problems presented—no lessons—and, in fact it is nothing but a bit of fun making based upon a situation possible rather than probable.

The cast included: W. V. V. Marsh, H. C. Thomas, T. E. Stutson, W. I. Fearing, Miss Elizabeth Upham, Mrs. W. C. Hall, Miss Ethel Howland, Mrs. Caroline L. Freeman, A. L. Wakefield, E. I. Locke and Mr. W. F. Glidden was the acting manager and Mr. Arthur G. Hosmer the stage manager.

The incidental music was in charge of Mr. A. H. Handley.

CHARITY BALL

The annual Charity Ball given by the Finance Committee of the Mothers' Rest Association will take place in Bray Hall, Newton Centre, on New Year's Eve, December 31, 1914, from 8.30 P. M. to 1 o'clock A. M. There will be a special feature at midnight and the music will be of the usual good character. No tickets will be sold at the door.

SOCIALISM

Fine Address by Dean Charles R. Brown at the Christian Forum at Eliot Church

The third meeting of the Christian Forum for the season was held in the Eliot Church on Sunday evening. An address was given by Dean Charles R. Brown of Yale University, whose topic was "The Case for and Against Socialism." He spoke somewhat as follows: It would be hard to name any word that is being misused as often as this word "socialism." If it was a dangerous weapon somebody would have been hurt long ago. If some preacher says that he believes the working men are being down-trodden and that certain injustices are being done toward their organizations he is at once labelled as being a socialist and people look upon him as a dangerous character. Therefore, at the outset a definition seems in order. I will take the words of Mr. John Spargo, who says that Socialism is the organization of the economic system on the basis of government ownership and government control of the resources and machinery of production. No man is a socialist who does not believe in government ownership. Now I believe there are certain things to be said for the socialist. We must give them credit for realizing that there is something wrong in our present system. I believe their highest point of usefulness is in their criticism of existing conditions, and I admire their efforts to point out injustices. They have good men connected with their movement and they have reason, but there are reasons everywhere. There was a rascal among the Twelve Disciples. We also see that the plan they suggest would eliminate certain evils. It would also increase the opportunity for employment for these same pleading and inspiring people. It certainly is a matter to be considered and I believe the socialist scheme would increase the well being of the great masses of the people.

I am not a socialist. A great many years ago I very nearly became a socialist, but was cured of that idea by the socialists themselves. Twenty-five years ago I was pastor of a church in Charlestown and was also a visitor for the associated charities. I know all the districts of the north, south and west ends and I know the amount of misery there 25 years ago. I went to California from there and became a member of Ruskin Club, which was composed of men who were interested in this socialist question. Among its members was Jack London and Mr. J. S. Whitaker who has since been elected Socialist Mayor of Berkeley. We met once a month for dinner which was followed by discussion. I remained a member of the Club for ten years and came into close contact with these men. Sometimes in our discussions we had more heat than light, more rhetoric than logic. Finally I withdrew and came east to my present position. Some of the arguments at the meetings seemed to me to be very impracticable. First of all we are not good enough to work the scheme the socialists suggest. It demands a public spirit without proper compensation. If it seems advisable to seize a man's land it assumes the land without reward. Man only works because of necessity, in order that he and his family may live. Let me explain. I have been in the active ministry for 25 years. For the sake of securing money to support myself I have been preaching the best I know how for the reward and with the hope of doing good. And yet, I have noticed that when a minister marries a very rich woman he is apt to become afflicted with sore throat or nervous prostration and retires and spends his time in travelling or some other amusement. The fact that he has money and is not by necessity required to spend a large part of his time puzzling out a sermon for the next Sunday, seems to diminish his enthusiasm. Personally, I have never received a dollar, either by patrimony or matrimony and have had to work for my living because of necessity. Now if we adopt the socialist scheme our individual necessity would be, in part taken away.

I want to call your attention to the socialist attitude toward the question of property. When a socialist has an idea that he needs certain land or thinks he needs certain land for some improvement, he takes it and says it is necessary for the working out of his plan, but when the owner seeks compensation he calls it hideous greed.

The socialist movement is not a local movement. It is world wide and has reached its greatest development in Germany and Russia. The socialist is largely a materialist. The socialist insists that history was not made up of many great ideas, but by economic conditions, under which men and women thrust themselves. But look at the events which have made history. The crusade of centuries ago and in our own Civil War were not caused by economic conditions, but by great ideals.

Another point against the socialist is the fact that he is very strongly opposed to religion. Every movement for the good of man is backed by the motive of religion. The men and women who go into heathen lands to work have no motive but the spreading of the true gospel and the betterment of man.

Then again the socialist scheme would not work as a practical scheme. Our present method of choosing men to head our large industrial plants, railroads, banks, etc., is the selection of men who by business training and administrative ability are able to run the plant at the least expense and turn out the largest profit. Do you believe under government ownership these men would have any chance of being selected by vote of the people? Usually a good business man is not much of a politician, and the politicians would secure these administrative offices, and it is a question whether or not they could be run at a profit for the government.

Government ownership and control I believe could be carried further than it is at present, but it would not be advisable in many cases. Take the matter of manufacturing ladies' hats. The ladies all have individual tastes and fashions. If a woman buys a hat and sees her neighbor with one just like it, she is disgusted, while a man is not satisfied unless he has a hat like every other man in his neighborhood.

In the matter of the press. At present we have a free press and a man (Continued on Page 5.)

There are only a few days now in which to finish up your Christmas shopping, and you would perhaps be surprised to know how many of the places still left open on your list could be better filled in with books than in any other way. For the children particularly is this true, though for the grown folks too, they offer the most same solution to many a problem as to what to give. Then as to the selection, you can save yourself a lot of time and worry—and even some money perhaps—by going at once to Boston's recognized headquarters for books—Lauriat's.

ASK FOR NEW LEGISLATION

Aldermen Want Additional Authority to Control the Delivery of Liquor Into Newton

For over two hours on Monday evening the board of aldermen discussed the liquor situation in this city, with an audience that filled nearly every seat on the floor and gallery. While the debate was nominally on the majority report of the License committee opposing the granting of liquor transportation permits to five expressmen, and on an order instructing the mayor and city solicitor to petition the next Legislature for authority to control the liquor situation in this city, the actual discussion centered around the recent majority and minority reports of the License committee which were printed in the GRAPHIC two weeks ago.

When the majority report on refusing liquor permits to W. O. Harrington, F. Gasbarrri, J. P. Roberts, Johnson & Keyes and C. G. Newcomb were reached, Alderman Richardson, at the suggestion of President Blakemore called up his resolution which had been tabled the meeting previous, in regard to new legislation on the liquor problem in this city.

Mr. Richardson first had his resolution amended making it more general in its terms and then said that the matter of granting permits was not the real question and in his opinion the only solution was to have authority to get the same information from liquor dealers as was formerly obtained from the expressmen. We want to reduce the liquor business in Newton and as the experiment this year is not convincing we need legislation to get absolute control of the situation.

President Blakemore called Alderman Winslow to the chair and said, that two of the present petitioners had been examined and Roberts' business was 98 per cent express and Gasbarrri's was 83 per cent express, the other three being deemed good enough by the committee as not to warrant any special examination. The experiment made this year has produced these agreed results, it has not affected the consumption of liquor in this city, it has turned over the transportation business to the Boston liquor dealers, it has prevented the police from keeping track of the liquor coming into the city, it has hurt our reputation by the publication of unfair reports of the liquor brought into Newton, as Newton is one of the most temperate cities in the state, it has reduced our No license vote from 4 to 1 to less than 2 to 1, and it has increased drunkenness in the city.

There was not one chance in a thousand for this legislation to be enacted and he read a letter from Representative Bothfield who stated that no special act would be favorably considered and a general bill would start a liquor fight which would be unwise at the present time. Mr. Blakemore said it was not a fact that the minority wanted to go back to the old system as they only wanted legitimate ex-

pressmen licensed as before. Mr. Blakemore said that the outsiders who were urging action by the board did not know the problem or the facts and quoted one of them as not knowing the recent decision of the Supreme court and other pertinent facts affecting the situation. Mr. Blakemore stated that it was a dirty piece of business to publish the anonymous statement made in Auburndale three years ago about Representative White, that it was dirty business for a Newton Centre paper to publish certain statements affecting the re-election of President Gray two years ago and he resented the remarks made from the pulpit by his own minister just before the recent primary, which had the effect of branding two clean men as friends of rum. He also told of Mr. Harry L. Jones coming into his office last summer and telling him that unless he voted as Mr. Jones told him to he would kill him politically. He said he was somewhat of a crank himself on temperance and was the first man to advocate the discontinuance of the druggists' licenses. He resented the language in the majority report on Judge Kennedy who had done more for temperance than all the persons in this chamber. He resented the attacks on Mayor Childs because he would not order the police to arrest everyone for bringing liquor into Newton, and said that Mr. Childs had done wonderful work for temperance. He resented the attacks on Alderman Pratt for his stand on this matter and said he had always found him an honest, useful and Christian gentleman. He recalled that such men as Frank A. Day had voted for these permits when members of this board and asked if men like Mr. Day were "friends of rum". Mr. Blakemore said he was proud of the work of this board while during his service of five years and knew that a majority of the members thought as he did but were not going to vote as he did. He thought it deplorable that the board should yield to the pressure of a small group of persons and urged them to vote for the best interests of this city and of temperance.

Alderman Bartlett criticized the majority report on the liquor situation for stating that the action of last spring was unanimous as he felt sure he had voted consistently to grant permits to six of the petitioners whom the committee had endorsed as legitimate. One great trouble we are now experiencing was the bringing of

XMAS WARNINGS

Every Year in America many children are burned to death by fire from Christmas candles.

Do not decorate your Christmas tree with paper, cotton or any other inflammable material. Use metallic tinsel and other non-inflammable decorations only, and set the tree securely so that the children in reaching for things cannot tip it over.

Do not use cotton to represent snow.

If you must have snow use asbestos fibre.

Do not permit children to light or relight the candles while parents are not present. They frequently set fire to their clothing instead.

Do not leave matches within reach of children at holiday time. Candles are meant to be lighted, and if the children can get matches they will experiment with them. They imitate their elders.

Do not allow trees to remain inside buildings after the holidays. The tree itself ignites readily when needles have become dry. A large number of fires usually occur in January from this cause.

A House of Merriment is better than a House of Mourning.

TUBERCULOSIS FROM MILK

"It is not generally known that tuberculosis from milk is very rarely transmitted after the fifth year of a child's age. The main precaution for you to remember in this milk subject,
is that only certified or perfectly pasteurized milk be used when there is any question as to the health of your children."

Such is the opinion of Dr. William H. Park of New York City Board of Health, who shows the result of a recent study of his among babies in a hospital where only pasteurized milk or certified milk was used, or else where only wet nurses were employed.
Dr. Park compared children fed on this kind of milk with that of the average uncertain quality brought to the door by the dealer who is not sufficiently careful. The result of the investigation proved that where the ordinary carelessly handled, unpasteurized
milk is used, 55 per cent of the deaths of the babies were caused by tuberculosis germs in the milk.

Some time ago the entire city of New York was canvassed with the idea of determining the number of children dying from tuberculosis during the year who suffered from the bovine form of the disease. It was found that over 12 per cent of all the children who died of tuberculosis had received their disease from drinking tubercular
milk from infected cows.

"It is therefore well," says Dr. Park,
"to look to the essential purity of the milk which you supply to the babies in your home. There is rarely any danger to yourself as an adult. The danger period lies chiefly in the children.
The only safe way, if the mother cannot nurse the baby, is to consult her physician and have him direct her as to the best and most responsible source where you can procure perfectly pasteurized milk for your children.
Only then can you feel certain that the milk is absolutely free from tubercular germs."

"PENELOPE" AND "MY TURN NEXT"

The juniors of the Entertainment Club gave a very successful performance on Friday evening in Hunnewell Hall, Newton, under the auspices of the choir of Grace Church.

"Penelope," a one-act opera by Frank C. Walker was presented before a large and enthusiastic audience. It abounded in mirthful melody and ludicrous situations, and was illustrative of the trials of a cranky "Missus," and her house-maid, "Penelope," who eventually paid more attention to her admirers than to her household duties.

The scene was laid in "Mrs. Croak-er's" kitchen and the role of housemaid was taken by Miss Margaret B.
Pierce, who played the part exceedingly well. Among her devoted admirers, was William V. M. Fawcett, in the role of a grenadier. Usually, military men make a great "hit" with the ladies, and "Tosser," the soldier, wooed
with a vengeance and showed both natural talent and evidence of good training during rehearsals.

Bradford Story, as "Pitcher," the police-man-lover of Penelope, was certainly cut out for the part, which he played in fine shape as a deceiver he was very clever and kept his audience continually amused.

Miss Clarissa L. Townsend, as "Mrs.
Croaker," the Missus, was one of the best in the cast, and as an actress displayed no small amount of talent.

Geoffrey A. Baker, as "Chalks," the milkman, another aspirant for the heart and hand of "Penelope," made a great "hit," not only as a milkman,
but he mastered the art of making love, and was rewarded in the last act;
he not only got the hand of the present house-maid, but the audience, in recognition of his clever acting, frequently gave him the hand.

"My Turn Next," was a ridiculously funny farce, written by Thomas J. Williams, and presented by a cast of seven young men. The "star" role was taken by Geoffrey Baker, who represented
"Taraxicum Twitters," a village apothecary, whose matrimonial venture, owing to a series of misunderstandings, appeared to be reaching a tragic climax. His part was a difficult one, but he made it appear easy, and exhibited an extraordinary amount of dramatic talent.

Frederick T. Burrows, as "Tim Bulus," his assistant, was wonderfully clever, and altho' his was also a hard part, he very equal to the occasion.
Edison Jewell, Jr., as "Tom Trap," a commercial traveller, was another of the clever ones, and E. Kenneth Peterson, as "Peggy," the maid, made the most of the part assigned him, and acquitted himself most creditably.

Raymond O. Ford was excellent in the role of "Lydia," the druggist's wife, and George Madell, as "Cicely," her niece, was certainly a "winner." He played the feminine role to perfection,
and was the personification of a charming little society girl in evening dress.
Charles K. Davenport represented Farmer Wheaton from Banbury; the part was nicely interpreted and the lines well spoken.

Every member of the cast did well,
and spoke loud enough to be heard distinctly in the rear of the hall. On several occasions a sentence was lost because of continued applause, but there were no weak voices and no stage fright.

The young actors held their audience close from start to finish, and they may congratulate themselves on the success which they achieved as it gave evidence that they were capable of presented a program unsurpassed by youthful amateurs.

The plays were well staged under the direction of Mr. Leverett D. G. Bentley, who also coached the performers. Mr.
Charles N. Sladen, the choir-master, directed the rehearsals and the piano accompanist was Mr. W. Edward Hollingsworth.

The vocal selections, "Slave Song," and "Just a Wearyin' For You," were rendered between the acts by Miss Marie F. Sladen, a member of the Newtonville Choralists. Choralists who possesses a rich contralto voice of exceptional beauty and volume. She was accompanied on the piano by Mrs.
Eliot B. Church.

The soprano solos "Because," and
"Drifting and Dreaming," were beautifully rendered by Edward S. Wheeler, with Mrs. E. S. Wheeler, accompanist.

THE TABLES TURNED OR A CHRISTMAS FOR SANTA CLAUS

The Grown-Ups who think that there isn't going to be any Christmas spirit in the world this year, on account of that great big terrible war
in Europe, should just poke their heads
inside of Players' Hall this evening, December 18 at about 8 P. M. or next Saturday afternoon, December 19 at 2.30 P. M. and see for themselves what is going to happen.

There 50 (the pastor says 40, but we know better) of the pupils of the West Newton Music School will sing, dance, and act the way through one of the prettiest and charming song stories ever written for children.

It is the same Operetta that was given last year by many of the same pupils of the Music School, because we were begged to repeat it by the Grown-Ups who came then and wanted
all their friends to have the privilege of seeing it.

And you will also have a chance to find out for yourselves what good use these little music scholars have made of the pennies and big round dollars
you have generously given them in the past, and then you will know that not a cent of it has been wasted upon these children who are so eager for instruction that they, "just hate to miss a lesson."

Miss Clara Bullard of Temple street, West Newton, will sing the part of Santa Claus, and Miss Marguerite
Jones of Valentine street will again represent the Christmas Angel. All other parts are played by the pupils of the school. The instruction in singing has been under the direction of Miss Jennie Papworth, the acting manager is Miss Ethel Howland; stage manager, Mr. Arthur G. Hosmer, and the costumes are by Mrs. L. A. Kimberly.

Come early, as no seats are reserved; and some of the pupils will play their pieces before the performance begins.

ANOTHER CLEVER CHRISTMAS SKETCH BY J. EDGAR PARK
THE REJUVENATION OF FATHER CHRISTMAS

Santa Claus one Christmas time was rudely aroused to the understanding that he had fallen into certain unfortunate ruts in the matter of giving, and was not infrequently piling burdens on people's shoulders instead of increasing the joy of living; that he was in danger of attempting to concentrate on Christmas Day a spirit which must extend over all the year. How he reformed, how he spent a year as Brother Christmas, and came with new joy to be Father Christmas again, is the plot of the story. A dozen clever drawings by H. Boylston Dummer. Printed in two colors with unique border scheme.

SHUBERT THEATRE—The marvels of the New York Hippodrome, the largest and most famous playhouse in all the world, are to be brought to Boston for an engagement of two and a half weeks beginning on Thursday, Dec. 24th, when the spectacular production of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Pinafore" made there last Spring and talked of from one end of the continent to the other, is to be presented at the Shubert Theatre. The Hippodrome production of "Pinafore" is not to be compared with any other production of this classic ever made for the simple reason that no production originating in that marvellous institution can be reasonably compared with any other stage presentation. In the first place, the entire stage of the Shubert is to be flooded with real water necessitating an expense never before attempted in the history of local amusements. On this real water will ride a real ship, an exact reproduction of an eighteenth century English frigate. The characters coming on board this ship will be rowed across the water in small boats in full view of the audience. The principal roles will be sung by a company of grand opera artists selected with great care.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—During the coming holidays give yourself the biggest theatrical treat in years by witnessing Cyril Maude, the distinguished English actor appearing in "Grumpy" at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston. The piece has won the unanimous praise of both press and public.

WOMAN'S SUFFRAGE Interesting Discussion at the Meeting of the Newton Centre Christian Forum

A large audience was present at the Unitarian Church at Newton Centre on Sunday evening to listen to a discussion of Woman's Suffrage held under the auspices of the Newton Equal Suffrage Association. Mrs. William Lloyd Garrison, Jr., president, and introduced as the first speaker ex-Congressman Samuel L. Powers.

Mr. Powers began his speech by saying that he had no apology to offer for appearing in a pulpit to discuss the question of Woman's Suffrage; that it was the most important moral issue of the age; that no civil reform had been under consideration so long, nor one that affected so many people as the question of securing for woman her just rights; that this reform commenced centuries ago, and it had been a constant struggle up to the present time; that in the beginning woman was the slave of man, and without question it was a long time before she was even able to secure the establishment of the institution of marriage; that after that came the question of protecting herself from the slavery of her husband, and later the right to own property, to have the income of her own property and her own wages for her own benefit. Later came the question of the right to be educated the same as man, and to be permitted to enter the public schools and receive the same kind of education that was given to men.

Mr. Powers said that at the present time the women of Massachusetts enjoyed the same political and social rights as the men with the single exception that they were not permitted to enjoy the full right of suffrage. This, he said, was the last step to be taken to insure to woman the same political rights as those enjoyed by man, and he asked what possible reason could be given why this last concession should not be granted to woman. He said that woman was subject to all the laws the same as man. If she violated them she was punished the same as man. She paid taxes on her property in exactly the same way as man, and since she was subject to the laws why should she not have the same opportunity as man to take part in determining what the laws should be. He said taxation and representation were co-extensive.

Mr. Powers said that it was no argument to say that woman should not vote because she could not fight. The fact is that nearly one-half the men who vote are not qualified by age to fight, neither is any argument against the proposition that some women said that they did not desire to vote. The fact is there are many men who do not desire to vote; that there are tens of thousands of men in Massachusetts each year who refuse to vote, and many refuse to register; that in the last city election in Newton only about 40 per cent voted, and if it had not been for the license question very likely not over 25 per cent. would have voted. He said that if women were permitted to vote he believed they would exercise a strong, conservative force which would always be in the interest of peace as against war; that this country stood for peace and against militarism; that wherever women were voting there was found the highest civilization in the world. The condition of woman was the index of the standard of the progress of mankind.

Mr. Powers commended the message of President Wilson on the subject of peace, and ended by saying that this country represented the highest civilization that the world had ever seen; that it would control the destiny of this continent, and he believed under the guidance of Providence was to control the destiny of the world.

The next speaker was Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett of New York, who commenced her speech by reading the first words of the Federal Constitution, beginning "We, the people of the United States, do ordain," and she very pertinently asked "What does the word 'people' mean? If the term 'people' does not include women, why was it used at all? Why did it not begin by saying, 'We, the men, do ordain,'" etc. She spoke of the qualifications necessary to vote, saying that anyone who was an American citizen, either by birth or naturalization, and was twenty-one years of age, and could read and write, was permitted to vote; that women reached the age of twenty-one as readily as men; that they were quite as likely to be American born as men; that they could be naturalized just as easily as men, and that they could read and write even better than men, because American women were more generally educated than the men. Why, then, if they could comply with all the qualifications of voting, should they not be permitted to do so.

She further said that Woman's Suffrage was no longer an experiment; that in nearly half the area of this country women voted exactly the same as men; that no disaster had happened to anyone by reason of women voting; that their interest in national politics ran along the same lines as that of men; that in local affairs they were likely to be more strongly in favor of local and social reforms than men, and frequently accomplish local reforms that would not have taken place except for their vote. She said that the ideal home was produced through the co-operation of the father and the mother, which was termed fatherhood and motherhood; that if the home could be made better by the co-operation of the father and mother, why was it not true that the State could also be made better through the co-operation of men and women having equal political rights, and working together for the accomplishment of the common purpose. She spoke of the tendency of the laws at the present time to regulate the home, and said that the woman was certainly quite as good a judge of what regulation of the home was necessary as was the man. She gave a very amusing account of the seven stages through which the Anti-Suffragist went in her opposition to equal suffrage. When it had become an accomplished fact; she would exclaim, "I was always in favor of woman's suffrage." She said that the opposition to equal suffrage had come most strongly from the liquor interests, who seemed to think that if women had the right to vote they would limit upon the sale of liquor would be greatly extended, and therefore from a selfish interest they were opposed to granting to woman her political rights.

Mrs. Dennett claimed that the giving to woman the right to be educated and to take part in the industrial affairs had greatly improved her, had made her more self-reliant, and more influential, and if you widen her sphere by allowing her to take part in political affairs it would be giving her greater opportunity for development, and accomplishing in life what nature had intended her to accomplish.

NEW STREET RAILWAY SERVICE

On Wednesday, the Boston Elevated Railway Company began the operation of cars carrying "CAR FULL" and "LIMITED STOPS" signs on the Reservoir-Subway line via Beacon Street and on the Commonwealth Avenue and Brighton Avenue lines. This system of operation is the same that has been in use on a dozen other lines in other parts of the system and has given general satisfaction to the Public by separating long distance from short distance riders.

The "CAR FULL" sign will be used during the morning rush hours and will be displayed on cars inbound from the Reservoir upon reaching Coolidge Corner and on inbound Brighton Avenue cars at Harvard Avenue. Such cars will stop to leave passengers but not to take passengers until the Boylston St. Subway is reached.

"LIMITED STOPS" signs will be used during the evening rush hours on outwardbound cars on these lines. They will read—"LIMITED STOPS TO COOLIDGE CORNER" and "LIMITED STOPS TO HARVARD AVE." Cars carrying these signs will not stop to leave passengers but will stop to take them before reaching the points named. In order to accommodate passengers riding to and from points between Coolidge Corner and the Subway and between Harvard Avenue and the Subway on Brighton Ave., a separate service will be run between Coolidge Corner and the Subway and between Oak Square and the Subway. Cars on these shorter lines will make every regular stop at which passengers wish either to board or leave the cars and it is intended to operate cars on these long and short lines alternately outward bound during the evening rush hour, so far as possible.

The use of the term "EXPRESS" for passenger service will be discontinued. The "LIMITED STOPS" have been substituted as being more appropriate and expressing more accurately the method of operation. The phrase has been used on other lines and has become familiar to a large portion of the Public.

During both rush hour periods, cars are now operated at three minute intervals between the Reservoir and Park Street in addition to the local line between Coolidge Corner and Park Street on which cars are operated at intervals of four minutes.

The Company has been seriously handicapped in the dispatching of cars from Park Street by the temporary reduction in platform space made necessary by the work of the Transit Commission in enlarging the station. It is expected that when the completely remodelled station is turned over to the Company that traffic conditions will be greatly improved.

The Company urges patrons taking cars at Park Street to observe the indicator that shows at which berths in the station outgoing cars on different lines will stop. If passengers will rely upon the sign board and remain at the berth shown, even though some other car may be there at the moment, they will find that the car which they desire will shortly arrive at the berth indicated.

Nearly two hundred cars an hour are operated around the Park Street loop and several thousand passengers per hour use the station. The Company asks its patrons for their co-operation and wishes to impress upon them that regulations and restrictions are imposed by the Company only for the purpose of making the service more satisfactory and efficient.

When the cars are run at frequent intervals, the Public will render great assistance in the effort to operate cars on time and space them evenly, if they will wait for the next car when they observe that any particular car is crowded, and thereby liberate themselves more evenly over the number of cars provided and not delay cars behind the crowded car by holding it up in trying to obtain entrance into it.

BOARD OF TRADE
 At the Newton monthly meeting of the Newton Board of Trade held at Newtonville, Monday evening, it was voted to increase the membership, to protest against the proposed subway station at Arlington street on the ground that it will tend to lengthen the running time to Newton, and to suggest that the Cambridge-Water-town cars make the run to Oak Square instead of stopping at Watertown bridge. A committee was appointed to take up the question of sanding streets with the street commissioner.

Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Middlesex, ss. PROBATE COURT.

To Honorable Frederick W. Mansfield, Treasurer and Receiver General of said Commonwealth; Maria Barker and Abbie Gage, Chamberlain, both of Newton, Marrie Georgina Barney of Marlborough all in said County; the Deacons of the Mount Vernon Church of Boston and the Mount Vernon Congregational Society, a Massachusetts corporation having its usual place of business in Boston, both in our County of Suffolk; Ada Florence Martin, Louise Martin Hunscomb both of Rumford, Maine; Eugene Martin, Alice Maria Barker, Paul Barker Head, the Deacons of the First Congregational Church of Bethel all of Bethel in the State of Maine; Franklin Martin of Woodford in said State of Maine; Arthur Elbert Barker and Edith Barker both of Washington in the District of Columbia; WILHELMAS, Maria Barker executrix of the will of Pelicia H. Barker late of said Newton, has presented to said Court her petition in equity representing that it appears by the inventory of the estate of said deceased that she died seized of an undivided half interest in 26128 sq. ft. of land in said Newton with the building numbered 270 Wolcott St. thereon and that she died possessed of certain deposits in Savings Banks; that the Tax Commissioner of said Commonwealth in accordance with the provisions of Section 19 of Part IV of Chapter 490 of the Acts of 1909 has determined the value of said real estate to be $1450, and the value of said personal property to be $4711.71, which valuation, both as to real estate and personal property has been accepted by the petitioner; that said Commissioner has allowed a deduction for debts and expenses of $687.70, and has certified the tax payable by the petitioner to the Treasurer and Receiver General under the provisions of Chapter 563 of the Acts of 1907 and Acts amendatory thereof at $1055.48.

And further representing that the aforesaid tax is commuted at 2% on $5274.01 on the theory, as to the construction of said will and the codicil thereto that the respondent Maria Barker (who is a sister of the testatrix) took said real estate in fee and also took outright the residue of the personal property, viz: that said codicil made the said real estate and personal property to be divided equally between said Maria Barker by said will; that if the aforesaid construction of said will and codicil is correct, no one of the respondents except Maria Barker is entitled to any share in the estate; that if the aforesaid construction of said will and codicil is not correct (viz: if said Maria Barker took outright said real estate only and took no more than a life interest in the residue of the personal property, or if she took only a life interest in the residue of the personal property and in the real estate as well) then there will be payable either a legacy and succession tax of $25, or no tax at all.

The petitioner further represents that she is in doubt as to the legal effect of said will and codicil and says that she cannot safely pay said tax without the instructions of said Court and accordingly prays for instructions upon the following questions:

- (1) What estate does said Maria Barker take in said real estate?
- (2) What interest does said Maria Barker take (subject to debts of the testatrix and expenses) in (a) the wearing apparel, furniture, bric-a-brac, books and other personal effects of the testatrix? (b) the bonds above mentioned? (c) the deposits in Savings Banks above mentioned?
- (3) If said Maria Barker takes the residue of the property outright, is the same subject to the pecuniary legacies mentioned in the codicil, or does she take the entire residue, subject only to the pecuniary legacies mentioned in the will?
- (4) What tax, if any, shall the petitioner pay to the Treasurer and Receiver General of said Commonwealth?

You are hereby cited to appear at the Probate Court to be holden at Cambridge in said County of Middlesex, on the first day of January A. D. 1915, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said petitioner is ordered to serve this citation by delivering a copy thereof to each of you who may be found in said Commonwealth, fourteen days, at least, before said Court, or if any of you shall not be so found, either by delivering a copy thereof to you wherever found or by leaving a copy thereof at your usual place of abode, or by mailing a copy thereof to you at your last known post office address, fourteen days, at least, before said Court; and also, unless it shall be made to appear to the Court by affidavit that you have all had actual notice of the proceeding, by publishing the same once in each week, for three successive weeks, in the Newton Graphic a newspaper published in Newton the last publication to be seven days, at least, before said Court.

Witness, Charles J. McIntire, Esquire, First Judge of said Court, this second day of December in the year one thousand nine hundred and fourteen.

MINSTRELSY AND VAUDEVILLE

"Magnificent Medley of Melodious and Melifluous Minstrelsy," was the title of an original entertainment in two acts, with interlude, which was presented Friday evening in the New Church parlors, under the auspices of the Young People's League.

An enjoyable program was arranged which was replete with good singing and bright jokes. The first act opened with the chorus singing of "I'm Goin' Back to Dixie," "I Want to Linger," and "Japanese Moon." Mr. A. B. See entertained the audience with a monologue; Mr. Daboll gave "Johnnie Schmoker"; Mr. Macomber "Perhaps," and Mr. Kempton "Sister Susie's Sewing Shirts for Soldiers."

"Take Me Back to Panama" was the opening chorus of Act II which included "Comedy," by Mr. Charles S. Bolster, "The Musical Mutts," by Mr. See and Mr. Kimball; "I've Only One Idea About the Girls," by Mr. Kimball and the chorus singing of "It's a Long, Long Way to Tipperary."

The interlude consisted of "Sorrows of a Super Soul," or the Memoirs of Marie Mushenough; a Futurist Drama in one act, translated by machinery out of the original Russian by Stephane Leacockowitch, which was presented by the Misses Kempton, Miss Elizabeth Daboll, Mr. Gould, Mr. Wellman, Mr. Hayden and Mr. Kempton. Among the attractive features of the entertainment was an interpretative dance, "Butterfly and I," which was cleverly and gracefully executed by Miss Pamela Gifford of Newtonville.

Mr. John Daboll was the interlocutor and the end men were Messrs. Kenneth Kempton, Charles Bolster, Mr. Kimball, and Mr. A. B. See. The chorus included Mrs. Raymond Carter and the Misses Rosalind Kempton, Elizabeth Daboll, Metelena Maxim and Margaret Kempton, sopranos, Mrs. R. C. Woodberry and the Misses Mary Daboll, Frances Iredell and Alice Sampson, altos; Messrs. Raymond Carter, Walter Macomber and A. B. See, tenors and Messrs. Charles S. Bolster, Prescott Wellman and Kenneth Kempton.

There was a large attendance and during the intermissions refreshments were served.

POLICE NOTES

In court Saturday morning, two boys were fined $50 each and one $20 on the charge of malicious injury to property, by setting fire to the old Crane house on Rowe street last Thanksgiving eve. This place has been set on fire nine times in the past three years.

Associate Judge William F. Bacon conducted the inquest Saturday morning into the death of Patrick J. Cummings of 839 Brown street, Waltham, who was killed on the evening of Dec. 1 when the automobile in which he was riding came into collision with another auto owned and operated by Joseph Couture, also of Waltham, Crafts street, near Churchill avenue, Newtonville, near the Waltham line. About 12 witnesses were heard. Judge Bacon reserved his decision.

On Monday morning Judge William F. Bacon imposed a fine of $50 each upon David Rosenthal of 12 Mechanic street, Upper Falls, and Harry Rosenthal, brother, of 77 Oak street, for conducting a gaming nuisance, and a fine of a like amount on John Korbut of Needham for being present at the game. The other two men captured in the raid Saturday in the store of David Rosenthal, Victor Jaworski and John Laikowicz, both of Needham, for being present at the game, were fined $10 and $5 respectively. The five men were arrested just before noon on Saturday by patrolman Shaughnessy and Sergt. James J. Mullen, and all entered pleas of guilty.

CHRISTMAS CELEBRATION

The exercises in connection with the Community Christmas celebration in the Newton Highlands will be held in front of the Congregational Church on Christmas Eve at seven o'clock. The pastors of the local churches, Rev. L. A. Parsons of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Rev. Arthur Kelley of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and Rev. George T. Smart, D.D., of the Congregational Church, will participate, and a chorus of one hundred and fifty voices, with cornet accompaniment, under the direction of Mr. Eliot H. Robinson, will sing the famous old English carols.

The decoration of the Christmas tree will be under the direction of Mr. W. H. Cummings. At the close of the exercises the chorus will be divided into five groups which will cover all sections of Newton Highlands, singing Christmas carols.

All residents are urged to illuminate their houses and to put lighted candles in their windows from seven to nine o'clock. In case of inclement weather the exercises at seven o'clock will be held in the vestry of the Congregational Church.

SUNDAY MORNING FIRE

The parish house of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Newton Highlands, which adjoins the church, was damaged $3000 worth by fire early Sunday morning. Two alarms were sounded from box 64 which summoned nearly all of the Newton apparatus and the blaze took nearly two hours to quell. It is believed to have started in the kitchen and when discovered by Mrs. Louis A. Parsons, wife of the rector, was burning through the roof. The rectory is just in the rear and the crackling of the flames awoke Mrs. Parsons.

The firemen confined the blaze to the kitchen mostly, although a part of the chancel was scorched. The usual Sunday services were held all during the day, and except for the scorched carpet and window in the chancel and the strong odor of smoke, there was nothing to indicate that a fire had threatened to destroy the church a few hours previous.

The rector could give no cause for the fire as the kitchen gas stove was not used on Saturday and there was no sign of fire when the church was closed the night before. The loss is entirely covered by insurance.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving remembrance of our dear mother, Mrs. Mary A. Dresser, Waban, Mass., who entered into rest, Dec. 5, 1914.

We do miss our dearest mother, All her sufferings now is o'er. We do know mother is waiting For us safely on the other shore.

Unto her sweet rest is given, All sickness, all sorrow and pain; When the roll is called in Heaven We can meet mother there again.

Mother heard a voice we cannot hear, "Why do you tarry earth and stay?" Mother saw a hand we cannot see That beckoned dear mother away.

Gone where every eye is tearless, Now gone from earthly care and strife, Oh, the waiting is sad and cheerless, Till we meet dear mother there.

Sweet the rest from all our roving, Land of light and hope afar, Lo! Our mother's hand so loving Set the Pearly Gates ajar.

Written by Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin P. Dresser, Syracuse, N. Y.

Miss Merrell has taken Miss Emma Johnson as a pupil. Seventy-four students answered Coach Dickenson's call for Track. There were eight veterans, six of whom were members of last year's team. The election for captain came out a tie between Roberts and Rogers. Boudrot, Adams and Litchfield will show up well in the dashes. Nathan, who was 2nd in the B. A. A. schoolboy 600-yd. race last year, is back again. Trials for the N. H. S. Relay Team will begin in about 3 weeks.

Following the meeting, the members of the Association spent an enjoyable hour inspecting the Science Laboratory and Equipment.

The Alumni Dance is to be held Jan. 8. Schools will close on Wednesday, December 23rd, for the Christmas vacation, and open Monday, January 4th. The Sophomore and Junior Classes went to the Hall Wednesday. The performance was in the hands of the Tech. College Sophomores. Poems were recited, and songs sung, the words of which came from the book they had been studying, called, "The Poetry of the People." Much credit is due to Miss Doonan who arranged the program.

Preparations are under way for the Public Declaration to be given in January. Gym practice will begin Monday, January 4th, and it is hoped that the two schools will produce as good a gym team as in previous years.

Mr. Robert Bennett, a former well known resident of West Newton, died suddenly Tuesday evening at his home in South Natick, after an illness of about an hour. Mr. Bennett was born in Bal Macellan, Scotland, and was about 59 years of age. For many years he resided in West Newton where he was agent at the railroad station for some time, and subsequently entered the fire insurance business. He removed to South Natick about eight years ago, where he was a member of the parish committee of the Eliot Unitarian church, vice president of the South Natick Historical, Naval and Library society, and a trustee of the Bacon free library. He was a member and past master of Dalhousie lodge of Masons and a member of the Newton Royal Arch Chapter and of Newton Lodge of Odd Fellows. While a resident of this city he represented West Newton in the Common Council of 1892-93. He is survived by a widow.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

EDITED BY GRACE M. BURT

That clubs are much the same the country over was manifest to the Club Editor in a recent visit to a meeting of the Brooklyn Woman's Club. This club in its Year Book states that hardly had the country recovered from the shock of the formation of Sorosis in New York City and the New England Woman's Club in Boston, when the Brooklyn women decided to organize. This was in 1869. The name first suggested was Social Science Club, but for some reason the one finally agreed upon was the Brooklyn Woman's Club. Two years later it became incorporated.

For many years its membership was limited to from 100 to 150 members and its meetings held in halls. But recently the club desired a permanent home and a fine old residence on Pierpoint street was purchased and remodeled, a large addition having been made in the rear to provide for an auditorium. This is entered on the ground floor, while the rear rooms of the second story form a balcony and parlors for serving tea. Class and committee rooms are higher up in the building, while a few rooms are rented for lodgings. The decorations throughout are beautiful and the hall is fitted up with a small stage and curtain for dramatic entertainments. To assist in making this possible the membership has been increased to 350. The club itself has done many good things for civic betterment and from the announcements given at the meeting attended the Brooklyn women are interested in many of the things that the Newton women are. The club has been working for Belgian and Red Cross relief and after the holidays they will meet and sew for the poor of their own city.

Local Announcements

On Monday, Dec. 21, Mrs. Eleanor H. Porter, author of "Pollyanna," will read before the Brightelmston Club.

The monthly current events class of the Newtonville Woman's Guild will meet on Tuesday morning, Dec. 22, at 10.30.

Mr. Havrah W. L. Hubbard will give two opera talks for the members and guests of the Auburndale Women's Club, the first at the LaSalle Seminary gymnasium, the first at 10 o'clock on "Lohengrin," the other at eight in the evening on "Tales from Hoffman."

Local Happenings

The regular meeting of the West Newton Women's Educational Club was held at Players' Hall on Friday, Dec. 11. A report of the work of the Education committee of the Newton Federation was given by Mrs. C. C. Parlin. The program for the afternoon was in charge of the Civics committee. Mrs. Burston, chairman, Mrs. Maude B. Harding spoke on "The United States Life-Saving Service." Mrs. Harding is thoroughly familiar with every phase of her subject and succeeds in imbuing her audience with the interest and sympathy she herself feels for the service. At the close tea was served under the direction of Mrs. Munroe, chairman of the Hospitality committee.

On Monday afternoon the Newton Highlands C. L. S. C. devoted the time to the consideration of Irish biography. Mrs. Fred Hayward was in charge of the work and gave an account of the lives of Peg Woffington, the actress, Margaret, Countess of Blessington, Bishop Berkeley, the philosopher, and Father Mathews, the apostle of temperance. Many anecdotes were related concerning these persons and the whole made a very interesting program.

At the meeting of the Newton Highlands Monday Club on Dec. 14 the subject of Children's Books was considered by Mrs. C. G. Wetherbee. She emphasized the importance of fairy tales for children as a means of developing their imagination. A Christmas fairy tale by Rev. J. T. Stocking, formerly of Newtonville, was read by Mrs. V. E. Bowen. Mrs. E. G. Allen and Mrs. S. L. Eaton led the discussion of the question, Does story reading vitiate the taste for better literature?

The Review Club of Auburndale met on Tuesday, Dec. 15, at the home of Mrs. F. N. Peloubet on Woodland road. Mrs. Spaulding sang Tennyson's "Brook," accompanied by Mrs. Freeman. The first paper was on "The Merrimac River," by Mrs. Bostwick, followed by Mrs. Spaulding, whose subject was "The Connecticut," the longest in New England, covering three hundred and fifty miles in its course. Mrs. Freeman spoke of "The Blackstone River" and Mrs. Draper told about the "Old Canals and Stage Roads."

Pe-ahm-e-squeet, Floating Cloud, the young Indian girl, entertained the members of the Newtonville Woman's Guild at its meeting on Tuesday afternoon. Indian myths and legends were related and some of their songs sung in a most charming manner. She says that all the songs except the death songs are written in a minor key, being, as she explains, the tones of a race that is passing away, and therefore sad.

The tea arrangements savored of Forefathers' Day, those serving being dressed in Puritan costume. On the table was a huge Christmas basket. Mrs. E. S. Kimball, chairman of the Hospital committee, was in charge and Mrs. C. S. Crane, Mrs. W. A. Corson, and Mrs. John Martin presided over the table, assisted by daughters of members. The club has sent off three boxes of clothing for Belgian and Red Cross relief and the work will be suspended until January.

On Wednesday morning Miss Eleanor F. Wells spoke before the Social Science Club on "Dietetics." Miss Wells began by speaking of the methods employed in institutions to save waste, telling how everything is checked up and explaining the system by which all this may be accomplished. Then she turned her attention to the home and asked the question, Is the home run on a business basis? The necessity of direct personal supervision of the kitchen in order to save waste, for which Americans are proverbial, was emphasized. From ten to twenty per cent of the nutritive value of food is often thrown away. In touching upon the marketing problem, buying by weight was advocated, also the going and picking out for one's self rather than ordering by telephone. The possibilities of co-operative markets as a means of saving were treated at length and some of these were described. In England they have always had the "spare of dire necessity," which has not been so prominent in this country, and for this reason co-operative markets have not been the success here that they have in that country.

In discussing the kinds of food, she pointed out the importance of getting a well balanced ration. We are apt to be too much upon meat, as a rule we are too heavy meat eaters. The assistance which may be had from Government bulletins and those prepared by Teachers' College at Columbia was suggested and many of these bulletins were shown. Many questions followed and the interest which has been taken in the presentation of the subject was manifest by the length of the discussion.

On Dec. 17, the Waban Woman's Club met with Mrs. Archie C. Burnett, 133 Waban avenue, with the President, Mrs. George M. Angier in the chair. It was decided to have a Community Christmas Tree, on Christmas Eve in the center of the town, the President being in sole charge of arrangements. Mr. Havrah W. L. Hubbard entertained the Club most delightfully with his Open Talk combining the two operas "The Jewels of the Madonna" and "The Secret of Suzanne." Mr. Floyd Baxter accompanied him. Mr. Hubbard spoke of the necessity of introducing American business methods into American Opera, that the Opera should be written in English for Americans, and outlining briefly the financial situation of the Boston Opera House. In speaking of the operas he said, "The Jewels of the Madonna," "Napoliitan" in character is a work destined to live and is one of the most effective stories we have, and the music is of the most beautiful. "The Secret of Suzanne" dealing with only three people suggests Mozart in character of the music. Mr. Hubbard read the scores of these operas with piano accompaniment so effectively that at the close all felt they had really heard both operas. Mrs. Edward C. Street, Jr., and Mrs. Louis W. Arnold presided at the tea.

The one hundredth birthday of the Newton Parliamentary Law Club was celebrated on the 15th inst. in a manner becoming a hundredth birthday—a mingling of the grave and the gay, the serious and the frivolous. One of the members, Mrs. Robert Gorton of West Newton, opened her house for the occasion. The first number on the program was the lesson. Seated around a glowing wood fire the class feasted on previous questions, committees, amendments, postponements—under the guidance of Mrs. Sherman so well known as an able expounder of Parliamentary Law.

At the close of the lesson Mrs. Gorton invited her guests into the dining-room where they found three tables bountifully laden with toothsome viands, a sight grateful to a band of women made unusually hungry by extra mental strain. Between the courses light literary entertainment, the controlled, restrained, informed attitude, revealing tact and courtesy toward those opposed to him and showing a genuine interest in the common weal. The matter seemed rather to be a personal one with the speaker, to be won at any cost.

It is bound to acknowledge the "temperate" character of the speeches of the temperance members of the Board and to appreciate the careful, reasoned statements, without rancor, made by them.

The second performance of interest was the sputtering attempt at oratory made by one of the city fathers, directed toward the chairman, but to a visitor at one side of the room.

This gem of oratory abounded in the phrase, "It's all politics," showing the speaker to be entirely ignorant of the definition of "politics," viz., "The administration of the state (or city) for its peace, safety and prosperity."

Another speaker brought out the interesting statement that our representative in the House, Mr. Bothfield, had stated that there was a general agreement among the members of the General Court that they would introduce no new legislation at the next legislature, a statement which Alderman Forknall very properly asked the meaning of.

The entire performance led us to wish heartily for a new, wider interest in civic affairs by both men and women, thus insuring a higher grade of statesmanship in those who are guardians of our municipal affairs.

LUCY JACKSON CHAPTER

Mrs. F. J. Fessenden, Regent of Lucy Jackson Chapter, D. A. R., of Newton entertained the chapter at her home on Albemarle Road, on Monday afternoon, having as guests Mrs. George O. Jenkins, Mass. State Regent D. A. R., and the Regents of many neighboring Chapters.

The meeting opened with singing "The Star Spangled Banner," and after the business session, Mrs. Jenkins gave a most delightful informal talk on the personnel of the Patriotic Societies, of which we are a branch; there are 87 Chapters in Mass. and two more almost ready to be included, it is the largest society of patriotic women in the world.

Mrs. Jenkins urged upon all to be most particular in regard to having "The Star Spangled Banner" always given by itself, as befitting our National Anthem, never included in a medley.

She spoke of the large amount of good accomplished by the Chapters, the various methods employed to obtain historical knowledge, raise money for charity and needs, gave pleasing incidents of her experiences in visiting, telling of cases of desecration of the flag, which had been speedily corrected.

Her whole address, touching upon points of vital interest, was charmingly given and enjoyed by all present.

Miss Ruth Crandell, accompanied by Miss Van Wagoner, sang a group of two songs, the Pine Tree, and a Russian song, adding much to the pleasure of the occasion. After singing America a social hour followed, when refreshments were served, a fitting close to a delightful afternoon.

Santa Claus was present, with a basket on his arm and received a generous contribution toward the debt on Memorial Continental Hall.

ANTI-SUFFRAGISTS TO UNITE

A large and enthusiastic meeting of the Newton Branch of the Anti-Suffrage Association was held Wednesday at the residence of Mrs. Charles H. Breck and an address given by Mrs. Thomas Allen of Boston.

It was decided that the branches of Newton, Newtonville, and West Newton unite in one organization with Mrs. Susan Hartwell of West Newton as chairman.

The Newton Woman's Club were entertained on Thursday afternoon December seventeenth at the home of Mrs. Frank L. Nagle, Kirkstall road, Newtonville.

Miss Ruth Garland gave a most delightful reading on "When Knighthood was in Flower," after which the members and guests were served with refreshments.

ONE POINT OF VIEW

Newton, Mass., Dec. 16, 1914.
Editor GRAPHIC:

The hundred or more citizens of Newton who were privileged to be present at the meeting of the Board of Aldermen last Monday evening, spent a very profitable evening. The first performance was a remarkable one—that of the president of a responsible body delegating his office to a fellow-member, while he himself took the floor to make a speech on the matter under discussion, a fiery, denuncatory, personal speech, mentioning three well-known citizens by name, and including all present in the denunciation by means of a sweep of the hand. This in spite of the fact that those attacked could not reply, as it was a session of the Board, and not an open hearing. We who listened looked in vain for the attributes of the statesman, the controlled, restrained, informed attitude, revealing tact and courtesy toward those opposed to him and showing a genuine interest in the common weal. The matter seemed rather to be a personal one with the speaker, to be won at any cost.

It is bound to acknowledge the "temperate" character of the speeches of the temperance members of the Board and to appreciate the careful, reasoned statements, without rancor, made by them.

The second performance of interest was the sputtering attempt at oratory made by one of the city fathers, directed toward the chairman, but to a visitor at one side of the room.

HONOR MEN AT HARVARD

Newton young men are well represented in the annual rank list at Harvard University, three receiving scholarships in the first group of 50 men and seven scholarships in the second group of 157 men.

The first group is made up of those undergraduates whose work in the preceding college year entitles them to "very high academic distinction." Synmonds, '15, of West Newton, who has been awarded a William Merritt scholarship.

The second group made up of students of marked excellence who have not attained a position in the first group includes Bartlett Harwood, '15, of Newton, Percival S. Howe, Jr., '15, of West Newton, Harold G. Noyes, '15, of Newtonville and James H. Hustis, Jr., '15, formerly of Newton who received Harvard College scholarships, Leland C. Roberts, '16, of Newton Centre, a Burr scholarship, Edwin S. Smith, '15, of Newton Centre, a Richard Manning Hodges scholarship and Philip D. Woodbridge, '17, of West Newton, a William Whiting scholarship.

AUTOS COLLIDE

Several persons were injured when two automobiles came into collision last Friday afternoon at the junction of Commonwealth and Grant avenue in Newton Centre.

A large limousine owned by R. B. Fuller of Brookline and operated by Daniel Carr, travelling towards Boston, ran into the machine owned and operated by Alden H. Spear, which of Commonwealth and Grant avenues. The Fuller machine contained Mrs. Alice G. Lockett and her daughter Miss Betsey Lockett of Commonwealth avenue, Brighton, who had been calling at the home of Mr. Fuller's daughter, Mrs. Edward E. Blodgett, and Miss Ellen I. Anderson of Rosindale, a seamstress. Mr. Spear was thrown several feet, and bruised and cut. Carr and Miss Anderson were cut by the glass of the windshield, while Mrs. Lockett and her daughter were thrown against the glass front of the limousine, Miss Lockett's head breaking thru the glass and both were badly cut.

ASK NEW LEGISLATION

liquor into Newton without police supervision. He did not favor the resolve before the board as it was too broad in its scope and offered a substitute which asked for legislation to prohibit liquor being brought into No license communities except by licensed expressmen. He thought it unconstitutional to pass any special act for Newton, altho it might be framed so as to cover a certain class of cities. He did not believe it was part of the duty of the aldermen to say to his neighbor that he could not have any liquor left at his residence. Mr. Bartlett said he would vote to refuse the liquor permits at this time and the present experiment ought to last a year but next spring the board should approach the matter with the idea of complying with the decision of the Supreme court.

Alderman Bemis endorsed the position taken by Mr. Bartlett and said that while statements had been made that this experiment was a failure, the reports do not indicate it. He found that there were only 2 more arrests for drunkenness than in 1913 and 80 were the same man and such statistics show nothing either for improvement or otherwise. He believed that our citizens in voting No license had in mind the fact that they were voting against an open saloon and retail liquor selling but that any citizen should be allowed to purchase liquor at any licensed place and be able to have that liquor delivered at his home, and that was the condition which should exist today.

President Blakemore stated that the figures showed that drunkenness had increased 30 per cent in 1914 over the same period as in 1913.

Alderman Jarvis said that liquor could be brought into Newton in four different ways, the American express, by freight, in which case the consignee must receipt for it personally, by the liquor dealers, provided it is done free of charge and the sale is not consummated in the place of delivery and by shipment from another state, altho the provisions of the new Webb-Kenyon law affect this method. The third method concerns this city the most. Under this plan, however, judges differ radically as to what set of facts constitute a consummation of sale. Some judges require but little evidence while others must have stronger testimony as to the sale.

Our chief of police and liquor officer told the committee that they could not prosecute liquor dealers for the local court would not issue the necessary warrants. However, a strong case was obtained and a warrant secured, but the defendant, after trial was discharged. Mr. Jarvis then gave the facts in the Glynn case here in Newton and the facts in the Flagg case in Worcester, where the defendant was convicted to show that the cases were apparently the same, and continued, "we are not criticizing the opinions of either of these justices, who are high minded and upright judges. We are simply giving you the facts." These cases however are purely questions of fact and so cannot be taken to the Supreme court. The law is unsatisfactory and should be made clear. Two bills pending in the last Legislature were passed by mutual agreement until next year on account of the opinion of the Supreme court handed down last May. The first bill prohibits the delivery of liquor into a No license town by a licensed dealer, while the second provides that such dealers must be licensed to make such deliveries the same as an expressman. Mr. Jarvis thought the second bill would be of advantage in this city under the present conditions. In closing he said that Everett returned to express his licenses last July, but the people prefer to have the dealers make deliveries and that about 80 per cent of the business is done by them.

Alderman Cox thought that no man ought to come to this board except with an open mind and he was well aware that such was not the case with some of the members. He had personally seen the kitchen barrooms and the discharge of an efficient police officer who successfully prosecuted them, on the ground that he was not educated enough. He declared that the best men in Newton had liquor in their cellars and that the only crime was in the abuse of liquor. He criticized the appointment of one officer as a liquor officer and thought every member of the police force ought to enforce the liquor law as well as every other law. He favored a referendum on the granting of liquor permits and opposed additional legislation as only the lawyers wanted more laws in order to stay in business.

Alderman Clark said that there had been considerable talk on the pressure exerted by the friends of temperance and wanted to know why nothing had been said about pressure from the other side, as he had been approached and reproached by several on this matter. He queried the injustice done to the legitimate expressmen and gave figures from the police records to show that outsiders like the Adams Express, American Express, Bailey's Express, J. P. Burke, Butters' Express, C. H. McIntosh and McNeilly had brought in 20,825 gallons of liquor, that "foreigners" like Carvelli, DeLuco, Gasbarri and Vedeccio had brought in 98,408 gallons and that with the exception of one other expressman who had brought in 20,000 gallons, the remaining 13 "legitimate" expressmen had averaged about 4000 gallons each. In addition Mr. Clark wanted to know why the expressmen alone had the sympathy of the board for loss of business for he said we have all kinds of tradesmen in Newton and yet there is hardly a man living here who does not patronize some dealer in Boston.

Alderman Pratt resented the distinct but covert criticism of Judge Kennedy in the majority report and stated that Judge Kennedy does a tremendous lot for the unfortunates of this city and no such reflection ought to have been made about him. He believed it a great mistake to have refused permits last spring and he should do all in his power to return to former conditions.

Alderman Forknall thought there was no question but what the police could keep in touch with the liquor dealers and even follow up their teams. He criticized the so called general agreement not to change existing liquor laws as quoted to the board. He claimed that expressmen had no right to the permits which had been formerly granted each year and if any expressman was deprived of a living because such permits were not granted he ought not to be in the express business. He said that the American Express Co. paid more taxes in Newton than all six of the expressmen favored last spring and should be given proper consideration as taxpayers. He questioned the statements made that to legalize the traffic would reduce drunkenness and that the citizens in voting No didn't know what they wanted. He declared himself to be entirely free to vote as he deemed best on this matter and thought the present plan ought to have a fair trial and if more law was needed, we ought to get it.

Alderman Alley thought that all the recent discussion on this matter had hurt the cause of temperance, and said he had been surprised at some of his neighbors who had voted Yes because they were disgusted with the whole situation. We all want to keep liquor and drunkenness out of Newton and if we can get legislation to prevent dealers from bringing it here and then license a few expressmen, we will control the whole situation better than ever.

Alderman Cobb defended the committee report stating that no reflection whatever was intended on Judge Kennedy.

Alderman Malcolm suggested that the board ought to study and follow the recent decision of the Supreme court.

Alderman Jamieson was strongly in favor of legislation to give citizens the decision on this matter of transportation. He failed to see that our condition was any worse than before and thought the action should stand until time had shown its defects.

The board voted 15 to 5 to accept the leave to withdraw report of the majority of the license committee on granting liquor permits to five expressmen, Aldermen Alley, Malcolm, Murphy, Pratt and Blakemore being in the minority.

Alderman Richardson accepted the Bartlett substitute and it was passed by a vote of 18 to 2, Aldermen Pratt and Blakemore voting in the negative.

President Blakemore presided and Alderman Blanchard was the only member absent.

Hon. J. M. W. Hall made a vigorous protest against Edison poles on Crystal street and a protest was also filed by Annie B. B. Plumer.

No one appeared at hearings on Edison petitions on Waltham street, telephone locations and conduits on Commonwealth avenue and on the laying out of Nobscot road. Petitions to keep gasoline from A. S. Fuller, Collins road, Waban, Philip S. Jamieson, Hunnewell avenue, Deborah Fawcett, Hyde avenue and B. W. Fredericks, Park avenue was granted after hearings.

Petition of Lillian M. Greene for apportionment of betterment on Marshall street was granted and these petitions were received, C. L. Torre, common victualler license, Centre street, Mulcahy & Son, liquor transportation permit, Mrs. James Clear, intelligence office, Allen et al for sewer in Beacon street, Waban, Stark et al for sewer in Tamworth road, Waban, of Strong trustees for laying out of Dorset road, S. A. Urelian for 3 pool tables, M. L. Crosby for laying out of Devon road and of the Telephone Co. for attachments on Churchhill avenue and to remove pole on Washington street.

Mayor Childs sent in various transfers of appropriations which were subsequently granted and asked for $28,79 to pension Patrick Moran and Thomas Foran, aged employees of the city, which was also granted.

Street Commissioner Stuart reported the completion of Duffield road under the betterment act at a cost of $1,946.32.

On reports of committees leave to withdraw was granted on claims of J. Harris Aubin on account of break in water pipe, John A. Lowell on account of surface water, H. E. Currier on account of removal of gravel, Mrs. D. C. Heath for reimbursement for expenses on account of Lowell avenue, for laying out and for concrete sidewalks on Windemere road, of R. N. Wales for taxicab licenses, of the Telephone company for poles on Groveland street, and of W. L. Puffer to burn leaves in the street.

Petitions for sewer in Wolcott park, and in John street, and proposed ordinance changing rate of sewer assessments were referred to the next city government.

Licenses for taxicabs were granted to George C. Wood and C. L. Hartshorne, as a common victualler to E. H. Deledernier, Newtonville, to Mrs. A. Louis for intelligence office, and attachments were granted the Edison company on Eddy and Cotton street, permit to remove pole on Grafton street, relocations on Groveland and Greenough streets and poles on Floral street, while the Edison and Telephone companies were given a joint pole location on Hancock avenue.

$180 was appropriated for the Kenrick fund income, $2700 added to the Tuberculosis account and various transfers made in departmental appropriations.

The appointment of Oswald J. McCourt as Overseer of the Poor was confirmed by a vote of 15 to 4.

Orders assigning hearings Dec. 29 on laying out of Dorset road, for laying out of Blackstone terrace and for drain off Waverley avenue were adopted.

Orders for legislation to change rate of sewer assessments and for legislation to improve Nonantum square were tabled until the next meeting.

Aldermen Pratt, Early and Alley were appointed a committee to arrange for an aldermanic dinner, and the Clerk of Committees to arrange for a photograph of the whole board.

The board adjourned at 10:45.

COL. HENRY WALKER

Long and Honorable Career Of A Resident Of Newton Highlands

Col. Henry Walker, formerly Police Commissioner of Boston and a prominent Grand Army man, and twice commander of the Ancients, died Sunday afternoon at his home, 55 Chester street, Newton Highlands, aged 79. Death was due to a general breakdown.

He had been an invalid for two years and had been confined to his bed since April. He had no immediate relatives and lived alone, except for servants and a trained nurse.

He was born in Boston in 1835, the son of Ezra and Maria A. Walker.

He obtained his early education in the public schools of the city, receiving the Franklin medal and other prizes at the Boston Latin School, where he fitted for Harvard College, from which he was graduated in 1855. In the class with Alexander Agassiz, Phillips Brooks, W. P. P. Longfellow, Theodore Lyman, Frank P. Sanborn and others who became prominent.

Upon leaving college he entered the office of Hutchins & Wheeler for the study of law, and upon being admitted to the Suffolk bar he established an office at 20 Court street. At the outbreak of the Civil War he joined the Union forces as adjutant of the 4th Massachusetts Infantry, the first to be organized under the call of President Lincoln, the first to leave Massachusetts and the first to reach Fortress Monroe. He was engaged in the battles of Big Bethel and at Newport News and Hampton. Returning home with the regiment he became actively engaged in the recruiting of troops.

In the Fall of 1861 he was appointed lieutenant colonel of the regiment on its reorganization.

In 1862 he was appointed colonel of the 4th Regiment and went with it to the Gulf Department, where it took part in all the military operations of 1863—the first march to Port Hudson, the Teche expedition and the siege of Port Hudson. Col. Walker was detained at New Orleans on courtmartial duty after his regiment returned home.

Col. Walker returned to Boston at the close of the war and resumed the practice of his profession, in which he built up a large business.

In May, 1877, he was appointed one of the License Commissioners of the city of Boston and from April, 1879, to April, 1882, he was a member and chairman of the Board of Police Commissioners.

During his term he wrote a new manual for the department; helmets were introduced and one color was provided for all uniforms; the Back Bay station was inaugurated; the first police matron was appointed; ambulances were added to the facilities of the force; systematic arrangements were made for the control of streets during fires and hack fares were systematized.

Col. Walker joined the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in 1877 and 10 years later, in 1887, he was chosen as its commander and presided at the celebration of its 250th anniversary in July of that year. As commander he also visited England to represent the company and participated in the observance of the 350th anniversary of the Honorable Artillery Company of London.

Col. Walker was again chosen commander of the Ancients in 1896, in which year occurred the visit of the company to England.

In July the company was given a grand reception in the great King's Hall of the Holborn restaurant. The Prince of Wales presided, and Col. Walker responded to the toast to Queen Victoria in a manner that attracted universal attention in both America and Great Britain.

At the election of commander in 1896 there were two other candidates in the field, both of whom had a backing of prominent members. Col. Walker would not work for himself nor ask any member of the company to work for him, but was elected. As soon as he had received his commission he appointed his principal opponent as chief of staff and chairman of the London trip committee.

For many years previous to 1902 all members of military bodies in Massachusetts were exempt from jury duty.

during the session of the Legislature of that year a bill was introduced in the Senate to remove the exemption from the Ancients. But that body was jealous of its time-honored privilege and Col. Walker led the fight against taking it away.

Col. Walker was a member of the Democratic State Committee for several years, and at various times he was its chairman.

For more than a quarter of a century he was treasurer of Christ Episcopal Church on Salem street.

He was connected with a number of other societies, the one most dear to him being the Grand Army of the Republic, in whose camps, parades and philanthropy he was an active and happy participant.

Col. Walker was a ready debater in court or forum, an affable conversationalist and an interesting entertainer. He had traveled widely and read much, and his memory was remarkable for its retentive quality and its correctness.

Funeral services were held Wednesday noon at his late home on Chester street and were attended by a large number of friends and delegations from many fraternal and military organizations with which Col. Walker was affiliated.

The services were conducted by Rev. Louis A. Parsons, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Newton Highlands, and the Harvard Quartet sang. The casket was covered with a silk flag which was presented to Col. Walker a good many years ago.

MR. BLAKEMORE REPLIES

To Recent Criticism Of His Attitude On Liquor Situation In Newton

To the Editor of the Graphic

You published last week what amounts chiefly to a personal attack on me signed by "one who was there," one of that courageous band of anonymous letter writers. He first criticises me as President of the Board of Aldermen for "delegating his office to a fellow-member while he himself took the floor." The fact is that the rules of our Board provide that "the President may express his opinion on any subject under debate but in such case he shall leave the chair and appoint some other member to take it."

My remarks were not intended to be "denunciatory" as he says but were a defense of the men in our City who have been daily doing the real hard work in the interests of temperance from the aspersions of men who are possessed of the obsession that doing away with the express license was a temperance measure and that those who think differently are friends of rum. A good sample of these attacks is the constant silly criticism of the liquor decision of our local court last summer. The fact was that the decision followed that of our Supreme Court on this identical statute and before it was rendered the presiding Judge submitted the facts and briefs to the two associate Judges and they each working independently reached the same conclusion—that the sale of liquor was made in Boston and the defendant was therefore not guilty.

"One who was there" closes by wishing that men and women would take "a new wider interest in civic affairs." I heartily agree with him and hope that interest will not take the form of making speeches to the Board of Aldermen on subjects they have not studied and do not understand but will rather be in the form of hard constructive work for the good of the City of the same character as is today being done by such bodies of public spirited men and women as the School Committee, the Library Trustees, the Newton Hospital Trustees, the Playground Commission and the Planning Board.

I believe that "one who was there" and his friends are enemies of good government in the City as they have systematically sought to pledge Aldermanic candidates to follow their particular solution of the difficult liquor problem and have tried to defeat men without regard for their fitness to serve the City but solely because they have refused thus to pledge themselves before hearing the evidence on all sides of the question.

The oath of office of an Alderman requires him to hear all citizens with an open mind and then vote according to his convictions on the merits after hearing the evidence and arguments and the highest type of citizen will refuse to follow any other course. Furthermore "one who was there" and his friends are making it harder each year

CHRISTMAS STORIES

Original Articles Written For the Graphic By the Sixth Grade of the Claflin School

1914 CHRISTMAS ABOARD AN ENGLISH DESTROYER

Clang! went the engine bell! Half speed ahead! The Essex, slim and grey, like a great animal forged ahead. Down below sailors were running to and fro and in the smoking room drowsy men reposed, some hidden by a cloud of smoke. Tick, tick, went the wireless and from the operator's room came, "Captain, ahoy, message."

The call was answered by a tall, dark man with piercing eyes and a figure that showed great strength.

"Message from Liverpool, captain." The man frowned as he read the message. "German destroyer sighted off coast. About your size. Going your way. Probably meet you next week. Be ready. Norfolk may encounter her before you. Signed, Chief Operator, Liverpool."

He gave an answer to the operator, then went below to converse with the chief engineer.

The operator whistled. This was news indeed. "Christmas next week, too. Whew, the men will be mad."

At mess the captain broke the news which was greeted with such words as, "We'll finish her." "Hope the Norfolk doesn't get her," and a few grunts of dismay.

Next morning the watch called out, "Ship ahoy, to starboard." Instantly every one was on foot. As the ship neared, the British flag was seen and it was met by lusty cheers. The ship was H. M. S. Queen Mary, one of the best ships of the navy. The two ships exchanged signals. H. M. S. Queen Mary was going around South America to drive German ships off that part of the Pacific. Daily rations were served and the men seemed in good spirits although some were really much depressed.

Two days passed and it was the first day of Christmas week. All day eager eyes scanned the sparkling Atlantic but no sign of life was seen. Next day a ship was sighted bearing the French flag but it was too far away to signal. All next day the Essex swung at her cable like a watchdog, with guns loaded and men ready. Finally Thursday dawned and the ship changed her position a little more north-west. This move met with no success and through that night more than half the men were awake. About four o'clock a brilliant light was seen searching the ocean. The Essex's light now began to play and soon distinctly was seen a destroyer about her own size flying the German flag. The biggest gun on board was loaded and then the Essex was ready for battle. The German destroyer advanced under full speed showering balls on the Essex. The loss was a few men. When within a quarter of a mile the British fired their broadsides for all they were worth. One shot hit the German boat in the smoke stack toppling it over. In return a German shot went through one of the wireless poles, knocking it over.

The fight went on till the German destroyer came near enough to try to board the Essex but were repulsed with heavy loss. At the end of three hours fierce fighting, the Essex wireless was cut, one funnel knocked over two hundred men dead and wounded. The German destroyer was in an even more pitiful condition. Suddenly, where the sky seems to meet the ocean there appeared a large cruiser. By the type it was German.

"Get ready to fire the big gun!" Accordingly a group of sailors took their station at the gun and made ready to fire. The other German boat that had been rapidly approaching suddenly stopped short. Then there was great confusion on board and the boat began to sink. The German destroyer, seeing the plight of the large cruiser, hastened to the rescue, but as she started a loud boom was heard and the German destroyer was shot through by the big gun on the Essex's deck.

This ended the battle and the German destroyer so rapidly that a chance of saving some lives was hoped.

The personalities indulged at the last meeting of the aldermen in discussing the liquor situation in this city do not help the matter to a reasonable solution. What the people want in this city is an adequate check on the wholesale transportation of liquor into this city by outside liquor dealers, caused in the first place by the action of the aldermen in refusing to grant the usual express licenses last summer. Don't forget that the aldermen themselves created the present unpleasant situation.

As a result of refusing to comply with the spirit of the decision of the Supreme court in this matter, a situation has developed which requires either additional legislation to further restrict liquor transportation, or a return to the former system, and possibly both may prove to be necessary, for it is certain that a return to the old plan at the present time would cure the matter only in part, as the consumers of liquor in this city have found that they can get it without paying express charges and they will be reluctant to give up that privilege.

It is quite a problem to solve the present question for the best interests of the city and temperance. If stricter legislation can be secured, and that is probably doubtful, the result may be still worse than at present, for liquor will still come in some way or other,
and kitchen barrooms are likely to start up all over the city.

One great mistake has been made in the discussion of this question by endeavoring to create sympathy for the expressmen over the loss of this business. It is to be hoped that the personal interests of less than twenty men, should not affect the judgment of the city government in deciding the matter. It is not the expressmen who should be considered, but it is the customers of the expressmen, citizens of Newton, and entitled by decision of the Supreme court to have liquor transported to their homes if they so desire.
Let us look beyond the trivial pecuniary interests of the expressmen to the far greater interest of the rights of our own citizens, and let us not forget that the term citizen covers the Italian, French, Polish and other foreign elements of our city.

The Graphic favors the granting of liquor permits to all decent expresmen, with the hope that in time, all the liquor brought into Newton will eventually come thru that channel;
also an attempt to secure legislation to prevent the delivery of liquor here by persons engaged in that business in other places. It is so doubtful however, whether such legislation can be secured, that the aldermen should devote their energies to securing the best results under existing laws, and not waste valuable time in waiting for problematical action of the Legislature.

Next Tuesday evening the aldermen will consider the advisability of asking authority from the next Legislature to make improvements in Nonantum square, and while the very broad scheme of the Planning Board may not meet with entire approval, it is earnestly to be hoped that the authority to at least arcade the northeast
side of Centre street from the Post office to Jefferson street may be obtained. The real congestion of the square is occasioned by the narrowness of this part of the principal outlet and should receive immediate attention.

It is to be hoped that the new vice-president of the M. & B. St. Rwy. Co.
will be able to order the present general manager to so arrange his schedule as to prevent the bunching of cars in Nonantum square. Something is wrong with a system that allows a wait of twenty minutes on a line supposed to run on twenty minute schedule.

POLITICAL NOTES

A petition is in circulation requesting the board of aldermen to elect Mr.
Ernest W. Paine of Hovey street, to fill the vacancy in the ward one delegation caused by the removal of Alderman Blakemore to ward 7. Mr. Paine has been a resident of Newton for eighteen years and is a prominent builder and contractor. The petition is receiving a large number of signatures.

POLICE NOTES

In the Police Court Monday morning, Judge John C. Kennedy imposed a fine of $10 upon John W. Warren, 65, of 440 Winchester street, Newton Highlands, on the charge of selling cigarettes to a minor.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

Residents of the quiet village of Waban were greatly shocked to learn Saturday morning that Mrs. Annie Burgess, the widow of the late Harry
G. Burgess, had been found unconscious on the floor of her bungalow on Pine Ridge road, where she had evidently lain for two days or more.
Mrs. Burgess entertained the Altar Guild of the Church of the Good Shepherd, on Tuesday afternoon and a neighbor had visited her on Wednesday evening. On Saturday morning her neighbors, Mrs. George K. Heald and Mrs. H. O. Stetson noticed that the milk of several mornings had not been taken into the house and asked Michael Cummings to help them investigate. Cummings broke a window and thru which Mrs. Burgess could be heard breathing and entering the house she was found lying on the floor in her nightclothes, having evidently been taken with a stroke of paralysis on getting up Thursday morning. There was no fire in the house, and she was without a servant.
She was taken to the Newton Hospital where she had partial returns to consciousness but passed away late Sunday night. She was 55 years of age and a native of England, and has two sisters in that country, and one brother in Franklin, Mass. Mrs. Burgess was one of the oldest communicants of the Church of the Good Shepherd and was a woman of the highest Christian character, who has made a lasting impression on the community.
Funeral services were held at the Church of the Good Shepherd Wednesday morning, Rev. James C. Sharp,
the rector, officiating and the pall bearers were Messrs. Lewis H. Bacon, William H. Oakes, William Saville, D.
M. Hill, H. L. Tilton and George K.
Heald. The interment was at the Newton Cemetery.

DARTMOUTH DANCE

The most extensive entertainment of the Christmas season will be held on December 29 when the sectional clubs
of Boston comprising the Brookline, Newton, Somerville, and Salem clubs give a dance at the Copley-Plaza. In addition to these organizations the Boston Alumni have joined in with the project and have given up plans for a separate dance to combine with the undergraduates. The hundred couples are expected to be present. The large ball room of the hotel will be decorated with Dartmouth insignia
and will offer ample accommodations for a large gathering. Dancing will commence at 8.30 and will continue until two o'clock.

For the benefit of the older alumni,
who do not dance there will be card tables placed in the foyer, where they may enjoy themselves. During the intermission, there will be exhibition
dancing, and selections by the Dartmouth quartette composed of Harry McDevitt '07, Sturgis Pishon '10, and Clark Tobin '10, accompanied on the piano by Lester Wiggins, '10.

In order to make it easier for those living out of Boston to get home arrangements have been made for a special car from the hotel directly after the dance to run through Brookline and the Newtons. K. D. Tucker
'16, is in charge. Another car is hoped to be secured to go to Somerville for which C. N. Holmes '16 is arranging.
The matrons for the dance are: Mrs.
Melvin O. Adams, Mrs. Frank C. Brewer, Mrs. George R. Clark, Mrs. C. S.
Fuller, Mrs. E. K. Hall, Mrs. H. A.
Johnson, Mrs. E. F. Nichols, Mrs.
Lewis Parkhurst and Mrs. James P.
Richardson.

PRESENTED WITH WATER SET

On Wednesday evening at the close of the annual meeting of the Newton Upper Falls A. A., Mr. William T. Halliday, the retiring treasurer, was presented with a cut glass water set.
President James P. Stanton, who made the presentation speech, said in part,
that it was with much regret that on-ing to his business relations which compelled Mr. Halliday to live in another part of the city, the club was compelled to accept the resignation of one who had been instrumental in the welfare of the club from the start, both
as an athlete and socially.

Mr. Halliday, who was completely taken by surprise, said that, though owing to his other duties he was compelled to retire as treasurer, his interest would always be with the club and its members, many of whom he had associated with since childhood.

LETTER FROM ABROAD

We are glad to give space to another letter from Mr. Edward S. Curtis of Chester Hill, who is assisting the American committee for the relief of Belgium.
Maas Hotel, Rotterdam
Dec. 8, 1914.

Dear —
I have taken a few minutes from office hours in which to write you.
Since my last letter I have been in and out of Brussels seven or eight times carrying official mails. An average trip in the car I now have takes from 5 to 6 hours.

Among other adventures I have had,
I was stopped at the frontier, trip before last my letters were taken from me and I was given an armed guard of two soldiers under whose care I was taken before the Commandant at Antwerp. There my papers were examined carefully. They were quite all right and as soon as the generals, etc., saw that I was harmless, they treated me with the utmost cordially.
— gave me cigars, cigarettes and drinks and begged my pardon for delaying me. We had a handshake all round and I went on my way to Brussels, an amusing and at first slightly terrifying experience—but a bore because it delayed me about 3 hours.

I imagine you have read in the papers of the work of this Commission.
You have also read, no doubt, many fakelike very harmful to the success of the enterprise. You can take it from me that anything speaking against the Commission is false and anything for the Commission is true.
The extent of the undertaking can be realized when you learn that the minimum amount of food required is $0.00 tons per month which can only be covered by the sum of 5 millions of dollars a month. As per my cable
I expect to go to the Brussels office
very shortly, tho' I am not sure.

There is no cause to worry, for Brussels is safer than London at present. . . . If you want a really good account of the sufferers in Belgium I suggest that you read Sir Gilbert Parker's article to the American Press which appeared about December 1st. It may be interesting to know that when that article was first inserted and read by Sir Gilbert, men like Mr. Hoover, the chairman, Capt.
Lucey and others actually wept.

It all happened at Flushing while waiting for the boat last Wednesday night.

I must stop now, I am well and happy. Shall write when I can and cable occasionally.

I have received your various letters and cables. Edward.

GOOD ADVICE FROM TEXAS

Col. Lee Rountree of the Georgetown Commercial is making a desperate effort to change the old adage,
"Plant more hogs," to "Sow more plants," claiming that way of expressing it to be more correct. To our way of thinking, the proper way is to sow wheat for winter pasture, sorghum
or something else for summer pasture, plant corn for feed, and "raise" the hogs.—W. T. Carter in Killeen Herald.

We are not going to quarrel with Editor Carter whether Texas "sows"
"plants," "raises" more hogs, or "plants" more hogs. The question of "hogs" is only a figure. The proposition to raise fewer dogs
and more hogs, build more cotton mills and boost fewer politicians, build more silos and buy fewer automobiles, is the slogan that ought to put the people of Texas to thinking. As a whole, the Commercial has nothing personal against the dog, the automobile or the politician. But when it comes to actually turning the State over to these three institutions and then raise cotton alone there is a day of reckoning. The salvation is (1)
more hogs; (2) the building of more cotton mills, and (3) less political legislation. There are too many men in Texas who are not working; there are entirely too few persons who are not paying their debts and trying to act the millionaire; there are vastly too many people living beyond their income, and above and beyond all are too many persons trying to do the impossible—raise Hades on a dime.—
Georgetown (Texas) Commercial.

Alderman Albert F. Bemis of Chestnut Hill who recently made a six months' trip around the world, gave an illustrated talk of his visit of over two months in India, to members of the city government, the city officials and their ladies on Monday evening at the City Hall. Mr. Bemis wore a native Indian costume, consisting of white cotton trousers gathered at the ankle, a gray embroidered loose fitting blouse, an embroidered mantle or shawl draped around one arm and shoulder and a green turban. Mr.
Bemis gave a brief description of his entire trip and then showed over a hundred stereoscopic views which he had taken in the principal cities of India and Burmah, many of them being colored and all of them being particularly distinct and interesting. As the pictures were thrown on the screen Mr. Bemis gave a description of the place it represented. The talk was punctuated with many a reference or comparison of Indian conditions and matters which had been more or less prominent in city affairs and which were highly appreciated by those present. At the close of the lecture refreshments were served by Paxton.

A RARE DISEASE

Mr. Thomas Brison residing at 14
Beach street, Newtonville, died last week Wednesday after a long illness with the very rare disease in this part of the country, pellagra. While the cause of this disease is unknown it is thought to be due to eating of corn products which have become fermented. It is always fatal and usually makes its appearance on the hands and forearms, which turn black and gradually wither. Mr. Brison was at the Newton Hospital for two months and was given every possible attention. He was 56 years of age and a painter by trade. Funeral services were held on Saturday, Rev. J. Edgar Park of West Newton officiating and the interment was at the Newton Cemetery.

VICIOUS INTERESTS VS. SUFFRAGE

By William Jennings Bryan
In The Commonwealth

The returns from the election of 1914 show woman's suffrage successful in Montana and Nevada and unsuccessful
in Ohio, Missouri, North and South Dakota and Nebraska. The defeat in five States, while a disappointment to those who were working for woman's suffrage, will not discourage their efforts.

Woman's suffrage is coming—nothing in the future is more certain. Every day's discussion among the people increases the adherents and weakens the opposition. The very means employed to prevent it are sure to cause disintegration among the anti-suffrage forces. The active opposition to woman's suffrage is to be found in the brewery, the distillery and the saloon, and when this fact is known, those who are associated with the anti-suffragists will inquire the cause. When the cause is known,
there will be wholesale abandonment
of that side, for the most active opponents of equal suffrage can not give their real reason for opposing it without driving all the virtuous elements of society to the support of woman's suffrage.

The good people are in the majority in every community; a community in which the bad people were in the majority would not be fit to live in. Even the bad people would find it unprofitable to live in a community wholly bad, for the bad are poor picking even for the vicious. Unless the bad can prey upon the good, their vocation is profitless.

The bad are a unit against woman's suffrage. Every woman who profits
by vice; every man who draws dividends on crime; every man who makes it his business to encourage sin of any kind—all these are by instinct opposed to woman's suffrage because they know that woman's conscience is against their business. Why do the better elements divide in the presence of a united opposition? Why? Because they do not understand the nature of the contest.

Man's sense of justice cries out against the unfairness of present conditions. The man who sets traps for the boys and lays snares for the ballot and uses it in support of his work of destruction. Who will say it is fair to tie a mother's hands and deprive her of the ballot while she is trying to save her son? What husband can be formed, will make the side of the saloon keeper against his own wife? If he fails to recognize his wife's rights, the son will not fail to recognize the rights of his mother;
but the husbands will not wait for the sons to do this work.

It is argued that women will not vote. Well, many men do not vote.
A large part of the campaign work
each year consists in getting the voters
out. It has cost the blood of millions of the best and bravest to secure for the people the right to participate in the government; yet men stay away from the polls for trifling causes. Men who would not hesitate to enlist in the army and give their lives for their country, sometimes neglect to vote, even when important questions are at issue. If many women stay away from the polls they will not do worse than many men do.

But those who oppose woman's suffrage on the ground that women will not vote (and it so happens that the very men who oppose woman's suffrage for fear women will vote wrong are the very ones who are the most likely that will not vote at all) overlook
the value of the reserve force that can be brought into action in emergencies. We have heard a great deal of reservists since the war broke out in Europe. A reservist is a citizen who does not serve in the regular army, but who can be called to the colors when necessary. Reservists have been returning from the United States to all belligerent countries to take part in the war. If the women do not all vote all the time—if they are content to let the men settle the ordinary questions—they will still constitute a great reserve force ready for duty when needed. Whenever an issue arises which touches the home or deeply concerns the welfare of society, the women can be called upon
—and they will not fail.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—In order to start the New Year right treat yourself to a performance of "Grumpy", with Cyril Maude, now on the eve of its eighth week at the Plymouth Theatre, Boston. You'll never regret it. As a matter of fact it is almost safe to predict that you will want to see it again. That's what a great many of New England playgoers are doing just now. They just can't help from seeing this play the second and third time. "Grumpy" is just the kind that is entertaining to all classes of theatre-goers. It is a splendid mixture of love, comedy, romance and drama. It is a thrilling detective story cleverly woven around the mysterious theft of a valuable diamond. It is one of the finest pieces of acting that Boston has witnessed in years. The piece is splendidly staged and well acted. The usual Thursday and Saturday matinees are given.

HIGH SCHOOL PROBLEMS
 Parents and Teachers Hold An Interesting Conference Wednesday Evening

On Wednesday, Dec. 16th about 300 parents of pupils of the Newton High Schools assembled in the hall at the Classical High School, where a very interesting meeting was held. Its object was to promote closer relations and a fuller and better understanding between the home and the school and to present some difficult problems, the satisfactory solution of which depends upon the united action of home and school.
 Superintendent Wheeler, in his introductory remarks, strongly advocated the co-operative plan as being a great factor in carrying on the work of the schools more efficiently. He compared the schools of olden times to our schools of today; the spirit of co-operation existed then; the home co-operated with the school and the work was well done. Children never complained of bad treatment at school. A limited amount of learning was given. But we would not wish to go back to the old times.

The schools of today have larger responsibilities, and larger questions. The modern school system is a complex matter. There are 2000 pupils enrolled in our High Schools.
 The superintendent expressed his deep regret that Mr. Adams, the principal of the Classical High School was unable to be present, as he had some questions he wished to submit to the place was filled by Mr. S. Warren Davis, who for 30 years has been a teacher in the High School, and by Mr. Charles S. Thomas, head of the English Department of the Classical High School.
 Mr. Wheeler stated that on Wednesday afternoon three gentlemen from Philadelphia visited all the departments of the High Schools and when they had finished the rounds one of them remarked "I see you have one of the real old-fashioned High Schools; a school based on the old methods."

Mr. Thomas of the English Department spoke on three things; the curriculum itself; things outside and certain things that involve the two. We are not basing the work entirely on the English and feel that we are right in admitting other things into the school. French, German, Science, English and History and a chance for the development of the aesthetic. It was maintained that un-aesthetic buildings should not be allowed in the community. Mr. Thomas believes that it is better for the student to take comparatively less in other things and devote more to the English and the other departments along these lines and for the most part it has been found practicable.

He has found that the other departments are willing to co-operate with the English and that the spirit of co-operation exists in the schools. Mr. Thomas spoke of the work and opportunities outside of the curriculum itself; school spirit and spirit of loyalty to the school in the outside attractions. He believes that athletics should be encouraged under the direction of the faculty and the combined supervision of the three schools. Many of the departments have clubs; there are entertainments where teachers and pupils meet in a different relationship which is of benefit to both, but the work in other lines, athletic, musical and literary, is the most important, which really constitutes the development of character.
 He believes in developing the right sort of idealism but would not wish to surrender culture, literature and art for idealism, which is really a very practical thing. Idealism is the foundation of the character of the schools; it has established this school and other schools and reaches to the souls of the pupils. Not in making life too serious, but in filling it with a brighter and deeper purpose.

We do not accomplish our ideals when problems of education are not yet solved.
 Mr. Irving O. Palmer, principal of the Technical High School, said that the old type of school has a longer history than he would take time to tell. When the Technical school was first opened there was instruction in five courses: Extra Technology Course designed to prepare students for business. The College course for engineering schools and colleges; Technical course, a general education with some technical work. Fine Arts course for students of special aptitude and as a preparation for advanced art. The Clerical course offers a business course for more responsible positions.
 The Vocational and Technical are two separate schools. At the present time the work of the Technical is carried on in three fields and four courses of study, the fifth having disappeared. Some of the graduates of the Technical School are in different colleges and do credit to the school. The majority of the Fine Arts graduates are in more advanced schools.
 While boys and girls are in school they have the opportunity of the corrections of the teacher, but when they leave school and enter business it is a different atmosphere and a different sort of test.
 The boy must learn to work without supervision; he must avoid mistakes and accept responsibilities; he must do a particular task and do it well without making mistakes and give satisfaction to his employer. Out of 270 pupils in the last year from the Technical School, 12 went to higher institutions; 236 have entered some mercantile business where they have remained to their own benefit and the satisfaction of their employer.
 Mr. Palmer expressed his approval of vacation work. One half of the present senior class at the school was employed during vacation and returned to school better equipped for the coming year's work. Sixty-nine of the young men in the Technical School earned over $6000.

Mr. Palmer pleaded guilty to having taught school for 27 years in three New England States and he said that for earnest effort, satisfactory and effective work in efficient after service he has never seen better and more satisfactory work than in the Newton Technical High School.
 Mr. M. W. Murray, supervisor of Manual training in the Technical High School said that the type of education

we have to deal with in the vocational schools is older than any of our schools or books. In olden times man had to make his living, get food and clothing, before he could educate himself. The movement in the vocational school is comparatively new, going back some 40 years. Our vocational schools originated in Massachusetts in 1896, about the time of the Douglas Commission. If the industries were to maintain their place, something had to be accomplished along these lines. There were 25,000 boys and girls who were not profiting by a high school education.
 The late Mr. Frank A. Day started the experiment of a vocational school in Nonantum, for boys who were not able to go to the high school, or get a start along mechanical lines.
 The causes have for their controlling purpose, to give boys proper training to fit themselves for profitable employment. The girls are trained to be cultured and at the same time be able to manage their homes. After operating the school for two or three years, it became evident that it was not a sound business arrangement at Nonantum. For lack of funds they were unable to develop the work along the lines for the mechanical courses. Our schools are not competing with other schools in Engineering training and industries.
 To make the best possible arrangement for the boys and girls they decided to organize these two schools into one so that it could be placed under the State Board of Education. We now have two schools within one to accommodate both classes. It gives instruction to 323 pupils; instruction in shop-work, cooking and sewing. The cost to care for each pupil is $148.64 against $65.

less. A few minutes later a ripple on the water was seen and a British submarine appeared. Loud cheers responded. Afterwards it was found out that the German cruiser was sunk by a submarine.

That night extra rations were served and the men said it had been a good Christmas day for the nation, at least.

REGINALD CAPON.

A HAPPY CHRISTMAS

Billy was a little waif. To get only enough bread to live on he hired himself as a stable boy to an old man who treated him unkindly and made him eat and sleep in a barn.

Billy did a great many kind things for people. One Christmas Eve when he was sitting on the barn floor enjoying his piece of dry bread, a woodcutter called to him from without.

"I left my coat in the forest on the hillside when I was cutting wood. If you get it for me, I will give you a few pennies."

"Of course I will, but I don't want a cent," said Billy promptly, "for you have always been kind to me."

"You take the road up the hill until you come to two paths; turn to the right one. You will find my coat hanging on a tree just as you enter the forest," said the woodcutter.

On Billy started. He hurried along but when he came to the forked path he heard a moaning a short way up the left path but he went on for the coat.

On his way down he heard the moaning again. He stopped to look and listen. The moon was shining brightly and showed him a little house standing back from the road, but all was dark therein. The moaning continued and the nearer he walked the plainer it seemed.

Billy called aloud, "Does any one need help?" and back came the answer, "Come in! come in!"

Most boys would have been afraid to do so, but Billy had never known fear and turned the door handle and walked in. The bright moonlight streamed through the window and plainly showed him an old man lying on the floor. The room was cold for the fire had died away.

Billy took a match from his pocket and struck it. He lit a lamp which he found on the table, covered the old man with a blanket, and put a pillow under his head. Then he proceeded to build a fire, all without any direction from the old man. By the time Billy had brought him a cup of hot milk to drink, his moaning had ceased and he smiled at Billy kindly.

The old man told Billy he had come in after milking his cow and feeding his chickens, and stumbled and struck his head against a sharp corner and lost his senses. When he regained his consciousness he was in great pain.

The little house was very comfortable, but very simple. It seemed quite fine to Billy who had never remembered a home.

Billy talked with the old man a long time and told him about himself and then Billy remembered the coat and said he must be going.

"But you must come and eat Christmas dinner with me," and Billy joyfully promised.

His face was shining with happiness when the kindly old man opened the door for him Christmas day. He smelt roasting chicken.

He had a good meal that day. It was the best dinner he had ever remembered.

As they sat together in the afternoon, talking, the old man told many a story of his life and the last one of how his wife died and he had been very lonely since.

The time passed so quickly that Billy jumped up when the clock struck four saying he must return to his evening work.

But to his surprise the old man said, "I am going with you to tell your master that your home is with me now."

That was Billy's happiest Christmas.

Love always is rewarded.

BEATRICE SMYTH.

THE SECRET

It was a cold day about the first of December in the year of 1863, during the Civil War, when little Betty, a girl of ten, was walking down a country road of Virginia. She was poor and lived alone with her mother and one older brother in a shabby little house on the edge of a thick wood.

As she was walking along, she heard a faint cry from the bushes. She turned and saw a soldier half dead. He called to her and said, "Little girl, will you please take me to your home?"

"I'm afraid I can't," she said. "We're poor and we couldn't give you much to eat but perhaps I can get the mayor to take you."

"No! no! child I don't care if I don't get much to eat and if you and your family can keep this secret and will let me go to your house, you may help win some great battle."

So Betty went home and told the family about the man who she didn't tell one thing about winning the battle because she thought it was best not to.

Then her father got their old team and went with Betty to the place. They took the man home and made him comfortable.

Next day when Betty went to the pump to get water, all the girls asked her who the man was at her house, but she never told a word and hardest of all, on the way home she met the mayor and his wife in his fine carriage.

He stopped his horse beside her and said, "Who is that man I saw in your house?" Betty turned pale. Then the mayor continued, "You know we can't take any chances these days." But Betty said never a word.

HUNNEWELL CLUB

The Neighborhood Club of West Newton was guests of the club at the usual Neighborhood Night on Tuesday and there were friendly contests in pool, billiards and bowling. The visitors winning the pool and billiards and losing both matches at bowling. Mr. T. O. Marvin had an easy match at pool with Mr. E. O. Loring, while Mr. Fred Hill beat Mr. E. E. Hayward 2 points at billiards. There was great interest in the bowling matches, the Hunnewell club team rolling up the unusual total of 2903, and making a total of 995 in one string, in spite of the fact that one member of the team only bowled 106. Mr. Andrews of the Neighborhood second team negotiated a spare by getting pins 6, 7, 8 and 10 on his second ball. The dance floor was also a great attraction during the entire evening. Refreshments were served and Mrs. E. P. Tuttle, Mrs. E. R. Uley, Mrs. Loring L. Marshall and Mrs. C. C. Colby poured.

The club team won two out of three in the Newton League Bowling match on Wednesday night with Riverdale, although their opponents had a greater total than the home team. Wellington with 232 was high man for the club team.

WOMEN'S CLUBS

MISS GRACE M. BURT, Editor

Never within our history have the blessings of living in a free country been more clearly evident than they are today when our mother countries across the sea are engaged in the awful conflict which is rending them asunder. When the war cloud broke last August we were stunned. Our minds failed to comprehend its meaning. We had thought ourselves civilized and to be suddenly plunged back into the Middle Ages was a shock from which we have not even yet recovered. The sacrifice of the young manhood of all the countries involved, the wanton destruction of country and property, and the terrible atrocities committed upon non-combatants—all these and many more too numerous to mention are the dark side of the shield. That there is a brighter side is the hope of civilization and it is upon this we should dwell at this Christmas season. The deeds of heroism of which the world will never hear, the tremendous outpouring of wealth to aid the suffering, and above all, to quote from Dr. David Starr Jordan in a recent address, the fact that none of the nations involved are willing to acknowledge that they began it, are among the things which may give us courage to believe in human nature and the ultimate triumph of good over ill. The day when there shall be no more war seems at this time far distant, yet it may not be so far as we imagine, and while we rejoice in the one hundred years of peace along our northern boundary we use all our influence toward making the same thing true along the much shorter one on our south. Too much cannot be said and done in urging the substitution of peaceful methods of settlement of international difficulties. The horrors of war need no demonstration today and never have the glories of peace shone forth so triumphantly as they do at this minute. Let us take to our hearts the remark of Normal Ansell to Dr. Jordan, "Jordan, we are beaten, but we were right." Let us use our efforts, particularly among the young people, more persistently than ever before, that we may not be beaten again, and that the cause of peace may triumph, because it is true and righteous altogether.

Local Happenings

Mrs. O. E. Nutter opened her home last Thursday evening for a meeting of the Pierian Club to which the gentlemen were invited to hear Rev. Mr. Benjamin speak on "Alaska." Mr. Benjamin has spent several months in the country and by his descriptions impressed his hearers with its vast size as they had never realized it before. He said that it is in every way a country of great extremes—socially, physically and in its climate. He dwelt especially on the way in which it has been governed and feels that the enormous taxes, which have been exacted from the people, have prevented the development, of which the country is capable. Miss Benjamin added to the pleasure of the evening by her songs. Refreshments were served by a committee under the direction of Mrs. L. P. Everett.

N. T. H. S.

Only eight pupils in the school received an average of "B" for the first quarter of the year. There were two Freshmen, John Lewis and Charles Richards; one Sophomore, Robert Reno; one Junior, Joseph Noone, and four Seniors, James W. Strang, Margaret Mutch, Grace Bowen, and Rachel De Ruscha. The boys beat the girls five against three.

The Public Declaration is to be held in the Assembly Hall on the night of January 22nd. Dramatics, musical selections and elocution exercises will make up the program, which is for the benefit of the school library.

The Senior Assembly was presided over by John Kelleher, chairman of the Christmas Entertainment committee. An interesting secretary's report was read by Miss O'Connell. Besides all Seniors, two other divisions were in the Hall. Rev. Edgar Park, of the West Newton Congregational church, was on the platform, and was introduced as having a story to read. Mr. Park's story was called "The Squabble in our Village," and, using characters in the village to stand for different nations of the world, he very cleverly told the story of the war, and concluded with a Municipal Christmas tree at which all the nations were present. The applause was hearty when Mr. Park finished. To close the song, "The Star of the East," was sung by nine of the Seniors with Ralph Davis at the piano.

The Sophomore class held a class meeting and elected the following to serve as a nominating committee: Dennis Sullivan, Hall Caggins, Miss Ruth Taylor, and Miss Anne McKeon. All the girls went to the Hall to the Wednesday Assembly. A division of Junior girls had charge of the entertainment. Miss Thompson played a piano solo. The dramatization of "The Bird's Christmas Carol" was enjoyed by all.

Mr. Kidger, head of the History department, was absent from school because of the death of his mother. Mr. Stevens conducted his classes as well as his own.

OVERCOME BY SMOKE

Christopher Dunleavy, overcome by smoke early Saturday morning, when an overturned lamp set fire to his room in the boarding house conducted by Mrs. Mary L. Jones at 353 Washington street, Newton, was rescued by patrolmen T. L. Dolan and Charles H. Tainter. When brought out of the house Dunleavy was unconscious and he was taken to the office of Dr. Marston where he was revived. The fire was discovered by another boarder shortly before 4 o'clock, and an alarm was sounded from box 117. The two patrolmen were in the vicinity when the alarm came in and rushed immediately into the house and brought Dunleavy to the street. The blaze caused considerable smoke and damaged the room to the extent of about $50.

XMAS PLAY

Pupils of the eighth grade, Burr School, Auburndale, wrote and produced, under the direction of their teacher, Miss Gilmore, a Christmas play entitled "Hope Foster's Christmas Star." Hope is one of three children who are making Christmas wishes. Her wish is that her lost mother may be found.

In a dream a fairy pilot to her forehead a wonderful Christmas star, whose magic shows how to forget what you want and to remember what others want. David, her adopted brother, a newsboy, discovers the secret of a famous robbery, and as a result Tom, the Policeman, brings him the big reward. Hope's story of her dream and of her lost mother softens the landlady, Mrs. Hardheart, who has made Christmas week sad because of the rent. Dr. Brown and his sister find Hope's mother in time to make her Christmas so happy that she forgets her lameness. The play ends in a delightful reunion, even the landlady sharing in the true Christmas spirit.

The role of Hope Foster was filled by Mary Whalen and Fred Manter made a lively newsboy. The part of Nan, his sister, was acted by Hilda Laurence and Ruth Stickney was great as the landlady. Miss Clapp was the doctor and Esther Smith was the doctor's sister. Mary Southall was the long lost Mrs. Foster and Thomas H. Treddin made a fine policeman. The carol singers were Raymond Robbins, Roger Clarke, Benjamin Lane, Joseph Albee and Harold Scott. Joseph Albee and Lester Blair had charge of the scenery and Lois Bowditch and Eleanor Lahevan of the Properties and Costumes.

The play was witnessed by teachers and parents who spoke highly of the performance. It was a credit to Miss Gilmore and her pupils.

NEWTON CENTRE WINS

Newton Centre took four points from the Chestnut Hill Squash Tennis Club in the Massachusetts Squash Racquets League series Saturday afternoon at the Newton Centre Club.

The stellar match on the programme was that in which R. C. Dana of Newton vanquished Wheeler of Chestnut Hill after a memorable struggle. The match went five games and was nipped and-tuck all the way.

Dana won the initial game, 15-11, but lost the second encounter, 13 to 13, after the score had been tied at 8 all, 9 all, 10 all and 13 all. Dana won the third game, which was replete with brilliant rallies, while Wheeler annexed the fourth set-to, 15-11. The Chestnut Hill player was leading Dana during the early stages of the final game, but he was unable to maintain his advantage and was beaten out, 15 to 10.

There were two four-game matches, Richardson of Newton beating Winslow of Chestnut Hill and Andrews of Newton defeating Hovey of Chestnut Hill.

In the fourth match Bray of Newton had no trouble in disposing of Hollowell of Chestnut Hill in straight games.

In the Classical and $74. In the Technical. The school has done over $12,000 worth of productive work in the past. In the Vocational school one and a half hours a day is devoted to the pupil for Music, English, History, Mathematics, Science and Physical training.

They insist on educating the boys in other lines as well as mechanics. Mr. Murray wished to make it clear that while the Vocational School does not aim to prepare students for College, yet they may take advance courses. The problem of girls' work and boys' work is somewhat different and divided into classes, those girls who are so situated that they may remain at home and a large number that will have to work.

Girls are allowed to specialize. Some plan to go to Normal schools. There are many difficult problems but we are trying to meet the individual needs and every teacher is doing his or her level best for the boys and girls.

Practically every teacher works from 4 until 6 in the afternoon in the effort to make the school a success.

In conclusion Mr. Murray said that he had not had the pleasure of showing the Newton fathers and mothers thru the departments, but he is planning for an Open Night, and wants their co-operation, help and helpful criticism.

The superintendent then spoke of our High School as a modern Institution and said it was not surprising that under present conditions there are some misunderstood situations.

All children cannot be educated the same way; there are 2000 varieties of minds and each teacher gives instruction to from 15 to 40 different children, and it is impossible to do business on individual lines. Because of all this, he said he would like to answer the questions submitted, but referred the matter to Mr. Davis.

There were 200 questions covering many subjects, a large number of which were answered and explained by Mr. Davis and Mr. Palmer and Mr. Thomas in a very satisfactory manner. Mr. Davis gave it as his opinion that the teachers take too much of the burden of the responsibility from the shoulders of the pupils.

As to questions regarding recitation hours, he said that Mr. Adams had used his best efforts to balance the recitation hours and have the time not exceed 60 minutes.

Mr. Thomas, in his remarks laid emphasis on the personality of the teacher, being an inspiration to the pupil. Some teachers are willing to give more extra time to pupils and in some departments the pupils become entirely dependent on the teachers, but there is no teacher in the schools who is unwilling to co-operate with the students.

It is the policy of the school to discourage tutoring. A census was taken of teachers who are tutoring and out of 850 pupils enrolled only six are being tutored, and these are tutored by teachers who are not regular teachers of the school. In 2 other cases one was a pupil who had entered late and one who had played truant. When students are preparing for college there is more tutoring needed. Mr. Thomas thinks that tutoring is bad for the pupil and should only be allowed in rare cases.

The existing High School Fraternities he also deplored and the question was raised as to what attitude parents should take about pupils joining these clubs. He said that absolutely no school official in this country favors the High School Fraternity.

There are plenty of associations that should have our support but Fraternity in the school should be ignored, tho' the faculty know they exist.

Some reasons against them are that they are undemocratic, increase social functions, encourage snobbishness and affect discipline and school loyalty.

Mr. Palmer said that the question of the boys of the Technical School being ostracized socially had been brought to his attention. He had talked with four boys of the Technical School relative to the matter and two had promptly answered that such was not the case; a third said that a boy in school stands for what he is, and the fourth had seen little evidence of it.

In regard to immorality in the schools Mr. Palmer stated that the boys and girls were kept under the closest and most careful supervision and he believed them to be a good, clean, moral class of boys and girls.

Superintendent Wheeler expressed his gratification at the success of the meeting which he said was brought about by some very public spirited citizens and he apologized for being pessimistic about it and was glad to find so many parents interested.

He also spoke against the existing Fraternities and mentioned the expense incident to membership and hopes that every parent in Newton will oppose the fraternity so that it will die a natural death.

Mr. Wheeler said that ours was as good a system of schools as could be found in the United States and we have some fine teachers, but he was glad to have the co-operation of the parents, and to answer questions, and invite criticism and meet them half way, for sailing on smooth waters does not make good sailors and we are aiming for more efficiency in the schools.

Mr. Wheeler said that the question had been raised as to why the ninth grade had been abolished and studying the situation there were these reasons: It was felt that the work could be better done by trained teachers in the High School; as 9th grade work was High School work; for a great many pupils a year could be saved; and it brings many of the pupils into the High School at a younger age, 13 years, 5 months. The average age in the 8th grade two years ago was 14 years, 5 months, but now they are getting thru the grades quicker. Another reason was that there was plenty of school accommodation in the High School.

It is becoming the universal custom to have an 8th grade system.

Mr. Wheeler believed we had a very efficient High school, meeting all college requirement and fitting our children for future usefulness. Two extra teachers would add to its efficiency and there should be extra teachers to tutor pupils who require additional help, and which should be furnished without cost. He did not favor teachers tutoring their own pupils, but found that many parents would be glad to have their children tutored.

The meeting was most interesting and there were many expressions that similar gatherings should be held in the future.
